SCOUTING PROVED AS CHARACTER EDUCATION

Real Purpose of Organization as Carried on in Many Communities

The Boy Scout troops of the many communities in which they operate are organized for the purpose of character education.

For many years since its inception in 1910, scouting has demonstrated that education in character is just as possible as education in arithmetic.

Characteristics do not "just happen" they are the result of life experiences.

In the scout troop the boy learns the give and take—which is necessary in a social relationship.

He learns team work and unselfishness. The Boy Scout program is based upon an understanding of boy nature.

It gives the boy the things that he is interested in. The program and its leaders also have a forward look toward boy needs.

Scouting is based upon understanding boy nature and fulfilling boy needs.

There are seven scout troops in Highland Park and Highwood under the leadership of men of our community who give of themselves in the development of the boys of our community.

OTHER NATIONS TO BUILD HARD ROADS

FROM AMERICAN EXAMPLE

World-Wide Movement for Improvement of Highways Is Noted; Many Nations Waking Up on Matter

With the good roads accomplishments of the United States as a model, nations in widely separated parts of the world are engaging in comprehensive programs of highway building.

According to a summary issued recently by the touring bureau of the Chicago Motor club.

The world-wide movement for better highways, according to the bulletin issued by the touring bureau is attributable to two factors—the example set by the United States and the realization by the governments that, with cheap automobiles available, lack of highways is a barrier to internal development.

The bulletin lists items of the road building boom in various countries as follows: Road Building Abroad

Mexico: Federal road system created by Mexican congress and fund of $6,000,000 annually provided. The system under construction comprises 1,337 miles.

Japan: Government has tentative ten-year road construction program to cost about $160,000,000 yen, the government to provide about 50,000,000 yen and the remainder to be raised by localities.

Peru: Many miles of highway under construction, some reaching the highest altitudes on record for motor roads.

Cuba: Officials planning expenditure of $9,000,000 annually on system of industrial and tourist motor roads.

Spain: The region around Valencia, Alicante and Castellon, is using the proceeds of a 60,000,000 peseta loan to reconstruct streets and roads.

South America: Almost every South American country is building highways, many making phenomenal progress on transportation facilities.

Montevideo is planning a highway that will make Buenos Aires only six hours distant.

Sweden and Norway: Both countries pushing forward not only in highway construction but in bus line operation.

Women's Club Plans Important Exhibit of Fine Paintings

he was engaged in mural and theatrical work.

But even that interesting period could not draw him from his landscapes to which he has devoted the greater part of his life and he is now known and recognized everywhere as a sincere interpreter of the beauty of our American out of doors entirely unswayed by passing fads and fancies.

The connoisseurs of the east as well as the west have shown that they feel their collections are not complete until they contain at least one example of Mr. Peyraud's beautiful cloud effects.

He has been the recipient of many medals and prizes from different important art exhibitions and is a member of the National Art club, the Cliff-Dwellers club, Association of Painters and Sculptors, Chicago Galleries association and other clubs and societies of art affiliations.

He has resided in Highland Park seven years.

Mr. Rudolph Ingerle is another painter of importance of whom Highland Park has reason to be proud.

Mr. Ingerle was born in Vienna, Austria of Bohemian parents, and came with them to America in his youth.

The artistic gifts that Bohemia grants to her children in such full measure were not denied to him; of these gifts he has chosen the art of pictorial expressions, although those who have heard Mr. Ingerle sing know that had music been the gift he wished to stress that we would have had another great artist in that field.

He studied art at the Art Institute and Smith's academy and through the impetus that these studies gave to his natural talents he developed into one of our foremost landscape painters.

His colorful and beautiful pictures of the Ozark mountains, the Blue Ridge and Cumberlands and the Great Snowy mountains of western North Carolina have given him a place of great distinction in the art world.

He is a member of the Cliff Dwellers club, Palette and Chisel, Association of Painters and Sculptors, Bohemian Arts club, Chicago Galleries association, Art Institute alumni and the North Shore Art league.

He too has received many medals, prizes and honors in important exhibitions.

Mr. Claude Buck is a resident of Chicago and one of the newer men who is being noticed with great interest and approval by those whose judgment finally gives an artist his place.

He was born in New York City, son of an artist father, who trained him in drawing until his eleventh year. At fourteen he entered the National Academy of Design and then studied with Emil Carlson, Francis Jones and George DeForest Brush until he was twenty-two, during which time he received eight prizes for excellence in his work.

Shortly after he appeared in the Galleries of Chicago, many of those pictures are still cherished by their owners, and in the memories of those who saw them.

Then for a period he ceased to exhibit, he had become dissatisfied with his work and so experimented and studied in his home studio for ten years.

Now he is exhibiting in his later manner, pictures resulting from those hard years of experimenting and thought.

His work is "different," he is unique and some of his work is inspired by the humors and tragedies of every day. Some by the extravagant dreams of poets and some by the touching and beautiful episodes in the life of Christ. He is a man with modernistic tendencies who has something to say.

The art chairman has also arranged for Tuesday's program a group of songs to be sung by Estrid (Mrs. Claude) Buck. Mrs. Buck is a well known singer whose beautiful voice has been heard on many fine concert programs.

SOCIALISM ALWAYS HAS MEANT SLAVERY

COMMUNISM LIKEWISE

Would Establish State Dominated by Bureaucrats; Kill Initiatives, Other Ambition. Writer Declares

Socialism and communism are not new and they always mean slavery, according to George B. Lockwood, editor of the National Republic who declares in the current issue of that magazine that they would make of the nation one gigantic poor house or pauper peopled by dependents without ambition or hope.

"It has been the European theory from the days of feudalism that the citizen is the servant of the state; it is the American theory that the government is the servant of the citizen. Between these two theories there is no compromise; one is of the Old World and one is of the New.

More Wasteful; Less Efficient

"We have had in this country some experience in government operation of business. We saw much of it during the World war. We learned that the government does everything more wastefully and less efficiently than does private enterprise. We witnessed the vast loss in money and efficiency under political operation of railroads, government entry into the building of ships and airplanes. All this at a time when the call for patriotism was loud, and it was to have been expected that then, if ever, economy and efficiency would have been the watchwords of public service. The fault was not so much with the men as with the system. No man will work as carefully, as economically and as efficiently for a government as he will for himself and the enterprise in which he is interested and which he takes a personal pride in building. If we complain of this, our quarrel is with human nature.

Government is only a means to an end. That end is the widest opportunity of the individual for life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness consistent with the similar opportunity of others.

Would Be Folly

"The created is not greater than its creator. For men to make of government a Frankenstein monster capable of devouring its builders, would be fatal folly.

"Socialism and communism stand for the exaggerated state, supreme over the lives of men; a state only by grace of which its citizens would possess the bread on their tables and the clothes on their backs.

"Such a state, concentrating in the hands of dominant politicians unlimited power, backed by bayonets, would reduce its citizens to the status of slavery, lay the dead hand of political bureaucracy on every relation of life, destroy the incentive to industry, invention and enterprise and make of the nation a gigantic poor house, sheltering a people without ambition, energy or the hope of progress."

It is said that a censorship is being maintained in Roumania on the news about the queen in the United States. Sometimes we feel that a little censorship on the subject wouldn't be so bad over here either.

The doctors warn us about the dangers of fast eating, and they should pay attention to those politicians who eat their words so rapidly.
