The Original Rexall

ONE CENT SALE

What a Rexall One Cent Sale Is

It is a sale where you buy an item at the regular price, then another item of the same kind for one cent. As an illustration: The standard price of Klenzo Dental Creme is 50c, you buy a tube at this price and by paying 1 cent more, or 51 cents, you get two tubes. Every article in this sale is a high class standard piece of merchandise, just the same as is sold every day at the regular price. This sale was developed by the United Drug Co. as an advertising plan. Rather than spend large sums of money in other ways to convince you of the merit of these goods, they are spending it on this sale in permitting us to sell you a full size package of high standard merchandise for 1 cent. It costs money to get new customers, but the sacrifice in profit is justified, knowing the goods will please you.

VISITING DAY AT DEERFIELD-SHIELDS To Be Combined With Annual Exhibit; Parents to See Classes Work

High school visiting day and the annual spring exhibit at Deerfield-Shields will be combined this year, with less emphasis on the exhibit, according to Mr. Peers, chairman of the exhibit committee of the faculty. "This visiting day program has not, of course, been fully worked out," said Mr. Peers, "but it is quite certain that on this day school will start between one and two o'clock in the afternoon and last until eight or nine in the evening. "Parents who visit the school will go with their children to their classes, where the regular class work will be carried on. Teachers will not be expected to put up any exhibit as in former years, except possibly in art, industrial arts, and household arts." The visiting day will probably be on Friday in the first week in April.

SAYS EVERYTHING READY FOR SPRING Mr. Lytton Says First Year of Hub Evanston Shop Has Been Success

"It is just one year ago this week that our Evanston shop made its opening bow to the people of Evanston and the North Shore," George Lytton said this week. "To say that we are pleased with our first year would be putting it mildly. But it merely serves to emphasize our original idea that good merchandise at lower prices in a pleasing environment cannot fail to win an ever increasing, satisfied clientele. If we have made mistakes, be assured we are ever on the alert to correct them and to improve our service. So I feel confident in saying to our Evanston Shop patrons that they may expect even more in the future than they have in the past—in merchandise, in variety, in value and in service. Everything is in complete readiness for spring—now."

be selected as a teacher for the younger boys. Later he went to Williston academy in Massachusetts, intending to prepare for Williams college and to enter the ministry. But the Civil war intervened and he volunteered his service to the Union together with nearly all his school-fellows, never returning to his formal studies.

Civil War Veteran He was company clerk in Company C of the 141st Illinois Volunteers, serving from May 10th, 1864, to October 13th, 1864, entering Kentucky, but never engaging in action. On being discharged he returned to the home farm, and with his brothers, Charles and Edward, undertook the care of their father's 400 acres. For a short time he lived in Battle Creek, Michigan, where he met Mary M. Merritt of West Eaton, New York, who became his wife on October 26th, 1869. They at once took up the work of the farm where they remained for thirty years.

Honored Citizen Mr. Dike was a substantial member of the community, serving for many years as superintendent of the Sunday school, leader of the choir, teacher of the young men's Bible class and secretary of the board of trustees of the Congregational church of Crystal Lake. He was also clerk of the school board and of the township school commissioners. His kindly influence was felt throughout the region, and no one was more often called upon in times of sorrow to give aid and consolation. His temperament was that of a philanthropist and scholar rather than that of a man of business, and his own financial welfare often suffered in the service of others.

Here Since 1914 In March, 1899, Mr. and Mrs. Dike left the farm to live in the village, where they remained until her death on August 24, 1914. From that time until his death he made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Fred Clow, in Highland Park, Ill. During the last twelve years of his life he made a wide circle of new friends in the environment to which he had been transplanted, while maintaining constant touch with the rapidly narrowing circle of former associates.

One of his greatest pleasures in these last years was his connection with the G. A. R. though he was saddened by the inevitable and relentless thinning of their ranks. It was a gratification to him to pass on to the American Legion the duties so long borne by the G. A. R. and to aid in transmitting to them some of the old traditions.

Relatives Living Mr. Dike is survived by his daughter, Mrs. Lyra D. Clow, his son Paul Harrison Dike, and two grandsons, William Gordon and Paul Alexander Dike. Measured in terms of accumulation of wealth his life would be reckoned a failure, but in terms of service and friendliness and godliness it has been a glorious success. He has gone to his reward.
