JOHN E. CONRAD'S DEATH IS SUDDEN

week in which the armistice was signed ending the war. He did not resume business in Chicago, but opened an office in Waukegan where he practiced for two or three years and then decided to open a law office in Highland Park. Since then he had continued in his profession in this city. He was elected justice of the peace here and had served six years at the time of his death.

Prominent in Lodge

He was a charter member of the Highland Park lodge of Elks and had held all of the offices in the local lodge, being trustee at the time of his death, which came under circumstances which he would have welcomed, had he known, it is believed, as he was deeply interested in the work of the lodge and always active in its work. He was also a member of the Phi Alpha Delta legal fraternity.

Mr. Conrad is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Conrad, with whom he had made his home for so many years, an only sister, Mrs. Helen Golden, to whom he was devoted, and four brothers, M. H. Conrad, George F. Conrad and Edward M. Conrad of Highland Park, and Frank J. Conrad of Wilmette, the latter vice-president of the Hamilton club, Chicago. One brother, Robert J. Conrad died about 20 years ago.

Had Many Friends

In his long residence in Highland Park Mr. Conrad had made many warm friends. He was prominent in civic, fraternal and social circles and his many fine qualities endeared him to those who learned to appreciate his splendid character. He was quiet, kindly disposition and of the type who believe in doing good without ostentation, and many are the instances of charitable deeds on his part of which he never spoke himself. He was a devoted son and brother, a loyal friend and a patriotic citizen always interested in everything which made for the welfare of his home community, his state and his native land. His sudden passing is a matter of deep sorrow to his many friends, and the bereaved relatives have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community at this time.

Funeral Monday

The funeral service was a very beautiful one, held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the family residence, the Rev. Frank Fitt officiating. Flowers in beautiful profusion filled the rooms, token of the widespread esteem in which the decedent was held in the community, and were piled in large quantities at the funeral home chapel in Memorial park the Elks beautiful burial ceremony was held and a large representation of the local lodge attended. The Hamilton Club quartet sang beautifully at the home and also at the chapel.

ADDITIONAL FACTS ON SANITARY DISTRICT

6. The Lake Bluff plant is located on the beach at the foot of Prospect avenue, and serves all of the village, having a rated capacity for 1400 people. It is similar in design to the plant at Park avenue except that it has a grit basin because the sewers of Lake Bluff carry off street wash as well as domestic sewage.

6. The North Chicago plant (now under construction) is located in the ravine just north of the Naval Training station rifle range and east of the E. J. and E. railway. It has a rated capacity for 10,000 people and is similar in design to the Lake Bluff plant. The plant includes a grit chamber and a sludge pumping station required by the rugged topography.

7. The Gillette avenue plant in Waukegan serves the northeast portion of the city and has a rated capacity for about 8600 people depending upon the ultimate disposition of the tannery and other industrial sewage. It is similar in design to the plant at North Chicago.

All of the plants were planned for the addition of units as needed to meet the growing population. Every effort has been made to adapt the design to the location. Much the same design has recently been adopted by the Chicago Sanitary district for its West Side plant to serve 1,500,000 people and is in successful use by some six or eight other sanitary districts in Illinois. The lake front plants include disinfection of the effluent as a protection to water supplies and bathing beaches. The Skokie plants provide filtration to obviate nuisance in the Skokie ditch during dry seasons. The cost of these plants in round numbers is as follows:

Park avenue	$ 81,000
Deerfield avenue	34,000
Highwood	49,000
Lake Forest	47,000
Lake Bluff	26,000
North Chicago	60,000
Waukegan	78,000

Total $375,000

The operation of these plants is in the hands of A. L. Gail, superintendent of the North Shore Sanitary district who has 2 to 3 helpers. This relatively small operating force is adequate in view of the automatic features of the design.

Other projects to adequately serve the entire district have been tentatively developed.

Yours very truly,
John Oliver.

A Neighbor's Luck

A man you know lost his pocket book one day. He hunted for it, but he joked meanwhile. He did not worry.

Why did he smile at such a time?

Nearly all his money was in the bank in his checking account. He made it his rule to carry just a little pocket money.

All important items he paid by check.

That man always has the correct change when he writes a check. When a check comes back to him marked "paid" it is a valuable receipt—proof that he has paid the account.

It pays to have a checking account.

TRIBUNE PRIZE HOMES OPEN FOR INSPECTION

Briargate Villas last week-end were keenly enthusiastic over the quaint homes and beauty of the surroundings. For instance there is home number seven in the five room class—the work of Clarence W. Hunt of New York. It's a little gem of a residence of common brick, though the original plans suggested stucco or hollow tile. The feature is the front room with a stone fireplace extending from floor to roof and a beamed peaked ceiling.

Then there is the prize winner in the six room class. The home is in Georgian colonial architecture, the work of Richard E. Bishop of Indianapolis. It has all the charm of a colonial residence, albeit the comforts of today are present.

These two residences as well as the other three follow faithfully the plans of the architects except, of course, for some slight adaptations found necessary.

The residences are placed at various points on the property, which is laid out with curved streets following the contour of the rolling country in which it is found. Briargate Villas comprises forty-three acres bisected by a stream running down from the late Mr. Armour's Melody farm.

It is part of the Alexander Mooney farm and enjoys the reputation of having played a part in the early life of this locality. For instance, there are a number of great old elm trees scattered about and in one of them in the old days the Indians of the district built a platform. From the platform the redskins kept a watch for marauding rivals and in their quiet moments launched arrows at deer that came to the stream for water.

Underground improvements are practically all installed in the property and it is expected that concrete streets will be finished by October. Features of the property include a two and one-half acre wooded playground for children and a boulevard along both banks of the stream.

Building of Briargate Villas is under the personal supervision of the owners, Phelps & Hayward and the Skokie Construction company.

THIS GUY WANTS JOB; WAGES BUT NO WORK

Says He Is New to Labor and Therefore More Valuable; Is Mysterious

Generally when a man applies for a job he carries with him a flock of credentials from past employers who in fulsome praise relate the hard working habits of the candidate.

Yesterday a queer looking scrooped man, dressed in the advertising department of this office and laying down a handful of loose change, requested that the editor or advertising manager let the citizens of Highland Park know that he was "at leisure" and aimed to tie up with a salary.

He had an ad written out but after we read it we saw at once that it was impossible for us to run it, so we had a reporter work up an interview with him, the results of which follow.

"You fellows seem to think that because I want a job I want to work. That's where you're all wet! When you have a job you get wages but when you work you get worries and rheumatism I'm just naturally agin."

"What I seek in this town is appreciation. Wages are very naturally a close second but appreciation must come first! It's mighty seldom that business men of this community have an opportunity to hire a man my age who has never worked in his life. I'm new, I am."

As the reporter had no answer and was hanging on the ropes any way the newcomer continued.

"My name is 'Shorty' and I'd prefer to get a job with the liveliest druggist in Highland Park as press agent. I'm a banner at a job like that and I'm open to receive applications from such druggists as infest these parts. I'm open to the public from 11 to noon every day now from today on.

By this time our reporter had fainted and on recovery "Shorty" had left the premises.
