FORT SHERIDAN HORSE SHOW IS BIG SUCCESS

Indoor Military Exhibition Is Described by Post Writer: Many Thrills

(By James Fort Forsyth) Our appreciation of the Indoor Military Exhibition and Horse show held in the riding hall at Fort Sheridan, Wednesday evening, April 6, was enhanced and interest in the events enlivened to a considerable degree in that we shared a corner of the press box with Charles Ekmark, the Fort Highwood did not interest himself photographer.

Mr. Ekmark, a veteran trooper of "the good old days," at one time sergeant of the "Dashing Fourteenth," was in his element throughout the show. "Trooping today is very much the same as in the days when I myself was one of the boys, said Mr. Ekmark, as he noted with the keen eye of a veteran photographer the various skillful sallies the above nature impossible. of the Fort Sheridan units.

There's that about a horse show under military auspices that makes it a "show among shows." The uniforms, the military band, the general dash, enthusiasm and colour of the ensemble, all add materially to an atand thrilling. As one of the ladies 7pd Mower Shep, 700 Central ave., Tel. H. zoning ordinance at the present time and any outsider could erect a slaughter house, soap factory, oil filling station or round house anywhere in the City and the property owners could not prevent them from doing so. An example of this unrestricted zoning happened on Railroad and Prairie avenues. The zoning ordinance then in effect was drawn up by the city attorney but he failed to see that the clauses in it were carried out and after four years an out of town enterprise erected the oil filling station in the supposedly restricted territory. The city attorney for enough to combat the case when it was heard in Waukegan. He promised a to be at the trial but failed to appear and the City lost the case by default.
