"It is believed that this would "From a sentimental point of view, bring quicker relief to agriculture," said Dr. Taylor, "and that it would cause less disturbance in other occupations. With the farmers this has become such an important issue with them that it is looked upon by them as far more important than adherence to political parties. This economic issue bids fair to become a major political issue if relief is not obtained without further delay." Ask For Equality

Farmers are simply asking for equality for agriculture under the tariff, Dr. Taylor said. Because of unfavorable price ratios farmers "As a matter of business the coun- have been delivering five carloads of products to the city in exchange for the same amount of city products they received before the war for four carloads of products."

"The purpose of the protective tariff," Dr. Taylor said, "has always been that of readjusting price ratios. rounded economic life in the United States. When an industry which was believed to be essential to the well being of the nation could not thrive because prices were so low that it could not compete successfully for labor and capital in the home market, the policy has been to protect that industry by means of a tariff. In many cases the advantage thus gained has been greater than was necessary to sustain the industry.

COMING APPEARANCES OF H. S. ORCHESTRA

The Deerfield-Shields orchestra has been scheduled for several public appearances during the month March. On two of these occasions, the orchestra will play in the auditorium, while the other two or three appearances will be out of the school.

The orchestra will play several numbers preceding the Marionette show, March 16, and also the evening of the senior play, "To the Ladies," March 30.

Tuesday afternoon the orchestra will give a thirty minute program for the Highland Park Woman's club. At the Lincoln school the orchestra has been included in a program for the pupils and mothers to be given about April 1.
