MUSIC FESTIVAL IS WORTHY PERFORMANCE

Suburban High Schools Demonstrate Ability in Program at Oak Park

The second annual suburban high school music festival was held in the Oak Park-River Forest Township high school, Friday, May 26. The schools participating and the directors were: Waukegan, Waukegan, Ill., George Schuman and Otto Graham; Deerfield-Shields, Highland Park, Ill., Gerard Dinkeloo and Harry E. Bolle; New Trier, Winnetka, Ill., Marian Cotton, Joseph Schumacher and Winifred Mickey, Oak Park-River Forest, Oak Park, Ill., Anton Embs; Proviso, Maywood, Ill., Lee Osburn, J. Sterling; Morton, Cicero, Ill., Charles K. Nicholas; Lyons, La Grange, Ill., Clarence Disinger; York, Elmhurst, Ill., John Minnema; St. Charles, St. Charles, Ill., Alexander Harley.

The afternoon program consisted of musical performances by groups from the departments of individual schools.

It was not a contest, but a demonstration of ability. The previous week in Elgin a contest had been held, and the girls glee club of the St. Charles high school won first place. They appeared in Oak Park in black coat dresses with orange collars and fronts, and black ribbon ties. The Waukegan girls—wore white uniforms with blue silk ties, and the girls from York wore black uniforms with stiff white, round collars. In the evening bright colored gowns were worn by all of the girls in the combined glee club.

The whole program was delightful and a worthy performance, deserving of a large patronage.

Miss Parry chaperoned the Deerfield-Shields girls. A special train carrying coaches for the three north shore schools in the festival, was run morning and evening. The program was as follows:

TIME changes custom. Most changes are for progress, but there are exceptions which individuals and nations should always recognize and stand firmly for worthy principles which may be threatened. Any change in the observation of national holidays, which through the life of the nation have been set aside to keep the fires of love for country alive, should be opposed. Memorial Day is again with us. It is one of our most sacred national days. It is a tribute to the living—to their dead—those who gave all—their life—that our nation should free—and not perish from the earth. Let us pause for a thoughtful moment in the true spirit of the day—and be grateful for the freedom that is ours. In so doing we will be giving place and honor to the soldiers of all our wars who made the supreme sacrifice. Let not the greatness of their deeds be forgotten. Imbue a reverence of the day in the hearts of your children and their children's children. You are of the next generation to which the last generation looked to carry on.

MANY PRESENT AT GARDEN CLUB MEET

Mr. Andrews Thanks Club For Flowers Sent Presbyterian Church; Other Events

Many members and several interested guests attended a delightful meeting of the Garden club, held at the home of Mrs. W. W. Geary in Brier hill on Wednesday, May 18. The business meeting included the usual committee reports, correspondence from the Deerfield Chamber of Commerce congratulating the club on receiving a ribbon at the Chicago Flower show and from Mr. Andrews thanking the club for the Easter basket given the Presbyterian church which so generously opened its doors the past three years for the Garden club Flower shows. The club also voted to participate in the Chicago Flower and Garden show to be held in March 1928. Mrs. E. B. Jordan and Mrs. George L. Trautt represented the club at the garden booth of the Woman's World Fair, Tuesday, May 24.

The program consisted of a charmingly personal paper by Mrs. Frank Burroughs on "My Favorite Flowers and Why I Grow Them". Mrs. Harvey L. Smith gave magazine reviews. Delightful refreshments concluded a very entertaining afternoon.

ILLINOIS WATERWAYS LACKING IN POWER

MUST BE AUGMENTED Not Sufficient Hydroelectric Current Could be Generated by Streams, Expert Tells of Reasons

If Illinois had a waterfall one hundred feet high over which poured a volume of water equivalent to the average flow of the upper Mississippi river, and every drop of the water was used to generate electricity, the power output would be less than the power generated in the state's steam electric generating stations. The foregoing statement is based upon a computation made by Francis Hodgkinson, chief engineer of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, who finds "that one pound of good coal burned in a modern steam power plant will give the same energy as ten tons of water falling 100 feet."

