

EMERSON'S AUNT
ECCENTRIC PERSON

LIVED IN HER SHROUD

Curious Facts About New England Woman Brought to Light in Magazine Article

Curious facts about Ralph Waldo Emerson's eccentric aunt are brought to light by Van Wyck Brooks in an article in the February Scribner's Magazine. Calling her "the Cassandra of New England," Mr. Brooks says:

"Miss Mary Moody Emerson lived in her shroud. She had stitched it all herself, and when death refused to come she had put it on as a nightgown, then as a daygown. She was even seen on horseback once, in Concord, cantering through the village street, attired for the grave, with a scarlet shawl thrown about her shoulders.

Was a Dwarf
"Miss Emerson was the daughter of the former minister of Concord who had died in the Revolution. She was a dwarf, four feet three inches tall, with a bold pinkish face, a blue flash in her eyes, and yellow hair cropped close under a mob-cap. She was short and erect as an adder about to strike.

"She could not sit, she could not sleep; a demon drove her pen. For she had survived, a witness of the lofty and terrible religion of John Calvin, to rebuke what she regarded as the poor, pale, unpoetical humanitarianism of the new day. Her voice was the voice of a sibyl, issuing from the caves of the past.

"She was queerer than Dick's hat-band. She was thought to have the power of uttering more disagreeable things in twenty minutes than any other person living. She kept pace with nobody; she had received she said, the fatal gift of penetration, and her mission was to undermine the vanity of the shallow.

Was Satirical
"Was some high matter broached in conversation? Did some rash suppliant invite Miss Emerson's opinion? 'Mrs. Brown,' the sibyl replied, 'how's your cat?' Was some lady praised too warmly in her presence? She pricked the panegyric: 'Is it a colored woman of whom you were speaking? ('Give us peace in our boarders?' she wrote on one occasion, and, when shown the misspelling, she said it would do as it was.) She tore into a chaise or out of it, her nephew Ralph Waldo Emerson observed, into the house or out of it, into the conversation, the character of a stranger, disdaining all the gradations by which others timed their steps; and if she found that anything was dear and sacred to you, she instantly flung broken crockery at it."

CHOW PRICE AFFORDS CHINESE AMUSEMENT

Puppies Quoted at $50 Each in U. S. Worth 35 Cents in China, Report

Fred Kelly in Nation's Business Magazine writes: "In front of a fashionably located dog store window containing a display of Chow puppies, I saw two Chinamen laughing and slapping each other on the back in their outbursts of glee. I don't know when I ever saw Chinamen so emotional. Out of curiosity I sauntered near and tried to see what had amused them. It wasn't any cute antics of the Chow puppies, because all were asleep. Finally, I asked one of the Chinamen what they were laughing at. This brought a fresh outburst, but, after gaining control of himself, the one who seemed to have the best command of English pointed to a small sign which I had not previously noticed. It gave the price of puppies at $50 each.

That price was what made the Chinamen laugh.

"Dogs like that in China cost 35 cents—maybe ten cents," one of them explained.

"But how about a trained dog?" I asked. "Suppose it was an extra good dog?"

"Oh, thirty-6 cents," declared the more conversational one, and his friend nodded agreement.

"Then what does a cat cost?" I inquired.

"Cat, him cost more," promptly replied my new acquaintance. "Good cat catch mice—cost two dollars."

The Pathe News Film service considers the activities of the research in nature department of the Art Institute school worthy of recording in motion pictures, and has recently made films of the classes at work in the Field Museum. Students in the classes draw and design and compose direct from the natural objects, which are to be found in such great profusion in the Field Museum. These embrace animals, birds, reptiles, insects, fish, plant life, the arts of prehistoric man, etc. Pictures are taken of the student in the act of drawing, and of the object he is drawing, and of the finished work. If the student's problem is to make a set of book-ends, or to make a design for dress goods, from some form in nature, the process is thus shown from beginning to end.

What are the Hidden Food Values in HYDROX?

What are Those Values for Which Only the Integrity of the Manufacturer are Responsible?

Your taste will tell you that Hydrox is better than any other Ice Cream you can purchase in your locality. But your chemist will tell you that there are food values—hidden values—values not readily discernible to taste—values that the integrity of the manufacturer alone is responsible for.

What are these values?

FIRST of all: the immeasurable value of more pure, rich cream—more of it than the laws of this state or the laws of any other state require.

SECOND: The definite value of pure fruits and flavors instead of the false value of synthetic flavors and extracts.

And THIRD: The energetic, positive value of pure cane sugar instead of the insipid, illusionary value of glucose. These are the reasons why the food values in Hydrox, both in quality and quantity — both discernible and indiscernible — are higher than the food values of any Ice Cream known to the Middle West.

WE'RE TRYING TO GET OUT of a rut of stereotyped advertising by instilling a little "pep" into our ads, so we will tell you of one of the town boys who walked down the street the other day and seeing something lying on the sidewalk, said to himself: "I wonder whether this is a girl's bathing suit or a fancy cigar wrapper?" You'll not wonder at the coziness of your home after installing a warm air heating system. The equal distribution of warm air in a scientific way will penetrate to every corner of your dwelling. Let us demonstrate some of our warm air heaters.
