CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS

Even the humble home wants some decorations for Christmas. The folks do not feel it right to pass this day of sweet rejoicing, without the beauty of the green woodlands to brighten up the commonplace of daily life.

It used to be a great stunt for the young people to go out into the woodlands and gather evergreen foliage for church decorations. Many happy hours were spent in those country scenes, while the young people gathered the pretty green stuff and frolicked and flirted.

Today if we go out into the woodlands for decorations, some landowner may charge us with trespassing, and perhaps get our automobile license taken away from us. It is a lovely thing to decorate our homes, but all who gather such decorations should be careful to respect the rights of landowners, and they should not exterminate the beautiful plants which help create the attractiveness of our state.

PEACE MAKING AT CHRISTMAS

One of the ways of observing Christmas in some countries, is to settle up old feuds and quarrels. A pretty symbol of that spirit is expressed in the Scandinavian countries, by the custom of placing in an orderly row every pair of shoes owned in the family, as a symbol that they are going to walk together peacefully and live harmoniously during the coming year.

It would be a splendid thing everywhere if people could get this old world idea that ill feelings and quarrels should all be forgotten at Christmas. People should wipe these things off their slates, and start in for a new deal of friendly relations with everyone.

It usually pays to overlook past offenses. Most quarrels that people get into are needless. If people meet the world in a generous and fair minded spirit, they usually find the same spirit responding.

North Shore News

The Italian Renaissance idea will be carried out in the wedding on December 28, of Miss Mary Louise Worthington of Glencoe to Alfredo Mazzarella of New York City and Capri, Italy. The bridesmaids' costumes will be in the style of that time, and the decorations at the Worthington home, 1016 Forest avenue, Glencoe, where a reception will follow the ceremony, are to be of the same period. The large bridal dinner, which will probably be given the evening before the wedding, also will be Italian.

Mr. Mazzarella's best man will be Maj. James Belton of New York City, and his list of ushers includes Arthur Wellesley-Colley and Spencer Libby of Evanston, J. Keith Davis of Riverside, and Roger Heylin of Chicago.

Miss Jule Lester's luncheon and hosiery shower for Miss Worthington was given Thursday at the Illinois Woman's Athletic club.

COLORS FOR AUTOS LIKE JOSEPH'S COAT

ALL SORTS OF SHADES

New Type of Finish Provided Opportunity for Decorations Not Previously Possible

When one observes many of the repainted cars he is reminded of that truism in Shakespeare's King John which spoke of "mocking the air with colours idly spread." "Colours" spelled in the old-fashioned way is quite in keeping with the way in which some car owners insist on "mocking the air" with their old-fashioned ways of refinishing their cars.

With the new type of permanent pyroxylin finish a car can be kept brilliant and with as good a looking surface as it had when it was fresh from the factory. Groom your car the way you used to do with the old horse. The car won't take a quarter as much time.

Various Colors
Grays such as rendezvous and Mason, which you can find in the new pyroxylin finish, with a hint of violet, prove very effective even when coated with a little film of dust.

Baronial maroon trimmed with gold is a color scheme that resists the so-called traffic film. Blues like Mindinao and Boatswain blue are also able to fight their way through layers of dust and mud. Warm rich browns trimmed with black and gold usually need little attention. After all, these are the good old earth colors.

To give your car individuality use the more vivid hues on the wheels or low on the chassis or around the windows. But remember that in using two or more colors that you must know the results that will follow. Colors can make your car look longer, or shorter, taller or lower. The thing to know is how to use it.

Two-Tone Effects
In dressing up the "bus" and in order to make it look longer use the dark color on the upper part of the car and on the fenders, and sandwich the light colors in between. Dark colors have the effect of compressing light colors and so the wide-band of light tone on your car will make it look appreciably longer. Experiment a little before making your final decision.

Light wheels seem to raise the car higher from the ground. Unless you have a long wheel base avoid making a mistake.

Be sure to accentuate, by the use of color, the horizontal line on your car, and be quite as sure to avoid emphasizing any of the vertical lines.

If you have much up-and-down color it will either cut your car up into several pieces or else make it look squatly.

Cars that have reveals sunk under the windows are benefited by the use of a little more vivid color thereabouts, but care should be taken so as not to color the wheels too brightly.

The drums of the four-wheel brakes can be used as a means to develop secondary color, low in the silhouette, and give the wheels added color interest.

It is a simple proposition to have beautiful colors on the family car.

Finally, avoid the dull black as a one-color scheme.

The Strangle Hold
Wunne: I can't understand why I was so dizzy last night. I only had one glass.
Guyee: Yes, but they kept filling it up.

