

TOWN BANK GUARDS ARE GOOD MARKSMEN

SHOW UP WELL IN SHOOT

Annual Contest at Camp Logan Rifle Range Is Held and Seventy-Three Counties Represented

The residents of seventy-three counties in the state of Illinois can now feel safe and rejoice at the discomfort that will probably overtake any of the gunmen who might be contemplating the forcible appropriation of other people's property.

The second annual state shoot of the Town Guards has just been completed at the Camp Logan Rifle range. This competitive shoot disclosed the fact that the business men of this state can shoot straight. The pistol contestants each fired against a possible score of 300, and seventy-five per cent of them made over half of their bullets count. In the pistol competition the sharpest kind of fight developed. The team from Whiteside county won over the LaSalle county team by only one point, with aggregate scores of 528 to 527, two men shooting on each team, the winners being H. F. Immel of Morrison, and Robert Howe of Rock Falls, the second best—A. J. Legner of LeLand and Harold Uglund of Sheridan. Other counties sending pistol teams finished in the following order: Macon 508, Crawford 505, Carroll 468, Livingston 427, Mason 386, Woodford 365, De Kalb 348, Lake 343, Franklin 300, Peoria 295 and Hancock 203.

Results Equally Good

With the high powered rifle results were equally good. Again seventy-five per cent of the shooters proved that they could hit over fifty per cent of the targets, with a possible total of 200 points each. The LaSalle county team won the event against the field with a total score of 559, leading Macon county by 76 points. The crack shots from LaSalle county were Fred Johnson of Marseilles, Roy Brewer and Elmer Wolfe of LaSalle. The other counties sending rifle teams which qualified in the scoring were: Sangamon 479, Carroll 474, Livingston 465, Crawford 465, Woodford 459, Whiteside 431, Lake 374, Franklin 313, Peoria 201, Hancock 158 and De Kalb 113.

The individual honors in the pistol competition went to Roy Brewer of LaSalle who ran a total score of 274 out of a possible 300. Next was his team mate A. J. Legner with 269, other high scores being made by H. F. Immel 266, E. H. Westerman of Mason City 265, J. B. McCullough of Oblong 265 and Robert E. Howe 262. In the honor list of the individual rifle contest Fred Johnson and Roy Brewer tied with 187 out of a possible 200. Elmer Wolfe was close with 185 while Harold Uglund ran 181 and Donald Weatherby of Decatur 180.

Knocking off clay pigeons with shotguns developed the fact that all of the contenders could shoot, three men tying for first honors—F. J. Drakeman of Lake Forest, H. M. Strauch of Washburn and E. H. Westerman of Mason City, with twenty-four hits out of twenty-five. R. W. McKittrick of Livingston made twenty-two and J. G. Stranck, Woodford, W. T. Middleton, Whiteside, and G. M. Bax, Lake, tied for fifth place, with twenty each.

Are Business Men

Lt. W. E. Rowens, Jr., of the Protective Department of the Illinois Bankers association was in charge of the shoot. The Town Guards who competed in these contests are business men selected because of their regard for civic responsibility, their ability to shoot straight and their cool, quick thinking in a pinch. These men are all deputy sheriffs or special police officers, organized and equipped during the last two years by the Illinois Bankers association. The object of the organization is to aid the peace officers throughout the state in preventing crime within their communities and incidentally, to protect the deposits in the banks from peril of criminal assault.

PLAN STUDY COURSE FOR SOCIAL WORKERS

During the two days preceding the Illinois conference on Public Welfare, to be held at Joliet on October 18, 19 and 20, a study course for social workers will open.

Five courses of study are arranged. Each course will consist of four sessions of one and one-half hours each, with the enrollment restricted and no one allowed to take more than two courses.

Courses are arranged as follows: Problems of Admission, Placement and Discharge by Child-Caring Institutions and Agencies; Probation Methods; Administration of Mothers' Pensions; Mental Factor in Social Case Work, and Fundamental Principles of Social Case Work.

Registration for the courses is open to persons in Illinois who are engaged in social work; volunteer workers who are devoting regular time to social work; public officers who administer various forms of social work, such as judges, school attendance officers, probation officers, city welfare directors, staff members of state, county and city institutions and the like and board members of social agencies.

AD SLOGANS FAVORED IN "ASK ME" PROGRAM

Writer in Magazine Tells How These Are Managed and Gives Advice

Questions involving advertising slogans are by far the favorites in "ask me another" games, Lucian Esty and Justin Spafford, originators of the still-popular form of amusement, agree in an interview appearing in the American Magazine, wherein they give advice upon preparing questions for home games.

The average person, the author of the original question books say, is a keen observer of advertising slogans and the fact that nearly everybody enjoys encountering a question answerable by a slogan in a list of knotty problems indicates that Americans are omnivorous and retentive advertisement readers.

