CONTROL WORDS FIRST!

Coolidge has already made plain his belief that if we are to have real flood control, Congressional word control is a first necessity. When the statesmen, real and near, were insistent, even while the flood was at its crest, that they be allowed to reassemble and talk it over, he refused. He saw inevitably what their talk would amount to. It would fatten the pages of the Congressional Record, but leave the levees broken and flat. To the credit of Senator Jim Reed of Missouri, the quiet but effective "No-No" of the President to all demands for an extra session, has been assayed at its true value, and Reed agrees that an extra session as suggested would have been actually harmful.

The delay has been most valuable, because it has been utilized by the President in the forwarding of careful, systematic engineering, agricultural and financial surveys of the flood swept area. The substance of these investigations will be incorporated in the President's message to Congress, and it is the opinion of those who are acquainted with all conditions that while even in February next, the exact line of procedure may not be clearly evident, that there will be enough actual facts and conclusions in hand, so that definite legislation can be put under way. Once again the President has proved that haste makes waste, and that in many cases, to use the old saying, the longest way 'round is the shortest way home.

ASKING FOR BUSINESS

The time has gone by when the things people want can be had on the silent method. People have to ask for things they want. If you are looking for anything, and just sit patiently and wait for people to speak to you and ask you what you want, you will have to wait a long time. You have to ask for what you want.

That principle applies to business success. You have to ask the public for patronage, and show reasons why that patronage should be given, before you can get it.

If a business makes no effort to secure patronage, and just waits quietly until it comes, it will wait a long time. People think such a concern lacks the spirit of enterprise.

Newspaper advertising furnishes an abundant means by which the business people of this city and vicinity can ask for patronage, and show reasons why it should be given. It is the kind of appeal which people expect in these times, and to which they will respond.

GETTING FREE FROM QUACK FARM RELIEF

Agriculture Breaking Loose From Fake Cure-Alls Proposed by the Politicians

Hope that American agriculture has taken a big step toward freeing itself of the quack farm relief measures which are being thrust forward continually, is expressed by the Farm and Fireside as a result of the meeting of the American Institute of Co-operation in Chicago from June 20 to July 16.

"This educational meeting has proved its worth as a constructive force," says the editorial. "It is another hopeful sign that agriculture is going ahead on its own feet, regardless of what calamity howlers and farm relief demagogues say to the contrary."

"Those whose knowledge of co-operation is limited are bound to be impressed by the tremendous growth and wide scope of co-operative activity. The personnel has grown so large and the tasks so specialized that there are even national associations of co-operative accountants and lawyers. A conference of editors, of co-operative organs is also to be held."

Managers, students and economists as well as farmers, are taking a greater interest than ever before in the movement, according to records of attendance at the institute, which is held at Northwestern university.

PRESERVED LUMBER IS RECOMMENDED

"Preserved lumber" is recommended by the National committee of wood utilization of the United States Department of Commerce. Official tests have shown that sap wood is just as strong as heart wood for construction purposes, although in its natural state it is not so durable. But sap wood, the experts tell us, absorbs wood preservative with greater ease than heart wood and lends itself particularly well to the process of being "preserved." These new suggestions have resulted from systematic efforts to conserve our forests.

SPLENDID EFFORT FOR WORLD PEACE

Geneva Conference Aimed to Aid in That Direction; Critics Are Misled

Another magnificent attempt to bring better conditions for humanity into the world is being made by the representatives of Great Britain, Japan, and the United States, with onlooking nations, at the Geneva conference.

The international mud-slingers are trying to belittle the efforts that are being made, and propagandize sentiment throughout the world to undermine whatever may be the concrete results of this great gathering. The American delegation is making a splendid effort to cut down the amount of fighting sea-craft and to reduce armament and militarism.

It is the same old fight that has been staged in Washington and other capitals, and the very people who are most anxious for the peace of the world seem to be the easiest victims of the efforts to discredit the work for the uplift of the universe that is being attempted at Geneva.

Claimed the American people are giving up walking, but they expect the ghost to walk once a week anyway.

PROGRAM NEXT WEEK AT RAVINIA PARK

as an eccentric music master. Vittorio Trevisan, ever at home in buffo parts, never fails to create hilarity as the doddering Doctor Bartolo. Others in the cast are Giordano Paltrinieri and Anna Correnti. Gennaro Papi will conduct.

Outstanding Work

One of the season's most outstanding works is scheduled for Tuesday night, July 26th, when "La Juive" will be presented. Elisabeth Rethberg will be heard in the title role of this opera, and it is well known that as Machael she is called upon time and again for a display of her beautiful tone quality, as well as for that vocal power which makes her one of the world's greatest dramatic sopranos. The part of Eleazar will be sung by Giovanni Martinelli, and it is well-known to all Ravinia patrons that this is one of the most masterful creations in the repertoire of this great dramatic tenor. In it he combines splendid acting with unusual vocal expression, making this role not only a great portrait, but an authoritative piece of interpretation. Leon Rother will be heard as Cardinal Brogni, which role gives him every opportunity for a display of the rich quality of his voice. As the Cardinal, Mr. Rother utilizes the French method of singing and acting, which means perfect finesse. Florence Macbeth will be cast as the Princess, which offers this excellent American artist a chance for brilliant singing. Jose Mojica is to be given the part of Prince Leopold. Others in the cast are Desire Defrere, Louis D'Angelo and Paolo Ananian. Louis Hasselmanns will conduct.