Might o' Been
Am I the first girl you ever kissed? Now that you mention it, you do look familiar.

GOES THROUGH TORNADO ATOP TELEPHONE POLE

Thrilling Experience of Lineman During Cyclone in St. Louis, Mo.

Telephone workers had some thrilling experiences during the St. Louis tornado last September, but few will envy that of W. P. Tietjens, cable splicer, who went through the tornado atop a telephone pole on Spring avenue.

He was making a splice when the tornado arrived. When he became aware of his danger, it was too late to climb down, so that all the time the wind was striking with all its fury, he was entangled in the ropes and tarpaulin. Had he seen his predicament a minute earlier and started to climb down the pole, he probably would have lost his life, for when the inky darkness lifted, it was found that a metal garage building had wrapped itself neatly around the pole. His devotion to duty in taking a couple of moments to protect his splice from the elements, thereby rendering his escape impossible, prevented the garage from also wrapping itself around him. Incidentally, the splice was saved, but the cable itself was ruined. Tietjens escaped with a cut on his leg.

EFFECT OF CONGRESS ON BUSINESS, TOPIC Often Feared, But Without Good Cause Is Opinion of One Writer; Reasons

Congress and its effect on business is always a fruitful topic of conversation. It may as well be admitted that although there is an element of hysteria in the fear which business has of Congress, it does so operate. Business just now is having its worries over the intimation that there will be some tariff tinkering in the session of congress.

The basis for this thought is contained in the report of the business men's advisory committee on the agricultural situation which was recently distributed throughout the country. The members of that committee have maintained that a tariff adjustment or readjustment was a necessary part of the business of settling the agricultural troubles.

The net result unfortunately, however, has been that already in all those businesses using raw materials for manufacture, or the merchandising of finished products abroad, there is already a move towards curtailment. In short, the business man feels that if any changes are to be made, his wisest course is to see that he keeps as far away from it as possibly, and unhappily curtailment of production at once means curtailment of payrolls.

Culinary Hints

This week I give you a recipe which I am sure is an old favorite with many, though it will be new to others. In any event, you will find it unusually delicious.

Here you have nearly a whole dinner cooked in one dish, and I would suggest that you have your dessert ready early in the day, then a few minutes before your dessert is done, place a pan of baking powder biscuits in the oven, for you can bake them at the same temperature.

Staffed Pork Tenderloin En Casserole
2 pork tenderloins
3 sweet potatoes of good size.
2 tart apples of good size
2 tab brown sugar
1-4 cup butter
salt and pepper, stuffing

Have tenderloins split lengthwise, but not cut in two; and have them flattened. Fasten the two together with toothpicks and fill with stuffing. Tie in two or three places with string to make them a little more solid for slicing. Brush over with melted butter or other fat. Add salt and pepper and sprinkle lightly with flour.

Boil sweet potatoes until partly done, cut in two or three pieces crosswise; quarter and core apples, but do not pare. Place stuffed tenderloins in the center of a greased casserole and alternate potatoes and apples around them. Salt the potatoes, sprinkle sugar over potatoes and apples and pour over them the melted butter.

Bake uncovered about 1 1/4 hours at 450, turning tenderloins when browned on one side. Remove toothpicks and string and serve in casserole, or remove to platter if you prefer, placing potatoes and apples around the meat.

Stuffing
5 cups soft bread from inside of loaf, cut in small dice.
Do not press into cup to measure, but measure lightly.
1-2 tab grated onion.

1-2 teas salt
1-4 teas pepper
1-4 cup melted butter.
Mixed bread and seasonings, pour melted butter over this and mix with a fork.

N. Y. THEATER GUILD TO APPEAR IN WINNETKA

Shaw's "Arms and Man" to be Presented Wednesday, December 28

Through the initiative of the North Shore Theater guild one more opportunity for entertainment of a high order is brought to the doorstep of the north shore dwellers.

Seizing the opportunity offered by the first westward tour of the Repertory company of the New York Theater guild, arrangements have just been concluded for a performance of "Arms and the Man," by Bernard Shaw, at the Jane Kuppenheimer Memorial hall, Skokie school, Winnetka, Wednesday evening, Dec. 28.

The North Shore guild is hopeful that this first visit of a professional company to the north shore will be so enthusiastically received that in future years attractions of this sort may come to be a part of its regular yearly programs, thus adding one more to the already existing joys of life here, the Ravinia opera, Symphony concerts, great artist concerts, May festival and all the rest.

All seats for "Arms and the Man" are reserved. Application is to be made to John Allen Stewart, business manager North Shore Theater guild, 716 Foster street, Evanston; phone University 8226.