"In preparing a list of questions for guests," Mr. Esty continues, "a hostess should select only those which can be answered incontrovertibly. That is, to ask who was the world's greatest composer in taking a mean advantage of the persons who are to be entertained. They may all have different opinions. Secondly, the hostess who lives in Detroit, for example, should not ask: 'What modern artist painted Head of a Woman?' Their guests would not be half as much concerned with the work of Henri Martisse as they would be in some questions similar to: 'Give five names of automobiles no longer manufactured.'"

"Don't ask questions the answers to which you haven't checked up yourself, no matter how well you think you know them. And check them up twice for some reference books contain errors. For instance the question of who commanded the English fleet that opposed the Spanish Armada would usually be answered with the name of Sir Francis Drake. One standard encyclopedia gives that information although the supreme command of the fleet was then in the hands of Lord Howard."

TELEPHONE AID TO SPEECH AND HEARING

Claimed Left Ear Is Rendered More Keen By Use of Phone; Talking

Left ears of people who make extensive use of the telephone have become more proficient than the auditory member on the right side of the head, according to medical reports. The constant application of telephone receivers to the left ear has served to increase the accuracy of the sense of hearing on that side. Meanwhile the right ear, while by no means suffering from any deficiency, has lagged behind the other member in progressiveness.

All telephone instruments are installed with the receiver on the left side in order that the great majority of people who are right-handed may have their hand free for writing during their conversations. This has naturally developed the tendency among all telephone users to listen with their left ear, while the right hearing organ has remained idle. In cases where telephone subscribers are lefthanded or have a deficient left ear, telephone instruments may be adjusted by reversing the transmitters so that the receiver hook will be on the right side.

Another sense upon which the telephone has had its influence is that of speech. The necessity for distinct enunciation in giving telephone numbers and in carrying on conversation over the wires has developed a tendency toward distinct speaking at all times. It is only natural that people who make large use of the telephone should develop the habit of speaking so as to be clearly understood.

Now that the political pot is beginning to boil, the fat will soon be fried out of the heavy contributors.

OFFER REWARDS FOR ESCAPED PRISONERS

Governor Small has issued a proclamation offering a reward of $50 each for the recapture of Arthur Hornberger, John Lowe and Ed. Hall, who made their escape recently from the Southern Illinois Penitentiary at Chester.

Hornberger was sentenced to the penitentiary from Monroe county, Lowe from Franklin county and Hall from Marion county.

Anyway we no longer have to worry at the dances, for fear we shall step on the girls' dresses.

