Wallace stated that petition, copy of which is printed below, was being circulated by himself and others to test out the public feeling. Many persons have already signed this petition and it is developed that the feeling of opposition is general, a meeting will be called to organize this opposition.

Discussed at Length

The matter was discussed at some length, following which a committee was appointed to investigate the proposition from all its various angles and to ascertain, as nearly as possible, what the cost will be to the individual property owner, then to report such findings at the next meeting of the association, the evening of the first Monday in March. GLENCOE CHILDREN TO VIEW FINE PICTURES

Fine Exhibits of Noted Paintings to Be Shown in the Schools There

The art department of the Woman's Library club at Glencoe announces that the Glencoe children are now to have a privilege which not even the grown-ups enjoy, in the form of a changing monthly exhibit of paintings by the best artists of Chicago and the middle west.

The Chicago Galleries' association loans for a period of one year at a nominal rental, a painting, which can be changed for another every month, or kept for a year.

Four members of the Woman's Library club have contributed the necessary amount needed for a loan of three paintings, which are hung in the school halls. Every two months, a committee of two or three women who are good judges of art will select new pictures. The children will thus have the benefit of seeing and enjoying good works of art, and their taste will be unconsciously formed. Paintings now on exhibit in the school are "Master of Ceremonies," by Cassidy; "Autumn in the Woods," by Sitman; and "Gloucester Harbor," by Richman.
