

Men of Ability and a Policy of Progress

Distinguish the Candidates and Platform of the Coalition Ticket

The City's Business is the Biggest Business in Highland Park

The affairs of the city are as complex and extensive as the affairs of a great corporation. The city's business is the biggest business in this city.

It Takes Big Men to Conduct a Big Business

Men of business experience, actual and tried, are required to run the affairs of a big concern like the city of Highland Park with its annual expenditures of hundreds of thousands of dollars in improvements needed for so rapidly growing a community and the many, varied and complicated matters which a city administration must handle promptly and efficiently.

The Candidates of the Coalition Ticket for Mayor and Commissioners are Picked Men

They are men who have experience in handling large affairs. They have made a success of their own business, in each instance.

Frank L. Cheney, candidate for Mayor, has had years of experience in the city council and under his direction the financial affairs of the city are at present in the best condition in the city's history.

William M. Reay for Commissioner is a man of large affairs. He has served in public office efficiently and well, in various capacities, here and elsewhere. He was one of the leading men of the country whom the government called into service at Washington during the World war because his ability in managing big business was widely recognized.

W. J. Brown for Commissioner is a successful business man and well known citizen who is well fitted in ability and experience for the office to which he aspires.

Dr. R. R. Bosworth for Commissioner has made a success in his own profession and is a man of ability and experience and ready to give his best services for the benefit of his home city.

Julius Zimmer for Commissioner is a well known citizen, able, successful, with plenty of hard common sense and a wide experience in handling men and affairs. His worth is well known and his service to the community will be valuable.