"Mignon" July 27

"Mignon," Ambroise Thomas' melodious opera, which was restored to the Ravinia repertoire last week, proved to be so gratifying to the record audience that heard it that an early repeat of this work has become imperative. Therefore Mr. Eckstein has scheduled it for Wednesday night, July 27. The same cast which gave a memorial presentation of this opera last Saturday night will be heard. Madame Bori has added to her Ravinia laurels by reason of her interpretation of the title role, for this is another of those parts so dear to her heart, giving her unlimited scope for brilliant singing and equally brilliant acting. Mario Chamlee has found the part of Wilhelm particularly gratifying to his lyric ability and likewise as a character study. Florence Macbeth is perfectly at home as Philine, while Leon Rother is profoundly impressive as Count Lothario. Ina Bourskaya does splendid singing as Frederick. Others who are importantly cast are Desire Defrere, Louis D'Angelo, and Paola Ananian. Louis Hasselmanns will conduct.

Children's Annual Carnival

A veritable festival will be given for the children on Thursday afternoon, the annual carnival replacing the regular concert and entertainment, which are weekly features throughout the season, under the chairmanship of Miss Isabelle Cline. As in seasons past, Miss Bertha L. Iles, general director of the Children's Civic theatre of Chicago, will be in charge of the carnival. This year she will be assisted by Donald Marye, who has costumed and arranged an elaborate pageant entitled "Ye Olde English Festival." This pageant unfolds an interesting story which will intrigue the imaginations of all the children, and during which group after group will appear in colorful scenes and dances. Music will be furnished by the Great Lakes Naval Training Station band. All children twelve years of age and under will be admitted free to the carnival, which will be held on the spacious north campus at Ravinia. Seats in the stadium will be free for everyone.

"Lohengrin" July 28

Unusual interest is attached to the performance of "Lohengrin," which will be given on Thursday night, July 28. There is no music drama in the entire German list which has greater appeal than this Wagnerian work, and Ravinia is particularly fortunate in having such splendid exponents of the German school as Elisabeth Rethberg and Edward Johnson for the two principal roles. The Elsa of Madame Rethberg is impressive in all its details, this great German singer following Teutonic traditions in the main, yet having her own individual ideas as to the psychological interpretation of this great role. Mr. Johnson is a thoroughly schooled Wagnerian singer, who has long found "Lohengrin" to be one of his outstanding parts. He has sung it time and again, but it will be remembered that he sang it in German at Ravinia for the first time last season, scoring a triumph which will not soon be forgotten. Another splendid German singer on the Ravinia roster this year is Julia Clausen, who will be heard as Ortrud. Louis D'Angelo will be cast as the king, a part to which he adds distinction, while Desire Defrere will be heard as Telramund. George Chenovsky, a newcomer to Ravinia, but who has won a place for himself by reason of his excellent work as Silvio in "Pagliacci," will be cast as the Herald. Louis Hasselmanns will conduct.

"Samson et Delila," which is always a favorite with Ravinia audiences, is to be given again on Friday night, July 29. The cast, with one exception, will be the same as that which has already won unstinted praise in this monumental work.

Julia Clausen will be cast as Delila, a part which is perfectly fitted to her rich contralto voice, while opposite her as the giant Samson will be Giovanni Martinelli. The versatility of Mr. Martinelli is well-known, but there is probably no role in his entire repertoire which gives him better opportunity for the utilization of his dramatic voice than that of Samson. Leon Rother will again be heard as the old Hebrew, while this time Mario Basiola will be cast as the high priest of Dagon. Others to be heard are Louis D'Angelo, Giordano Paltrinieri, Carlo Coscia and Louis Derman. Louis Hasselmanns will conduct.

Double Bill

On Saturday night, July 30, there will be another presentation of those memorable operatic twins, "Pagliacci" and "Cavalleria Rusticana." This double bill is one that never fails to bring a record audience, and this time unusual interest is attached to the "Pagliacci" performance in view of the fact that Lucrezia Bori will be heard for the first time this season as Nedda. This is a part in which Madame Bori enjoys world-wide fame, and it will be remembered that it was in this part that she made her Ravinia debut some seasons ago. Her interpretation of Nedda is entirely different from that of any other singing actress, being marked by individuality throughout. Edward Johnson will be heard as Canio, in which part he has already won the hearts of his auditors at Ravinia. This role gives him full scope for his powers as a dramatic tenor, and historically he gives it the same careful interpretation that marks all his works. Giuseppe Danise will be Tonio, which is generally conceded to be one of his greatest roles. This is a splendid singing part, as it includes the celebrated prologue and also demands character acting of the highest order. George Chenovsky will be heard as Silvio, and Giordano Paltrinieri as Beppe. Madame Rethberg, who scored such a triumph when she sang the role of Santuzza in "Cavalleria Rusticana" on Thursday night, July 14, will again have this thrillingly dramatic role, which is so splendidly suited to her vocal commands, and which she also characterizes with telling effect. Mario Chamlee will be heard as Turiddu, a part which he sings and acts with unusual distinction, and Desire Defrere will be cast as Alfio. Gladys Swarthout's excellent voice will show to special advantage as Lola, and Anna Correnti will be Mama Luci. Mr. Papi will conduct both operas.
