U. S. PROSPERITY DEPENDS ON PEOPLE

Present Fine Economic Conditions Will Continue So Long as Americans Use Judgment

All business men and American well wishers were encouraged by the report of Secretary Mellon on business conditions at the beginning of the new year. The report, which is borne out by the surveys made by competent authorities will tend to give assurance to the men who are interested in continuing the progress and prosperity of the nation in 1928, says the National Republic.

The American people have now progressed to the point where they have a standard of living which has never been equalled at any time in the history of the world. This standard of living is due to American business genius, to the efficiency of American labor and to constructive policies which have made our present prosperity general.

Constructive Policies
Among these policies are restricted immigration and the protective tariff, which have guarded the American worker against an incoming flood of cheap and undesirable foreign labor and cheap and undesirable foreign goods. Between our great and prosperous states there is a free exchange of goods with no barriers and this is possible because we are one people in forty-eight commonwealths each with the same ideals and the same standard of living. But the case is far different when we compare nations of the world. The Washington Post recently well summed up the situation as follows:

"When American labor is employed at good wages the nation is safe and sound. A heavy influx of foreigners would tend to reduce wages. This would be advantageous to some employers, but it would not benefit the country as a whole.

Would Aid Money-Lenders
Similarly, a breach in the tariff wall would be highly advantageous to importers and certain bankers who make a business of lending money abroad on questionable security. These bankers would willingly sacrifice American industry for the sake of collecting the money they have lent abroad. But the interests of all the people require that tariff protection shall remain intact, and be extended in other directions whenever American industry and labor are found to be insufficiently protected. Thus all Americans are enabled to become producers, and by producing they are enabled to consume liberally what their fellow Americans produce.

"The bulwark of American farmers is the tariff. It guarantees to them a body of consumers who can pay liberal prices for all farm products. As the farmers learn better to market their products they will increase their prosperity.

"On a solid economic system, found by experience to be adapted to the best interests of the country, the United States enters the new year in a prosperous condition. No one but Americans can destroy the prosperity of the United States."

USE NEW MATERIAL IN TWO RESIDENCES HERE

Residences employing an entirely new system of construction are being erected for two prominent Lake Forest residents, Clarence B. Mitchell, son of the late John J. Mitchell, and Corson G. Ellis. Mr. Mitchell's home on Sheridan road, was designed by Philip B. Maher, architect; Mr. Ellis' home, which is on Laurel avenue, was designed by Frazier, Blouke and Hubbard, architects.

The walls of both these homes are being formed of gypsum building tile, an incombustible and insulating tile that is laid very much as brick is laid. Being incombustible, the tile adds fire-safety to a structure; being insulating in themselves, they eliminate the need for extra insulating materials. Both homes are to have exterior finishes of brick, that on Mr. Mitchell's home to be of common brick painted white.

Thomas Gorey is the general contractor for the Mitchell home and P. W. Roberts for the Ellis home. Materials for both homes is being furnished by the G. L. Blanchard Co.

My past is entirely gone,
Without any trousers on.
I left all my future behind me,
I went to my classes this morn.
There was a certain old geeser,
Met an old maid and tried to please her.
When she said, "Stop, mister,"
He grabbed her and kissed her,
Now his friends call him the lemon squeezer.

On the window of a London restaurant an Aberdonian read, "No Gratuities." So he entered.
But going to wash his hands, he read the words, "Tip the basin." He stepped back.

"Aye," he granted, "I thoct such a Gal—such a Gal
One: How is her line?
Two: Judging from the crowd following her it must be a tow line.

CULINARY HINTS

by Nina Brewer
of Home Service Department of North Shore Gas Company

My recipe this week is for a desert which is very simple and easy to make, and which I am sure every one will like, I use apricots for this recipe, but if you prefer to substitute other fruit do so.

This recipe is for an Apricot Cake or apricot pudding, and I use the juice from the apricots to make the sauce. It also may be served as a coffee cake without the sauce any time you wish, but you will find the sauce quite an addition, I'm sure.

Apricot Cake
1 1/2 cups cake flour—sifted several times.
3 teas. baking powder.
1/2 teas. salt.
1 tab. sugar.
3 tab. butter or other shortening.
1 egg well beaten.
1/2 cup milk.

1 large can of apricots.
2 tab. sugar.
1/4 teas. nutmeg.
2 tab. melted butter.
Mix the flour, baking powder, salt and sugar together, cut in the shortening as for biscuits, add egg and milk. Spread in a flat pan and cover the top with rows of the apricots, after draining them well, using the halves of apricots. Sprinkle over the apricots, the 2 tab. sugar mixed with the 1/4 teas. nutmeg and pour over all the 2 tab. melted butter. Bake 35 to 40 minutes at 400. Serve hot with sauce.

Apricot Sauce
1/2 cup flour.
1 cup sugar 2 cups apricot juice, using part water if necessary.
1/4 teas. salt.
2 tab. butter.
2 teas lemon juice.
Mix flour, sugar and salt; add to hot juice and cook until thickened. Remove from fire, add butter and lemon juice. If there are any pieces of the apricot left after covering top of cake, cut them up and add to juice when making sauce.
(Next week: Scalloped Salmon and Noodles.)

WINNETKA GIRL WINS LABORATORY HONORS

Miss Caroline Roberts of 760 Prospect avenue, Winnetka, has the honor of being the first girl to receive an assistantship in the Research Laboratory of the Physics Department of the University of Chicago.

Miss Roberts, a former New Trier high school student, was graduated from Smith college last June, having been awarded the Sophia Smith Honorary Fellowship for study in Physics at that institution. For the past year she has continued her studies at the University of Chicago where she will serve in her new capacity for the coming two years.

MRS. MCKENDRY TO PLAY ON BROADWAY

Woman Who Has Appeared in Guild Plays Here is Studying in New York

Erma Blaine McKendry, prominent as a dramatic reader and active in local dramatic circles, is in New York studying Theodora Irvine's Studio for the theatre. The amateur theatre has always been Mrs. McKendry's hobby, and her performance in "Mary the Third," "Truth About Blayds" and "The Pelican" for the North Shore Theatre Guild attracted favorable attention.

Viewing her work in the studio, John Golden chose her for a play to open this spring on Broadway, but she will return to her home here when she has completed the Irvine course.

While in New York Mrs. McKendry lives at 80 Riverside drive.

The Poor Simp
"Mary," said the poor pride of a husband, "if you don't pull down your dress some one's going to see that mole on your neck."
