JUST PARAGRAPHS

While all sorts of honors are being heaped upon Elizabeth Madox Roberts for her novel "The Time of Man," her publishers announce that her next novel will be ready for publication in the Fall. The usual prayer will go up from the reading public's heart.

A book which ought to knock all fictitious mystery stories into a cocked hat will be "On Special Missions, The Inside Story of the German Espionage and the Allied Counter-Espionage Systems," by Charles Lucieto, special agent of the French Secret Service. If the sample issued beforehand is to be believed it is thrilling reading.

A GREAT EPIC

"REVOLT IN THE DESERT"

By T. E. Lawrence
George H. Doran Co.

Who is T. E. Lawrence? Why, he is the man who brought romance back into life—romance and adventure and the possibility of the impossible. Since the beginning of the age of specialization and standardization adventure has been in the hands of experts—bandits, bootleggers and the like who have made of it a profitable but extremely drab business. And we poor laymen as specialized in the business of being orderly as they in the opposite one, have gone about dully with long faces believing that we had lost forever the privilege of being spectacular.

Then during the war there comes along a man, a small slight man, rejected for military service because of physical unfitness, a law-abiding student of archeology, who suddenly upsets all our staid dry standards who jaunts gaily off on leave up the Red Sea, joins the scattered Arab tribes into an army and leads them to dashing victory against the Turks. What could be more satisfying, more inspiring to a jaded standardized world?

When Lawrence had done this amazing thing about which during the actual period of its doing we knew so little, he wrote it up in a book called "The Seven Pillars of Wisdom." The book was stolen, rumor had it, by the authorities of England. In any case it was gone and its author sat down and wrote it again. This he had published in an edition of eight copies of which he destroyed three. Then he condensed it into the shorter book called "Revolt in the Desert."

"Revolt in the Desert" is a remarkable book aside from the brilliance of the deeds it portrays. It is remarkable for its poetry, for its delicacy, for the penetration of its psychology. In many passages like this, Lawrence is poet as well as warrior, chronicler of deeds as well as their doer: "In the morning Auda had us afoot before four, going uphill, till at last we climbed a ridge to a plain, with an illimitable view down hill to the east, where one gentle level after another slowly modulated into a distance only to be called distance because it was a sober blue, and more hazy. The rising sun flooded this falling plain with a perfect level of light, throwing up long shadows of almost imperceptible ridges, and the whole life and play of a complicated ground-system—but a transient one; for, as we looked at it, the shadows drew in towards the dawn, quivered a last moment behind their motherbanks, and went out as though at a common signal." That man is a writer as well as a doer.

A LAMENT

"THE ALLINGHAMS"

By May Sinclair
The MacMillan Co.

If May Sinclair can write a book like "The Allinghams" then anything is possible. When the witty, keen, subtle author of "Anne Severn" or "Mr. Waddington of Wyck," descends to such banalities as this, we can only throw up our hands and murmur, weakly, "What next?"

It is a book which might be a child's idea of a novel. First each character is described in terms of "light blue eyes," "sweet firm mouth," "pale pink cheeks," slender and handsome. Six or eight perfectly faultless puppets. Then they engage in conversation, and more conversation, and still more conversation. By page twenty-six, if not before, one becomes a little addled by such streams of banal conversation and wonders when they will take a rest. One looks ahead—there is no rest. They go on forever, even to the last page.

Taking a paragraph at random, the family is sitting about carping because the daughter has just expressed the novel intention of going out to Canada if her fiancé goes. "My unhappiness and your mother's doesn't count? Not against Richard. I'm sorry. It's like that. 'The devil it is.' 'But you like Richard?' 'Yes, I like him well enough.' 'You know Daddy, he's the one man in the world. There isn't anybody else you'd like to see marry.' 'I own all that. I own he's the one man. But he isn't going to carry you off to that God-forsaken country if I can stop it.' 'But I've told you you can't stop it.' 'You wouldn't go against my express wishes, Mollie?' 'I'm afraid I would.' 'You're not the little girl I thought you were.' It would take pages to do it justice—one can't do it in a mere quotation.