Figures Given In producing approximately 97 per cent of Illinois' electricity supply during February, the United States Geological Survey reports that the state's steam generating stations burned 486,203 tons of coal. This was converted into 479,196,000 kilowatt-hours of electricity. Hydroelectric plants generated only 16,415,000 kilowatt-hours, the report states.

The upper Mississippi river has an annual flow of 3,720,000,000 cubic feet of water, or 116,250,000,000 tons.

The Geological Survey's reports show that each year the hydroelectric plants of Illinois are generating a smaller portion of the electricity required by the people of the state, and electrical and hydro engineers state that this condition will continue to exist unless an earthquake changes the topography of the state. Streams "Flashy"

They say that the rolling plains of Illinois do not provide for the state's streams the fall or "head" required for water power developments and that for the most part the streams are "flashy," having periods of drought or low water, whereas the demand for power is fairly constant. However, they state that Illinois' enormous coal resources make possible the continued development of its power facilities for many years to come.

WILMOT SCHOOL P.T.A. MET LAST FRIDAY

Mrs. J. T. McArthur and Mrs. J. D. Carter Report on State Teachers' Session

The regular monthly meeting was held on Friday evening, May 20, with a fair attendance in spite of the thunder storm preceding the hour of meeting.

After a short business session the report of the meeting of the Lake Shore Division P. T. A. session of the State Teacher's association held in Evanston was given by Mrs. J. T. McArthur. The report from the state convention of the Illinois Council Parent-Teacher association held at Quincy, Ill., was given by Mrs. J. D. Carter. Both reports brought food for thought. Mrs. McArthur's report was as follows:

The Parent-Teachers section of the Lake Shore Division held their sixth annual meeting in Evanston on Monday, April 25, 1927. The Parent-Teachers section met at the luncheon which was given in the ball room of the Orrington hotel. There were 200 delegates present. Fred W. Carberry conducted the community singing, which opened the meeting. The speaker was Dr. John J. B. Morgan, professor of psychology, Northwestern university and his subject "The Evanston Psychological Clinic" was timely and extremely interesting. He laid particular stress on mental hygiene in the home, giving instances of children who had been brought to the clinic for analysis, because of their inability to master certain studies in their school work. In each case the trouble was traced to the home, or home environment, and with the cooperation of the parents was soon corrected. This proves that teachers are not always to blame, and as we are all natural (if not professional) students of psychology, I am sure we all came away from that meeting determined to psycho-analyze ourselves as parents occasionally and if our children are not advancing in their studies locate cause and remove it.

Mrs. Carter's report of the state convention was as follows:

The annual convention of the state council of P. T. associations was held at Quincy, April 19-21, which was the 28th annual meeting of the council and the convention theme was "Better Trained Parenthood." There was an attendance of 333 accredited delegates. Quincy is a city of beautiful homes which we observed during our tour on Tuesday forenoon. It is situated on the Mississippi river and we certainly got a good view of the overflowing river from the highest point in Quincy.

They have 12 graded schools, 4 junior high schools and 1 large high school, having 5,403 pupils in all schools with 39 teachers in charge.

After words of welcome from the superintendent of schools and the city attorney the response was given by Mr. Walter H. Buhlig, State President of the P. T. A.

The important address of the day was given by Miss Alma L. Binzel of Milwaukee who was the first person to lecture in universities on the subject she presented, "Wise Parents and Well Trained Children."

She first asked the question, "What do you consider the best tribute paid you by the 20th century as a father? Is it the low comedy in the news paper strips? Is it the celebration of mothers' and daughters' day or fathers' and sons' day? Is it the effort at self education in parenthood? Is it the 27 year old juvenile court or the 18 year old juvenile protection? Where place it? She spoke of Iowa having 150 research stations for training parents for the care of their children under supervision of the state university. Also of child guiding clinics in Vassar college, and in Newark, N. J. They check up on children on their first day in kindergarten or first grade of school. Then they remedy faults instead of scolding or criticizing and teachers assist parents in obtaining results.

