AN INTELLIGENT NATION

"No other nation has advanced so far as ours in its social and economic adjustment," says David F. Houston, former U. S. Secretary of the Treasury. "In no other country can you find political institutions resting upon as broad economic and social foundations, or a population with a higher sense of justice, more prone to do the right thing or with so many useful habits of thought. Other nations of the world have a long distance to go before they will approximate our nation's sound social and economic foundations and its consequent stability."

"I am far from maintaining that our government is near perfection. Our legislative and executive bodies are human. They do make mistakes. They will continue to do so. We shall continue to have a fair sprinkling of self-seeking politicians in legislative and administrative bodies—men who are not big enough and do not know enough to commend themselves by constructive proposals and sound action on the merits of a question—we shall continue to be threatened and vexed by stupid courses of action."

"In the last analysis everything will depend on the character of our citizenship. It will depend upon our keeping that citizenship pure and upon extending its education in institutions of learning and in the larger school of experience."

NOTHING TO WHINE ABOUT

The sentimental propagandists who are continually weeping over our indifference to Europe and its plight, and who believe that as a preliminary we should at once proclaim free trade, so that European products can come into this country, would do well to appreciate that while we are anxious to be sympathetic, if any hordes of unemployed are to walk the streets, we have a first-hand feeling, selfish, perhaps, but human, that we would prefer to see European, rather than American workmen, put to such straits.

It is about time that professors and others, who in the safe security of monthly or yearly pay checks and far removed from business activities and distresses, should take another view of the facts. Last year we bought over a billion and a quarter dollars' worth of goods from Europe and paid ship owners of Europe one hundred and ten million dollars for freight. American tourists spent three quarters of a billion, of which amount one-third was left in France. Immigrant workmen in America to their relatives abroad sent three hundred and fifty millions of dollars, and during one year as a people we purchased over a half-billion dollars' worth of securities. So much for the whiners!

BE CAREFUL!

With accidents increasing by the thousands every year, the subject of their prevention is engaging the earnest attention of national associations, city, state and national organizations.

Falls cause more deaths than any other forms of accident according to the National Safety Council which is a clearing house of information relating to prevention of accidents, with headquarters in Chicago.

With the beginning of school the churches more or less settle down to real business again. St. Paul's church will fall in line and herewith issues a call to all its members and friends to join with its pastor in the great task of building the Kingdom of God.

Let your slogan be, "back to the church". Let us turn our faces to the church, let us recall its duty in a world marred with sin, and then with open ears and responsive hearts accept the challenge of your church, to unite with the rest of the members for an intensive program that shall bring results.

Now, then, back to the task. Feel the call of duty! Awaken to responsibilities! Put on the garb of service! St. Paul's church can not afford to be at a stand-still. Onward and forward must be our cry. Let every man, woman and child fall in line, and through willing service help make St. Paul's church both larger and better.

Friday evening the choir will resume its activities. All former members are kindly requested to appear for the first re-organization meeting.
