HIGHWOOD DEFEATS THE CHICAGO BLUES Coach McIlvaine's Gridders Win From Fast Bunch Last Sunday

The largest crowd of the season watched Wallie McIlvaine's Highwood eleven nose out the Chicago Blues 6 to 0 last Sunday. Under Coach McIlvaine's guidance the local boys have shown marked improvement and although one of the hardest fought, the game was featured by sportsmanlike play throughout. Twice in the first half Highwood placed the ball on the enemy's ten-yard mark but lacked the power to score. The two teams then saw-sawed in the end zone until the third period. At this time the opponents were in for a big surprise, Highwood receiving a punt on their own 25-yard line took complete charge of proceedings and hauled off and plugged along down to the Blue's 15-yard line. Here Stewart took up the task, slicing right end and galloping over the final chalk line for the lone score of the game. Highwood failed to gain the extra point, a drop kick missing the bar by a few inches.

In the last period the Chicago backs with a flood of substitutions (Notre Dame style) tried every possible trick to score but made only short gains due to the dogged resistance of the Highwood team. With only a few minutes before the final whistle Juhrend, Highwood's end, leaped high and intercepted a pass and the finish found Highwood with the ball and 6 points in their possession.

Next Sunday
A good game is promised for next Sunday when Highwood will meet the Black Jackets at Highwood field.

The Highwood team has improved both in play and appearance, the latter due to the generosity of the Highwood Civic Improvement association, who presented the boys new-sweat shirts and other needed equipment. The entire team extends their heartiest thanks.

The two day program included four luncheons, two on Thursday and two on Friday. The transportation and retail luncheons were held Thursday and the financial-industrial and the waterways luncheons on Friday. The annual banquet was held Thursday evening in the grand ball room at the Palmer House.

Transportation Luncheon
The transportation luncheon attracted an attendance of 2000 business men from Chicago and downstate. The presidents or vice-presidents of 16 railroads sat at the speakers' table along with many notable personages. Vice President Daves was present for a time. Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio E. R., gave an address on "Transportation in the United States" that was widely acclaimed as one of the finest and most concise of summaries of the Transportation Act of 1920. The Red Arrow Quartet of the Pennsylvania Railroad furnished the music.

The retail interests luncheon attracted many downstate retail men. The program, given before 400 merchants, was both interesting and educational. D. F. Kelly, president of the Fair, Store, Chicago; L. M. Jones, Chairman of the Board of the Jones, Store, Kansas City, Mo.; Harold A. Wallace, Secretary of the Bloomington Credit Men's Association, and Frank Grimes, President, Marketing Specialists, Inc., Chicago all talked on problems of interest to retail merchants and each stressed the point that the best way to meet chain stores and mail order houses was just fight the harder and give the better service.

The Annual Banquet, held in the Grand Ball Room, was attended by 700 members of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce and their friends. Former Governor J. A. O. Preus of Minnesota gave the address on "The Government in business." Miss Lois Delander of Joliet, "Miss America," was presented.

Waterway Enthusiasts
Two hundred and fifty waterways enthusiasts crowded into the Red Laquer Room at the same time to hear Senator Charles S. Deneen, Congressman Reid, Colonel E. H. Schulz speak on the need of legislation for flood control. Walter W. Williams, Chairman of the waterway committee, presided. The honorable William Hale Thompson visited the luncheon and, ever an exponent of waterway legislation, he gave an excellent talk on its need.

A general meeting of the Presidents and Board of Directors of local chambers of commerce under the auspices of the Illinois Commercial Secretaries Association attracted a big group of men anxious to hear the interesting program. T. G. Roehm, president of the Aurora Chamber of Commerce presided. Senator Harold Kessinger talked at this meeting on the subject of "The New Localism." The Senator from Aurora gave an excellent address and his remarks were loudly applauded by the audience. John H. Camlin gave the speech of welcome to the local directors. E. J. Kilborn, Decatur; R. O. Ahlonius, president of the Bloomington Association of Commerce and Glen W. Reynolds, president DeKalb Chamber, presented talks on organization work. Willis M. Boardsley, President Pokin Association of Commerce; C. E. Jenks, secretary Springfield Chamber and Wirt Wright, president State Bank & Trust Company, Evanston, spoke on the "Relationship Between the Board of Directors and the Secretary."

Each one of the four luncheons was well attended and interesting from every standpoint. A total of 4,000 attended the luncheons and the Annual Banquet.

Other Features
Other interesting features were the exhibits of the Research Department of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce in charge of Jennie Lee Schram, head of that department and the exhibit of the Cornstalk Products Company, Danville, Ill. The latter organization was invited to display the process whereby ordinary cornstalks are made into hosiery, laquers non-inflammable film and other useful articles. Thousands of visitors examined the various articles and noted the process from raw material to the finished article. It was a splendid example of what can be done in a way of new industries in the state.

During the two days the various committees of the State Chamber met and discussed various business of importance to the organization. One of the interesting side lights of the program was the showing of the Carribean Cruise pictures taken on last year's trip enjoyed by members of the Chamber from all points of the State.

The Annual Meeting served to demonstrate conclusively the work the Illinois Chamber of Commerce has done and is planning for the betterment of the State of Illinois. Each department is noted extensive progress during the past year and, on all sides, both members and visitors present were heard expressing their satisfaction at the success of the Meeting and the Chamber had done and is planning for the future.
