NEW YEAR CALLS

One of the traditional features of New Year's day in many cities, has been the custom of making social calls. In society circles, the devotees of fashion would make the rounds of many homes of the elect, and exchange their suave compliments.

Probably the enjoyment of the society of their friends was much accentuated in those days, by the moisture of the occasion, with a tendency to exuberant hilarity that went to excess in many cases.

The idea back of the New Year calling custom was a pretty one, that people might well start the new period of time by meeting their friends. It gave a happy start on the new year, and helped people to feel hopeful and cheerful.

Today a great many people rebel at the custom of making social calls. They get their social life in different ways. Perhaps they do not cultivate their social natures sufficiently. It might do them good to get out on January 1, and exchange the greetings of the day.

THE CLEAN PAGE

In former days people were frequently exhorted to "turn over a new leaf" on New Year's Day. There is something intriguing about that idea of a new and fresh page. After you have made a year's record that has many blots in the form of wasted energy, mistakes in one's work, failure to do acts of kindness, it is a pleasant thought that we have a fresh period of time in which to repair the mistakes of the past.

Every day brings opportunities to write a page of the book of life that shall be useful and inspiring. The opportunities thrust themselves in our faces.

They come in our daily work, to put more brains and persistence into it. They come in our community life, to take hold and help some cause that needs co-operation. They come in our mental development, to read books and newspapers that give us information. They come in our neighborly contacts, to do some act of friendship for people that need help.

Rev. A. P. Johnson, pastor.

The singing of Christmas carols by the junior choir on Christmas Eve, proved to be a great blessing to many. One family expressed their joy by giving five dollars for the work of the church. Another person was moved to tears as the carols pealed out upon the clear, frosty air. It was a most blessed work for the members of the choir.

The Christmas program last Wednesday evening was well rendered and the church was filled to capacity, some being necessitated to stand during the program. An offering for missions amounted to $37.82. The pastor and family were remembered with many gifts including a purse of $46.50.

This church extends to all a sincere New Year's greeting. May the year 1928 witness our discovery of the higher values of life and developing the finer graces of living. To accomplish this most desirable end we will need the ministrations of the church and the hours of worship in the sanctuary. The Christian religion is a commodity no one can do without. Let us start the New Year right by acting upon that which our best selves tell us we need and compel ourselves to give more time to God and to the advancement of his Kingdom. Go to church on Sunday.

A cordial welcome to all the services and activities of this church.

Mr. H. P. Thorn Dies at His Home in Forest Glenn; Funeral Monday

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Meyer and Mr. Alvin Meyer attended the funeral of Mr. H. P. Thorn of Forest Glenn, Monday.

Mr. Thorn died very suddenly at his home Friday, Dec. 23 and services were held from his late home, Monday morning at 10 o'clock with the Rev. M. J. Andrews of Deerfield Presbyterian church officiating and burial was in Delavan, Wis.

Mr. Thorn, who had reached the age of 70 years, was born in Delavan where he spent his early life.

Mr. and Mrs. Thorn lived in Deerfield about 25 years ago. They had one son who died when quite young. His widow, one sister and one brother of Delavan, and one sister of New York, survive him.

The business men complain of their overhead costs, and one good way to keep them down is to buy their hats in home town stores.

The textile producers can't seem to make the women ashamed of their short skirts, but perhaps they can persuade them they are going to be unfashionable.
