NEW HUDSON-ESSEX MODELS INTRODUCED

Advanced style is the outstanding change in the new Hudson-Essex line of cars introduced yesterday by the Hudson-Essex dealers. Motorists here are viewing the new cars simultaneously with the throngs who attended the national automobile show in New York City, where the Hudson-Essex line made its bow to the public.

But though these new cars, as seen yesterday, are strikingly improved in style and beauty, Hudson-Essex has kept a traditionally keen eye on fundamentals of value, in fact the price on a highly important model—the Essex 4-door sedan—is reduced $40. Hudson-Essex presents this as the only 6-cylinder, 4-door sedan with a list price below the $800 level. On other cars, some prices remain with no change; others are advanced.

Essex is now equipped with Bendix 4-wheel brakes and a heavier anti-friction steering gear. Hudson frames have two tubular cross members. Essex, as well as Hudson, now has the Electro-lock anti-theft device. Both cars continue their high-compression, high-efficiency motors. These are said to operate smoothly on any type of gasoline, and through intensive development to assure even smoother and more powerful performance.

use calling, as he had cut the 'phone wires." Later Mr. Greenberg stated that he found that the wire had been cut.

Continuing his story of the affair Mr. Greenberg stated that the bandit demanded the combination of the safe in the office downstairs. "I asked him if he wanted me to open the safe," Greenberg said, "but he said 'No, just give me the numbers and I'll open it myself.'"

All this time the gun was pointing at Greenberg and he had no recourse but to obey, he stated. The man ordered the manager to precede him down to the ground floor and there he forced him into the women's wash room on the west side of the lobby, a small room without window and no opening except a small grating high in the wall to admit air. It was cold in the wash room, Greenberg said, and he complained about it, he said. The bandit, then, Greenberg stated, went and got him a pillow and a blanket and promised to call the local police when he reached Waukegan to inform them of Greenberg's predicament. This, however, the accommodating burglar failed to do. The yegg had a key with which he locked the washroom on the outside, Greenberg stated.

Found by Janitor

Greenberg states that he was shut in the wash room five or six hours, as nearly as he could estimate. He kicked the door and shouted at intervals but failed to attract attention until the janitor came to the house shortly after 7 o'clock Tuesday morning. Stiff and shivering with cold from his chilly prison, Greenberg was scarcely able to walk when he emerged, but immediately notified the police and Manager Bruce Godshaw of the theater, who was in Chicago. The latter and Greenberg spent the remainder of the day checking up on the receipts which were in the safe from the Friday evening previous to Monday night, and estimated that about $2,100 or $2,200 was missing. They stated Tuesday that they carried burglary insurance.

Description Given

Chief of Police Edward Moroney made a careful investigation and is of the belief that the bandit either had a key to fit the outer door, or else had hidden in the theater until it was vacated by the audience and closed on Monday night. There were no evidences of finger prints about the safe, but Greenberg explained this by the fact that he had noticed that the man wore a pair of black kid gloves. He further described the man as being about five feet, eight inches tall, wearing a dark blue suit and a sweater. He had a black mask over the greater portion of his face and a red bandana handkerchief around his neck. On his head was a cap. No trace of the bandit has been found.

Merchants' Night Watchman Peter Loesch reported having passed the theater regularly during the night and noticed that the light in the office was always burning. This light was still burning in the morning, but as the safe was in the south end of the office and wholly out of sight from the street, the burglar evidently used good judgment in leaving it alight; otherwise the attention of the watchman might have been drawn.

Robbery Carefully Planned

Greenberg frequently sleeps in the room on the second floor, and believes that the bandit had carefully planned the robbery and evidently he had very complete knowledge of the place.

Investigators from the insurance company arrived Tuesday afternoon and were still here yesterday aiding in the investigation of the affair.

Find Newly-made Key

A newly-made key was found on the floor of the theater near one of the doors opened; it fitted the lock, and the police believe it is the only tangible clue. Investigation as to where it was made may help to trace the bandit, Chief of Police Moroney believes.

the University. Upon his father-in-law's death in 1923 he was appointed as his successor.

Noted School

The American university of Beirut occupies a unique and commanding position of influence throughout the entire southern near eastern area. The student body, numbering 1,215 is highly representative of the progressive elements in Syria, Palestine, Asia Minor, Persia, India, Egypt and the Islands of the Mediterranean. Native rulers and national leaders recognize this institution as an outstanding influence for the improvement and rehabilitation of their countries.

As head of such an institution President Dodge commands the admiration and confidence of officials and governments, and occupies a position of outstanding leadership in the whole near eastern world. America may well be proud of such a statesman-educator, and Highland Park is fortunate in the opportunity to hear him.

REPORT LOCAL MAN'S DEATH IN THE EAST

Friends here have learned of the death of Mr. Paul Haskins, a resident of this city, and which, it is understood, occurred last week in the east, the information received here being that he suffered an attack of illness while on a train. Burial, it is learned, was in Rosehill cemetery, Chicago. Effort to obtain definite information from the Haskins home here yesterday was futile, as no response could be obtained to telephone calls, and it was supposed the family were absent.

TWO HIGHWOOD MEN KILLED ON TRACKS

A blinding snowstorm, which veiled the approach of a train cost the lives of Joseph Scarnavacco, aged, 22 years, and Jose Martini, aged 25, both of Highwood, at an early hour Saturday morning. Mangled bodies of the two men were found lying on the track of the North Western railroad a few hundred feet north of the Highwood station of that railroad by fellow workmen at 7 o'clock that morning.

Both men, employees of the track department of the railroad company, had worked throughout most of the night in cleaning snow from switches along the Highwood section of the railroad.

Crew Unaware

Officials of the railroad company stated on Saturday that the train which had struck the men had not been determined, but they stated that an investigation was under way.

It is believed that the blinding snow and roar of the wind prevented the two men from seeing or hearing the train and that both remained at their work as the train bore down upon them and snuffed out their lives. Scarnavacco evidently had been hurried from the track, but Martini was caught beneath the wheels, it appeared.

How long the remains of the men laid strewn in the snow along the track until they were found by other track employes will not be known but it is certain that they had been there for more than an hour.

Coroner Plans Probe

The bodies of both men were removed to Prior's funeral home where an inquest was held by Dr. J. L. Taylor, county coroner.

Scarnavacco had been a resident of Highwood for several years. He was married and had a wife and one year old son. His home is on Washington avenue. Martini who had lived in Highwood but one month, was single.

The funeral of Martini was held Monday and burial was in the Moonsey cemetery, and that of Scarnavacco was held Tuesday, the remains being placed in a vault in St. Mary's cemetery.

INSTALL OFFICERS OF O. E. S. LAST EVENING

The annual installation of officers of Campbell Chapter, O. E. S., was held last evening in Masonic temple. The ceremonies were conducted in a most impressive manner, the Knight Templars from Evanston commanding acting as an escort and Mrs. Vivian Scott, past worthy grand matron and acting grand chaplain, Mrs. Sadie Buckley and Mrs. Pauline White, grand lecturers of the Order of the Eastern Star, acting as installing officers. During the evening a splendid program was rendered by a quartet from Chicago, organ numbers by Mr. H. V. Nichols and several solos by Mrs. C. A. Fardee.
