

OPPOSES REDUCING O. S. TARIFF RATES

SECRETARY JARDINE TALK

Does Not Believe Farmer Would Be Benefited by Cutting Custom Figures; Tells His Reasons

Another man who has studied the farm situation has lifted his voice in warning against any downward revision of our protective tariff laws. The man is Secretary Jardine of the Department of Agriculture who declared recently in an address in New York that the repeal of the protective tariff would hurt the American farmer more than it would aid him, says the National Republic.

Secretary Jardine pointed out the fact that our agricultural exports are not increasing proportionately with other exports, and that the amount of agricultural products exported from the United States is steadily becoming smaller in proportion to the amount of our farm produce consumed in the United States.

This causes Secretary Jardine to infer, quite logically:

More Dependent

"Since agriculture is becoming less an industry more dependent on the foreign market, it is becoming increasingly important to agriculture that protection should be maintained against foreign competition in our markets.

"Those who, unthinkingly or in a spirit of political revenge, would wreck our protective system in the alleged interest of agriculture should stop to think what it would really mean. Competition of foreign agricultural products in our markets would be keenly felt by our farmers and agriculture would surely suffer with the rest because of that instability of commercial relations which drastic tariff changes would create.

Need Stability

"In addition to freedom we need stability of commercial relations. This we shall achieve in proportion as we learn to control economic forces, to the mutual advantage of all economic groups. The tariff, I believe, has done much to maintain commercial confidence and a fair degree of business stability in this country in recent years. This, I am confident, is so important that any effect which the tariff has or may have on the price of this or that commodity must not be thought of as comprising the whole tariff question. Any changes in our tariff system which would throw into disorder our commercial relations could not help our agriculture."

The American farmer knows that lowering the tariff will not aid but will injure him in the long run. He knows that what is needed is not less protection for American workers but additional protection for certain key crops which the American farmer, fruit-grower and livestock man produce.

PLAN ACCOUNTING FOR CRIMINALS

FORM STATISTIC BUREAU

Survey Shows America Has Most Crime and Worst Method of Keeping Track of Them; Details Given

Establishment of criminal statistics bureaus in every state of the Union, is recommended by the National Crime Commission.

Based upon the findings of an investigating committee headed by ex-Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, the report states that America has more crime than any other civilized nation and has the world's worst criminal statistics. Annual police reports of America were termed little less than ridiculous.

The statistical bureaus recommended by the crime commission, coupled with central identification bureaus also suggested, would be enormous assistance to the Federal Census Bureau in tabulation of criminal data.

In Civil Affairs

In civil affairs such as operating railroads, public utilities and national banks, the law requires uniform reports of the most intricate character and private companies have to furnish these reports to state and federal governments so that public officials can check them in the smallest details.

In public affairs and police court records, why cannot the same uniformity and thoroughness be applied? Why should the criminal be encouraged in carrying on his work due to lack of public information regarding his crimes? Why not keep as accurate a check on criminals as we do on honest and legitimate business?

Why blame the war, the modern jazz age, bootleg liquor, the movies, revolvers or our large cities for the "crime profession"? Instead of warning on the criminal, we pass more laws further restricting law-abiding citizens, in the hope that the criminal will be checked by a new law. He laughs at such tactics knowing the more laws we have, the more loopholes there are for him to crawl through and evade punishment. Uniform laws, uniform penalties and uniform enforcement would get results.

W. J. BROWN, J. H. ZIMMER, Board of Local Improvements of the City of Highland Park, Illinois Dated at Highland Park, Ill. January 12, 1928.

With Leap Year under way and Valentine's day soon coming, times are getting tense for the hunted bachelor.

Some folks think they can live by their wits, and no doubt they always can, but the living may be in jail. The parents who formerly worried for fear their boys would be drowned in bathing, now have to worry for fear they will drop out of aeroplanes.