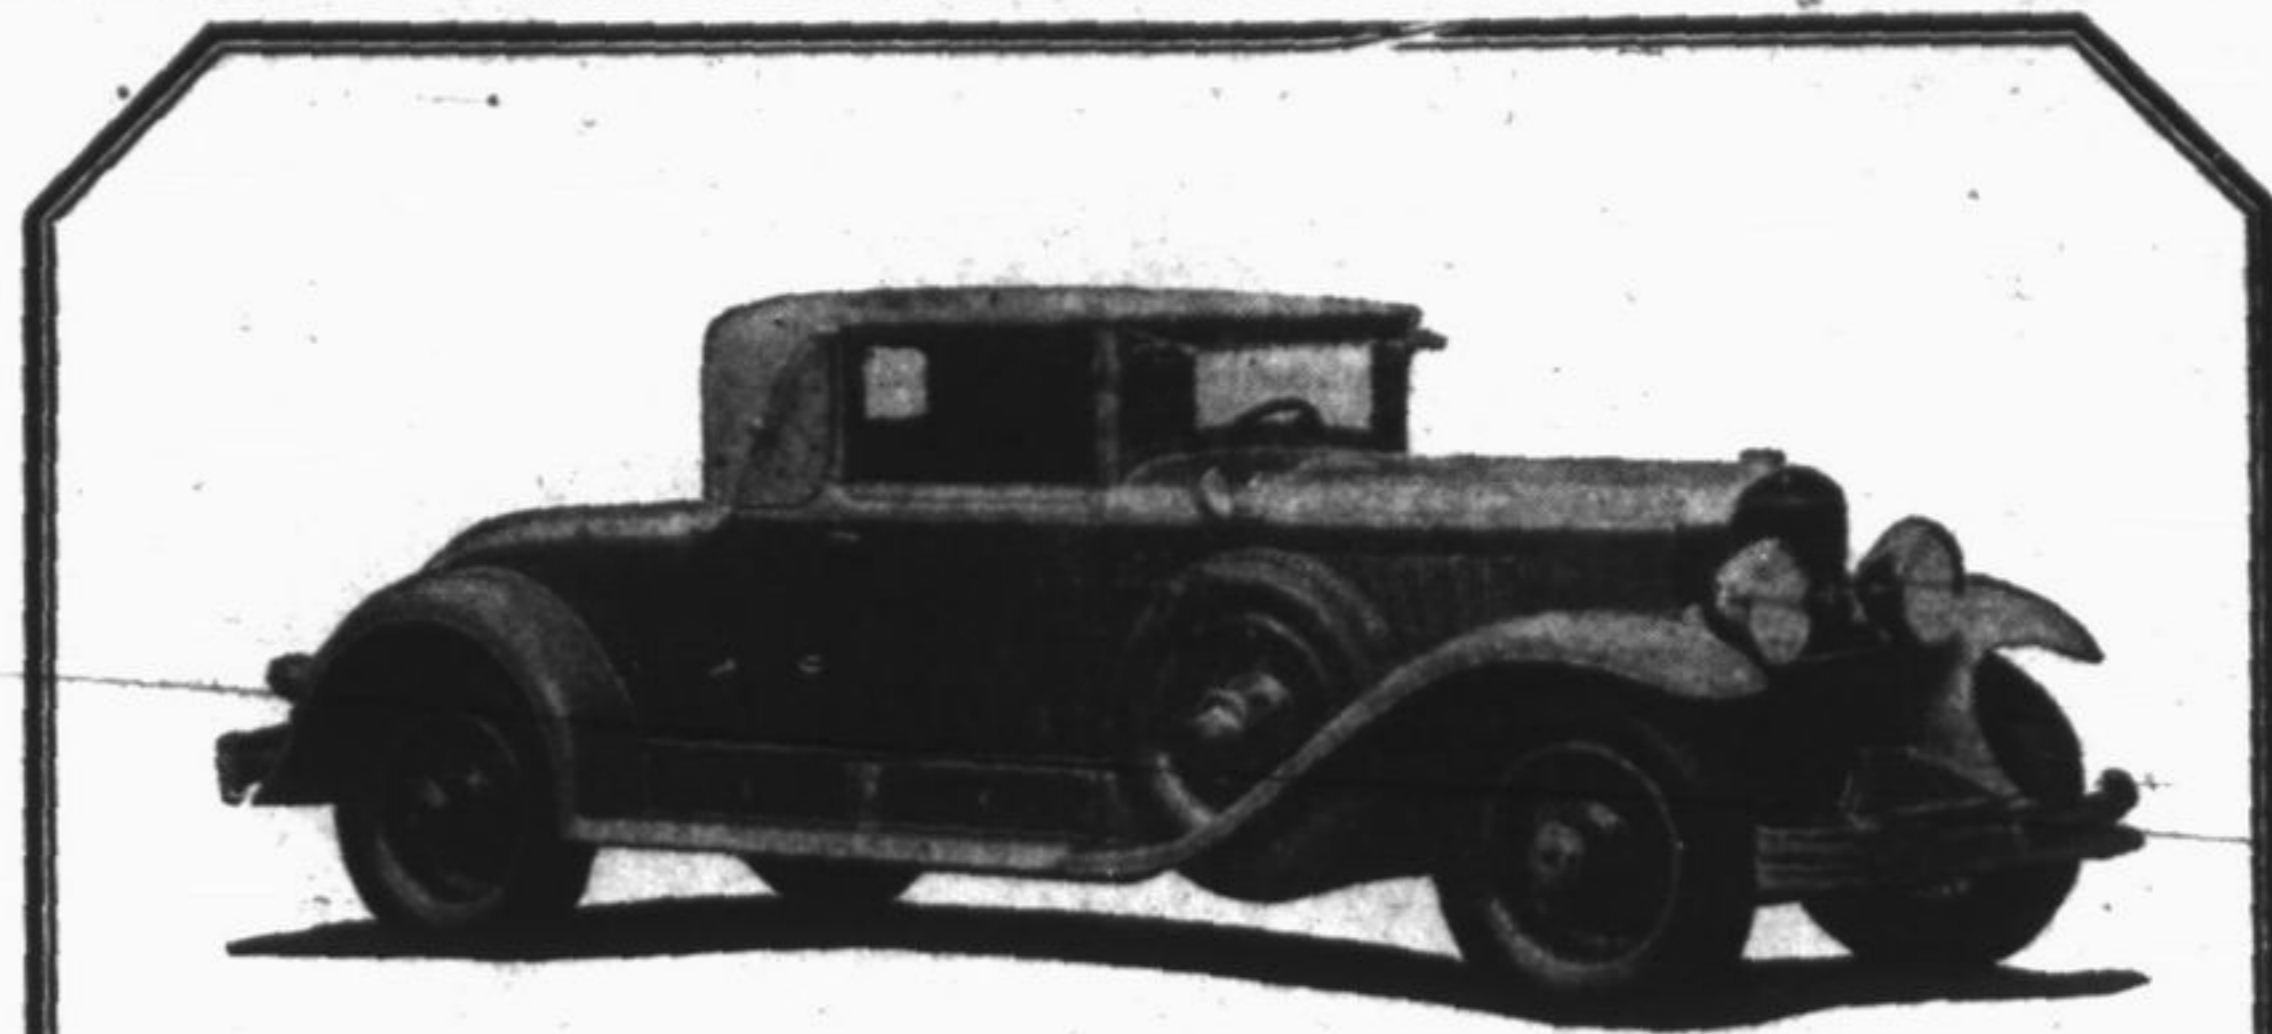

It used to be said the American people did not know how to play, but they have been learning for the past few years how to pay all right.