But that is typical. A lot of puppets sitting about expressing inane opinions at each other whenever their string is pulled. What has happened to May Sinclair is the question?

Miss Elizabeth Arney Clore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Bonduant Clore of 654 Cherry street, Winnetka, has chosen her attendants for her marriage to Lewis Hinsdale Withey II, of Grand Rapids, Mich., which will take place at 8:30 o'clock Saturday, June 11.

Miss Judith Boddie of Chicago, formerly of Winnetka, will attend Miss Clore as maid of honor. Her bridesmaids will include Miss Mary Ott, Miss Beatrice Ripley, Miss Eleanor McEwen, and Miss Martha Thomas of Winnetka, Miss Ruth Holloway of Glencoe, Miss Anne Cort of Wheeling, Ill., Miss Catharine Peck of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Miss Mildred Fletcher of Elgin, Ill.

Little Lucile Clore, the bride-elect's niece, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace B. Clore, Jr., will be the flower girl.

Mr. Withey has asked Charles Sleight of Grand Rapids, Mich., to serve as best man. Master of ceremonies will be Mortimer Roberts of Grand Rapids, Mich. The list of ushers includes Miss Clore's three brothers, Wallace B. Clore, Jr., William Ward Clore, and John T. Clore, Christian Litscher of Grand Rapids, Gordon Lewis of Grand Rapids, J. Duncan McDonald, and Jerry Lauzon, both of Grand Rapids.

The ceremony will be performed at Christ church, by Rev. E. Ashley Gerhard, a reception following immediately after at the Winnetka Woman's club.

Among the parties to be given for Miss Clore will be a miscellaneous shower Tuesday, June 7, at the home of Mrs. Charles Bernard, II, who is Barbara Nichols before her marriage. Mr. and Mrs. John Nash Ott of 17 Indian Hill road, Winnetka, will give a supper Thursday, June 9, for the wedding party.

Mrs. Mary Reed, formerly of Glencoe, announces the marriage of her daughter, Madeline, to Thomas Dwight Budd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Budd of 594 Glencoe road, Glencoe, Thursday, April 21, at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church of New York City. A reception for the immediate family followed the ceremony at the Gotham hotel.

Mrs. Charles Budd has just returned from the east, where she attended her son's wedding and visited friends and relatives. While in Washington, she visited her sister, Mrs. J. W. Warner, and while in New York City, she was the guest of her brother, A. M. Stewart. Mrs. M. S. Woodward, also of New York, and a sister of Mrs. Budd, returned with her to Glencoe, and plans to remain about a month.

A group of Thomas D. Budd's Glencoe friends entertained in his honor at a stag dinner, Thursday, May 12, at the Skokie Country club. Mr. Budd and his bride are making their home at the Orrington hotel, Evanston, at present.

The marriage of Florence Deily Preston, daughter of Mrs. Frederick Herman Deily of Winnetka, to Edward Allen Fox of Chicago, took place Saturday, May 14, at 8 o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl L. Weinstock of 1323 Ashbury avenue, Winnetka. Dr. J. W. F. Davies performed the ceremony which was attended by relatives and intimate friends.

Mrs. Earl L. Weinstock attended the bride as matron of honor, and Miss Frances Fox, the groom's sister, as bridesmaid. Earl L. Weinstock acted as best man for Mr. Fox. One of the features of the wedding was in the playing of the wedding march by Earl L. Weinstock, Jr., the bride's young nephew. Little Patricia Weinstock, her niece, attended as flower girl.

A reception followed the ceremony. After a honeymoon trip of several weeks in the east, including Washington, D. C., and New York City, Mr. Fox and his bride will make their home at Rogers Park. They will be at home at 7323 Clayton Court, after July 1.