Wise parents feed children well, and enter into their studies with them to give help and encouragement. Environment in the home sets status for the child in school. You can soon tell by work and habits what a child's home life means. On Tuesday evening the banquet was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Williams, field secretary of the National association of education spoke briefly of the work of the association and their interests in teachers and education.

Hon. Francis G. Blair, president of the National association of Education and Superintendent of Public Instruction in Illinois, was the principal speaker of the evening. Mrs. Buhlig reminded us of the theme of the convention "Better Trained Parenthood" and we adjourned.

Wednesday morning was taken up with conferences. The summer round-up luncheon held in the Presbyterian church at noon Wednesday proved of such interest that it had to be repeated in the evening for those who could not be accommodated at noon.

At the afternoon session the school children presented an imitation broadcasting station and safety program, also drills for physical per-

DEERFIELD RESIDENT VICTIM OF APOPLEXY

MRS. JAMES FRITSCH DIES

Passed Away Saturday at Her Home Following Year's Illness; Funeral Held Tuesday

Mrs. James Fritsch died Saturday afternoon, May 21, from a stroke of apoplexy sustained last February. She was not confined to her bed until a week previous to her death, when she spoke for the last time. She had not been well for about eighteen years, and was subject to falls, injuring her knee so badly about sixteen years ago, that she walked with difficulty. In Warren, Pa., Susan Elizabeth Fehman was born October 26, 1850 and celebrated her seventy-sixth birthday anniversary last fall. She came west with her parents to Long Grove, Ill., when she was 16 years of age. Later the family moved to Naperville where she was married to James Fritsch, then a student in the Evangelical association college, on February 18, 1873. They celebrated their golden wedding anniversary four years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Fritsch lived in Chicago and Menominee after their marriage. Forty-four years ago they moved to Deerfield which has been their home ever since.

Mrs. Fritsch had not been out of her home since a year ago last August, when her daughter, Edna, graduated from Moody Bible Institute. She was the last surviving charter member of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Ebenezer Evangelical church and of which she was an officer for many years.

Two of her sisters and one brother are now living, Mrs. Lydia Cumming, of Gardner, Ill., Mrs. Rebecca Mermer of Deerfield and Samuel Fehman of Rockford, besides her husband and daughter.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at half past one o'clock in the home, followed by a two o'clock service in the Bungalow Evangelical church. The new minister, the Rev. A. J. Johnson, officiated. Interment took place in the Fritsch family lot in the Northfield cemetery.

FLOOD RELIEF STATION TO BE HELD TWO DAYS

The American Legion auxiliary of Deerfield will have a Flood Relief station in one of the Moehler stores on Waukegan road on Tuesday and Wednesday, May 31 and June 1st, where they will receive mens, womens and childrens clothing to be sent to the flooded districts. Only clean, practical clothes in good condition can be used as these victims have no means of washing or mending. The auxiliary is appealing to the people of Deerfield for their co-operation and will gladly accept any clothing they have to offer and forward them to unfortunate people of the south.

fection which proved the value of good gymnasium equipment and training. State officers and chairmen made their reports and a school of instruction was conducted by Mrs. Orville T. Bright, a former state president. Music furnished by a 50 piece high school orchestra, opened the Wednesday evening session. Mr. McAndrews, superintendent of Chicago schools gave the address in the evening. The high school girls chorus sang 2 numbers and a pageant was presented by the state president and the regional directors. It was a candle-lighting service, the directors marching slowly down the aisles and each lighting her candle from the president's candle as she reached the rostrum and telling briefly the work of her district. The president's message was then read.

Mr. C. L. Green, a teacher, gave an interesting and instructive address on "Blossom Time" at the closing session Thursday forenoon. There were four invitations extended for the convention in 1928.
