KEEP THE BALLOT CLEAN

Highland Park has been shocked more or less by the recent report of alleged irregularities in voting in the bond issue election in one of the local precincts, where, it is charged, that a dozen or more men who it is claimed were not residents and some of them not even American citizens, cast ballots on Dec. 13. Arrests have been made and the cases are now under the jurisdiction of the state's attorney and the Lake county grand jury.

Investigation into these alleged irregularities was started by the Citizens Taxpayers association of Highland Park and the arrests were made. It is pointed out by the association that a permanent abode is necessary to constitute a residence within the meaning of the election law, and it is urged that judges of election should see that none but qualified voters participate in elections. Yet, it is claimed, that in this case several men, not even citizens, voted.

Regardless of the place and the time of such alleged irregularities, it is essential that the purity of the ballot be safeguarded, and if illegal votes have been cast in any election, it is the duty of the authorities to probe the matter and punish those found guilty. No citizen and no group nor organization can defend vote frauds in any instance and the sooner the present cases are thoroughly investigated the better.

PUBLISH HISTORY OF TRINITY CHURCH HERE

Handsome and Interesting Book Issued by Authority of the Board

A very interesting book containing the "story of Trinity church, Highland Park, Illinois, and of Peter Clark Wolcott, for thirty-four years its rector, written by himself at the request and by the authority of the rector, wardens and vestry of the parish" as it is described in the title page, has been privately printed and is being circulated among members and friends of the church. The number of copies is limited but a few remain to be disposed of. The book is handsomely illustrated and is a comprehensive narrative of the founding and development of the parish "and of the man who brought to it 34 years ago a life already consecrated to the church and a character ripened by the rich experience of many years spent arduously in its service."

Protecting health their business

The plumber who answers your repair call; who installs a new kitchen sink, or a complete, modern bathroom—is truly protecting health.

Bug-infested sinks, broken-down or badly designed plumbing of any sort, all add to the danger of disease. Clean food, frequent bathing and safe house drainage are necessary to health. The sanitary one-piece sink, the modern water closet, and the easy-to-clean enameled or vitreous bathtub—promote health in the home.

To properly serve its purpose, plumbing must be installed properly. This calls for skilled workmanship, good material and high-grade fixtures.