The wedding of Miss Dorothy Hess and Ralph E. Colville was a charming affair of Saturday evening, May 14. It took place at 8:30 o'clock in the First Methodist church of Evanston, with Dr. Horace G. Smith of Wilmette officiating.

A gown of chiffon and silver lace over white satin was worn by the bride, who carried a bouquet of sweet peas, lilies of the valley, and sweet-heart roses.

The maid of honor, Miss Myrtle Colville, and the bridesmaids, Miss Virginia Moore, Miss Betty Rice, Miss Elizabeth Anne Hughes, Miss Ruth Arnold, Miss Eleanor Fischer and Miss Oneta Hewitt, were in dresses of georgette crepe of pastel shades and carried sweet peas and Dreux roses. The bride's mother wore a lace gown and Mrs. Colville was in pink chiffon. Robert Mahan served as best man. Jack Ashley, Howard Davidson, Joseph Falcon, Norman Ericson, Philip Hall and Allen Oviatt were ushers.

A reception for the wedding party and immediate family was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin W. Hess, 430 Ninth street, Wilmette, at the close of the ceremony.

Mr. Colville and his bride have gone to Signal Mountain on their wedding trip and will be at home in Evanston after the middle of June.

The marriage of Miss Virginia Ogan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Ogan, of 845 Locust street, Hubbard Woods, to Curtis Reed Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Parker of Fort Wayne, Ind., took place Saturday afternoon, May 14, at the home of the bride's parents. The ceremony, which occurred at 12 o'clock, was attended by relatives and intimate friends, a wedding luncheon following. Dr. J. W. F. Davies performed the ceremony.

Miss Ogan was dressed in a hand-made ivory chiffon gown with a de-Aloncon lace yoke, long sleeves with lace cuffs, and a panel of the same lace in back. Her veil of tulle was trimmed with orange blossoms and fell from a coronet trimmed with orange blossoms and made with fluted tulle in back. Miss Ogan carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Vera May Ogan, the bride's sister, who came from Boston, Mass., where she is in school, to attend her sister as maid of honor, wore peach-colored chiffon, draped at the shoulder, with satin slippers to match. Her bouquet was made up of lavender sweet peas and tea roses.

Donald Parker, the groom's brother, served as best man.

After a two or three weeks' wedding trip in Wisconsin, Mr. and Mrs. Parker will make their home in Bloomington, Ill.

The bride is a graduate of New Trier high school, and Miss Wheelock's Kindergarten college in Boston, Mass. Mr. Parker is also a New Trier graduate. He attended the University of Illinois, and was a member of Sigma Chi fraternity.

The engagement of Miss Mary Lucille Cutler, daughter of the Henry E. Cutlers of Wilmette, to Stanley J. Hall of Lincoln, Neb., has been announced by Miss Cutler's parents.

Miss Cutler is a graduate of National Park seminary, and Mr. Hall is a recent graduate of Dartmouth college. The wedding will take place during the month of September.

Miss Katherine Farwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John V. Farwell of 229 Lake Shore drive and Lake Forest, is expected to arrive in Chicago today from New York City, where she resides, for her marriage on Friday to Charles Merwin Howe, also of New York. The engagement announcement and wedding invitations to relatives and a few intimate friends are being issued simultaneously. The ceremony, to be performed at the Farwell residence in Lake Forest at 12:30 o'clock on Friday, is to be read by the Rev. Mr. Dulaney of the St. Mary of the Virgin church in New York City. A breakfast and reception will follow the informal service.

Mr. Howe and his bride are to reside at his country place near Bridgewater, Conn. Mr. Howe is the son of Mrs. Charles Merwin Howe and the late Mr. Howe who formerly resided in Evanston.

