

Girl Scouts

Our Christmas work in girl scouts is well under way. Troops 3 and 4 are filling stockings which will be shipped to the needy children who they are most needed. Troop 2 has taken a family and we hope to make this a very merry Christmas for them. Three new scouts joined last week, one in troop 2 and two in troop 3. We are always very glad to welcome girls who want to be scouts with us. Miss Miller, local director.

NEGRO SCHOOLS IN TEXAS ARE ACTIVE

Negro schools to the number of 413, members of the Texas Interscholastic League of Colored Schools, participated last year in literary and athletic events in county and district meets in the state. The organization is under the supervision of the state farm extension work among negroes, and has for its purpose the promotion of academic and physical education through interschool contests.

PRESIDENT ANTIOCH COLLEGE AT P. T. A.

ANNUAL EVENING MEET

A. E. Morgan, Head of Noted Ohio Institution to Speak at Deerfield-Shields January 5

The Deerfield-Shields Parent Teacher association has been fortunate in securing Arthur E. Morgan, president of Antioch college, an outstanding educator, as the speaker for its evening meeting, January 5, 1928 at 8:15 p. m. in the high school auditorium. President Morgan's subject will be "What College Should Do for Life."

Because of its significance as an educational achievement, the aims and elements of the Antioch program will be given here. Two distinctive things about Antioch college attract most attention.

One is the half-and-half division of the student's time between studying in the college itself and a job—a job in the ordinary sense of the word, at regular current rate wages, in the Antioch industries, in the city of Dayton, in other neighboring communities, or cities as far away as Cleveland and Philadelphia.

This College Is Different
The other is the fact that the full college course at Antioch takes six years, exceptionally able students can finish in five, and there is provision for a few "full-time" students who do not take jobs and finish in four years. Each job is held ordinarily by two students constituting a co-operating pair, one works while the other studies in college, the job is thus continuous, nor is the continuity of the study interfered with. The jobs are found and assigned by the personnel department of the college and there is no difficulty about finding them. Employers are glad to have these intelligent, serious-intentioned young people, and Antioch students know they must make good with a job as well as in college.

President Morgan's Viewpoint
"The best cultural values are gained, says President Morgan, not when we escape industry, but when we make it express our highest purpose. A person who has his cultural standards defined for him in an academic environment and then steps suddenly from college into business life, finds adjustment of standards so difficult and embarrassing, that frequently he gives it up as impossible. The correlation of business methods and college aims should be achieved exper-mentally and during rather than after college years."

Antioch's Unified Course
The cultural course of Antioch is constructed with that idea of education. It is not an array of detached subjects, among which one may select hit-or-miss. A careful survey has been made of the main subjects of human concern and interest, and the cultural curriculum has been planned to give the student a survey of this entire field, so that in no great department of human interest will the student be without fundamental training.

The liberal college work must be distributed among the sciences of chemistry, physics, biology, "earth science" (which includes geology and astronomy) and psychology; the humanities (including history and related social sciences, English, literature and philosophy); mathematics (one year required); and certain interpretive courses such as "college aims," hygiene, personal finance, and scientific methods. Among required courses of both liberal and vocational value are industrial relations, the financial organization of society and legal principles.

Vocational Courses
Vocational courses prepare for such callings as engineering, scientific research and teaching, printing, journalism, education, business, home economics, and nursing. In all vocational courses explicit attention is given to training for management and administration. A large number of Antioch students plan for proprietorship or management. The part time work helps the student meet expenses, helps them determine upon and prepare for appropriate callings, reduces loss of time in after-college adjustments, and so advances the time for home and family. It teaches the difference between theory and practice. Its greatest value, however, is in the development of character, judgment, and intuition. It develops the habit of doing, as well as thinking. The alternation of work and study prevents students from going stale at either work or college.

At the college, students live in a normal college environment of study, athletics, and social life. Most students assume social obligations as a training for citizenship, such activities being directed by the Student Service council. Close association with the faculty—there are six resident students to each faculty member—is largely relied upon for the development of life purpose and the awakening of aspiration.

"Autonomous" courses, in the nature of undergraduate seminars, provide a variety of cultural interests for qualified upper class students.

Dominating all other aims of Antioch is that of developing life purpose and the commitment of all personal resources to the achievement of that purpose.

REMEMBER PATENTS AT GREAT LAKES STATION

Dunsmuir Spencer Auxiliary of the American Legion is assisting in the purchase of 35 dozen shirts and 300 pairs of slippers for Christmas presents for patients at the U. S. Veterans hospital at Five Points and Great Lakes hospital. Each of the 430 men at the Veterans hospital will receive a new shirt and those at Great Lakes a pair of warm bed room slippers. These will be done up in tastily arranged Christmas style packages.

Mrs. Charles Benson, Mrs. Paige Wainwright, and Mrs. W. W. Reichardt are assisting the state rehabilitation chairman in wrapping and marking the packages.

This is only one of the many ways in which the auxiliary distributes the funds raised with the generous assistance of local residents.

Mrs. W. F. Roberts has been made chairman of the Christmas committee with funds which will be used for any needy ex-service man or his family.

The auxiliary held an all day meeting Tuesday, December 13, making new curtains for the Highland Park ward at Great Lakes to replace those furnished several years ago.
