The time is about one o'clock of a Christmas morning in the early seventies of the last century. The place is the living room of a comfortable and fairly prosperous middle western farmer in the United States. The story tells us of the transforming power of the living Christ upon two hardened and embittered persons. It demonstrates the vitality of the redeeming, quickening spirit of Jesus that is ever active in the world.

Bethany Evangelical

C. F. Schriver, minister
Last Sunday's services were well attended and the pastor appreciates very much the spirit of co-operation manifested by Bethany congregation. Let this increase more and more.

The evening of music by the Brand orchestra was well rendered and greatly appreciated by all present. If you missed it you missed something good. We hope to have a repetition of that kind of service again soon.

Next Sunday's services will be as follows:

Sunday school at nine-forty-five. Classes for folk of every age. Bring the family and remain for the morning worship at eleven. Message by the pastor.

The theme of the message of the morning hour will be, "Landmarks in the Life of Jacob." We will be glad to see you at these and all our services.

Christian Endeavor meeting at seven. Young folks are especially invited to the Christian Endeavor and evening service.

Miss M. T. Hasenpflug will address us at the evening service hour, telling us news from the China mission. She has spent a good part of her life in work there and should have a great message for us.

Sunday, Nov. 6 is the day for our offering for foreign missions. In the evening hour the Young People will be in charge of the service and Miss Lucille Fritsch will tell of the field to which she will soon go for her life's work.

We invite the public to all our services.

Correct for Teens
in style and comfort!

WHAT is the young-lady-in-her-earlier-teens to do when she feels that she is becoming "too grown-up" for juvenile styles? What is she to do when Mother warns her against injury to her growing feet by wearing shoes that are too advanced for her years in order to attain that elusive thing called sophistication?

Both of her questions can be answered at once: She can select one of the many exclusively designed models of the Modern Miss Shoe—a shoe correct to the last word in style—correct in the last word of healthful construction and comfort!
