FRENCH POPULAR COURSE IN SCHOOL

It is part of the business of the President of the United States to help protect the birds that fly in the air, and he therefore occasionally exercises the power of his great office to set aside additional bird refuge reservations. The last of these reservations is located on two small islands in the Columbia river, at the mouth of the Walla Walla river in the state of Washington. The Biological survey has found these small rocky islets especially desirable as breeding grounds and safe retreats for wild fowl. From early in the winter until the northward migration of wild fowl in the spring the islands have been for years the favorite day-time resting places for hundreds of wild ducks, especially mallards, and wild geese, as well as for gulls, blue herons, and other species in smaller numbers.

Under federal protection there has been a wonderful increase in the numbers of migratory birds. Reckless killing by hunters has been materially checked by the system which operates through federal channels.

EXTEND TELEPHONE SERVICE AT CAPITOL

Use of the telephone by members of congress and by the justices of the supreme court has increased so rapidly during the last few years that at the convening of the 69th congress a new telephone exchange, supplementing the old one, was placed in operation. The new exchange is of sufficient size to serve a city of 15,000 population.

Mrs. Harriet G. Daley, the first telephone operator at the Capitol, is in charge of the new exchange. Connecting the departmental buildings, the Capitol, senate and house offices buildings, including the press galleries, are 1,603 telephones.

The Capitol office, known as Main 3120, has 120 trunk lines, and 80 direct lines to other private branch exchanges of the government. It handles 27,000 calls daily.

COLLEGE GRIDDERS SEEK CHAMPIONSHIP

Coach Brown's Fast Team After Little Five Conference Title, Report

The best football team that Lake Forest college has had for many seasons is out to win the championship of the Little Five Conference, says the Stentor. The stiffest opposition for Lake Forest gridders will come from Carroll College which has eight men back from last year's championship outfit. Lake Forest plays Carroll in its last game of the season at Waukesha, Wis., on Nov. 20. That battle may decide the title, for there is a good chance of both teams going thru the other games undefeated.

When Lake Forest plays Carroll, there will be a mob of gold coasters on the sidelines. Present plans call for the chartering of special cars to take the rooters to the Badger gridiron. Lake Forest is after revenge for the 6 to 0 defeat of last year, and if the preliminary games this year mean anything, it is going to get it.

Now that France and Germany are getting together, Great Britain and Italy are said to be conferring about a possible alliance. Didn't somebody say that the League of Nations would end all that sort of thing?

How Will Your Overcoat Look Next Season?

That is the important question to ask yourself when you make your selection this Fall.

Men who have worn our overcoats in past years know the answer. They have learned to depend on Adler Collegian fabrics and tailoring for real service. They know that these overcoats will fit well and hold their shape after months of wear. That's why they come back to us again and again.

They are proud of Adler Collegians, too, at the beginning of the season when everybody observes that you have a new overcoat. See the smart styles, new weaves and fabrics we are showing. They're priced to save you money. And they're tailored to "Keep You Looking Your Best" next season.
