LITTLE SYMPHONY AT HIGH SCHOOL OCT. 21

IN AFTERNOON CONCERT

For High and Grammar Students of District; Public Invited; Hope It May Lead to Winter Series

Marked interest is manifested in the approaching appearance at Deerfield-Shields high school of the famous Little Symphony orchestra, under the direction of George Dasch, which will give an afternoon concert in school auditorium at 2:15 o'clock, Friday afternoon, Oct. 21.

The orchestra appears under the joint auspices of the Parents-Teachers association and the Shoreline, the high school students' paper, and it is hoped by sponsors of the concert that sufficient interest will be aroused among students of the high school and of the grammar schools of the district, as well as among the public generally, to warrant engagement of the orchestra for a series of three afternoon and three evening concerts by this famous organization during the winter. The admission price for this initial concert is very small for both children and adults, and the auditorium should be filled to capacity on October 21.

Organized in 1921 The Little Symphony was organized in 1921 by Mr. Dasch, its present conductor, together with Mr. Karl Schulte, manager, and twenty-three associates, all of whom at the time of the organization were members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. The idea which the founders had in mind when this organization was started was to bring symphonic music into the smaller communities and to present in the larger cities the more intimate types of orchestra music which is best presented by a "little symphony."

More than fifty concerts are presented in the Chicago Metropolitan area each season, some of which are given at the Art Institute, at Kimball hall, at Loyola university gymnasium, at Orchestra hall, and at many public and private schools, where a series of children's concerts are given annually.

Noted Musicians The personnel of the orchestra is made up entirely of former members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, which is reputed to have had in its employ the greatest musicians in this country. The most interesting members being Herman Felber, violinist and Theodore Du Moulin, cellist, who often appear as soloists with the orchestra.

Building improvements in Highland Park begun during September showed a decrease as compared with the total on record for September of 1926, but in this practically all suburban cities are alike, as there seems to have been a general lowering in building permit totals throughout the country this season.

The total estimated cost of improvements for which permits were issued by Building Inspector S. D. Morris in Highland Park last month was $175,285, as compared with a total of $202,540 for September, 1926. The total for the period of May 1 to September 30, 1927, is $971,455, as compared with a total of $1,027,406 for the corresponding period in 1926.

Fees Received The total of fees received by the city for the permits issued during September, 1927, is $625.17. Four special permits were issued with fees of $9.00; twelve water tap permits, with fees of $80.00, and six sewer tap permits, with fees of $30.

Altogether, considering the report on building throughout the country during last month, it is believed that Highland Park has maintained a good average, and indications are that while its total for the year will not

Plan Extension of Business District In Several Streets

Elsewhere in this paper appear official notices of hearings on propositions to extend the business district in certain instances. These hearings will be before the zoning committee and everybody interested in either or all of these projects should make it a point to be present. Petitions have been presented by property owners in both cases.

One of these petitions asks that the first lot east of the Alcyon theatre on Central avenue be included in the business district. This lot was formerly so included but later placed in the residential section. It is the property of T. H. Decker.

Another section regarding which a petition has been filed is in Krenn & Dato's subdivision opposite the depot at Park Street.

The public hearing before the zoning committee will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 1, on both propositions.

Another hearing before the committee will be held Thursday, Nov. 10, on a proposition to extend the business-district south on South St. Johns avenue from Hazel avenue to Ravine drive.

These are important questions to those in these regions of the city and a full attendance of the people interested is desired at the hearings.

Allowing the Belfield Boys only two first downs and intercepting two-thirds of their passes the Highwood A. C. scored in every quarter of the game and finished with a 39-0 victory.

JAMES H. DUFFY IS DEAD; END SUDDEN

PASSES AWAY SATURDAY

Was In His Office Attending To Usual Business; Funeral Tuesday; Held Many Offices Here

James H. Duffy, police magistrate, township assessor for many years, and one of Highland Park's best known and most respected citizens for more than half a century, died suddenly last Saturday about noon in his office in the Highland Park State bank building. Death was due to heart trouble and was practically instantaneous. Physicians said that a clot of blood in the heart was the specific cause.

Death Very Sudden

Mr. Duffy, his relatives stated, was feeling especially well and happy that morning when he left his home, 346 Park avenue. He spent much of the morning in his office in consultation with Fred Rudolph on a case which was coming up, and Mr. Rudolph left to go to Waukegan. When the attack came which caused his death Mr. Duffy was talking to two women clients who had come to his office on business. His voice broke in the midst of a sentence and he crumpled down and in a moment was beyond mortal aid. The only word that could be given the relatives was that a loving, faithful husband and father had gone to his reward. It was a severe shock to them and in their sad
