 Already a number of applications for permits for building have been made during December, and these will be issued shortly, so that the record of improvements for the last month of the year promises to show up well.

FARM BOYS' CLASSES
BRING GOOD RESULTS

Net returns of $608,726 for the crop year 1925 were reported from supervised farm projects of boys enrolled in vocational agricultural classes in Alabama. The average per capita gross return was $307, with a net return of $197.56. Financial returns, however, were not the only benefits received. Agricultural schools promote improved methods of crop growing, conservation of natural resources, and instruction in the installation of electric light plants and water systems on farms, and at the same time stimulate interest in part-time classes for adult farmers and children out of school.
 Vote "YES" on the bond issues Monday.