In the mellow light of tall, three-branched candelabra which edged the aisle of the Church of the Holy Comforter last Saturday evening, Miss Marjorie Reese became the bride of Harry Donaldson, son of Mrs. H. V. Donaldson of Evanston. The Rev. Leland Hobart Danforth read the service before the altar banked with ferns and palms, with two large bouquets of pink roses and blue larkspur at either side. The wedding reception was held immediately after the ceremony at the home of the bride's father and mother, Dr. and Mrs. Charles N. Reese, 829 Ashland avenue, Wilmette.

The bride's dress was fashioned with a tight fitting bodice of white satin, with the neck embroidered in crystal and pearls. The bouffant skirt was of embroidered net ruffles, caught with clusters of orange blossoms. The long court train of white satin was edged with lace and caught with clusters of orange blossoms at the end. The same flowers held the tulle veil in place. Gardenias, white sweet peas, and valley lilies composed the shower bouquet.

Mrs. H. C. Reese, as matron of honor, wore a period dress of silver green taffeta, embroidered in green. Miss Winifred Bilsand, the maid of honor, was in a gown of white satin with tight fitting bodice and bouffant skirt. The bodice at the shoulder and lower part lace. Chenille, ribbon flowers in pastel shades, crystal heads, and hand painted flowers outlined in crystal beads, trimmed the skirt. The bodice at the shoulder and a large bow of peach, rose and blue ribbon at the waist.

Mrs. Louis Mohr, Miss Elizabeth and Dorothy Joy, and Miss Patty Foresman, the bridesmaids, wore period frocks of chiffon in pale and rose pink, with full skirts of ankle length made with chiffon ruffles. Each frock had a long scarf tie at the shoulder, with ends hanging almost to the end of the skirt. The bridal attendants all wore head bands of silver ribbon with tulle. Pearls, rhinestones and ribbon of pastel shades joined ribbon and tulle. They all carried Colonial bouquets of flowers in shades harmonizing with their gowns.

Albert Rand of Wilmette was best man, and the ushers were Dr. H. C. Reese, Chester Speakman, Stephen Lusted, Edward Tubbs and Olney Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Donaldson have gone to Atlantic City and New York for about a fortnight. They will spend the summer with Mrs. Donaldson's parents at their home in Wilmette.

Lloyd Hollister, president of Lloyd Hollister, Inc., publishers of Wilmette Life, Winnetka Talk, and Glencoe News, north shore magazines, left Wednesday of last week, accompanied by Mrs. Hollister, on a two months' tour of Europe. Mr. Hollister goes to Ostend, Belgium, as official delegate of the Wilmette and Winnetka Rotary clubs at the convention of Rotary International, which convenes in that city next month. Mr. and Mrs. Hollister will tour through England, France, Belgium and Switzerland, returning home late in July.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugo O. VonHofsten and their daughter, Polly, return Saturday, May 28, from a winter in Pasadena. They will spend a week in Winnetka before leaving for their summer home at Leland, Mich. Mr. VonHofsten will bring back some sketches and water colors which he made of California. He will exhibit these in the Camp Fire rooms of Community House from May 29 to June 5.

Richard G. Eberhart, 307 Woodstock avenue, Kenilworth, sails from San Francisco on May 25, on a world cruise to be gone until September. He will go then to Cambridge university, England, to study for two years. He graduated from Dartmouth last June.

A real homecoming is taking place at Craigie Lea, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew MacLeish of Glencoe, for a daughter has arrived from the West, and a son will arrive from Paris this next week.

Miss Isabel MacLeish, who makes her permanent home in Colorado Springs, has brought with her as her traveling companion and guest during her two weeks' stay here, Miss Sophie Norris, niece of Mrs. Arthur Ryerson.

Archibald MacLeish, who makes his home in Paris, is expected to land in New York Tuesday, May 24, and come directly to Glencoe. He has lived in Paris for the past two and a half years.

Chester R. Perry of 272 Sylvan road, Glencoe, sailed Sunday, May 22, from New York City, for Ostend, Belgium, where he will attend the Rotary International. Mr. Perry is the secretary of the Rotary International. He expects to return the latter part of June.
