WAUKEGAN PAPER ISSUES BIG EDITION

SUN HAS NEW BUILDING

Handsome Structure Equipped With Mammoth Fast Press; Other Department Equally Provided For

In observance of its approaching occupation of its fine new building, the Waukegan Daily Sun on Monday of this week issued one of the largest single issues of a daily newspaper in the history of the state outside of Chicago. This mammoth edition consisted of 6592 papers of 152 pages each, filled with news, feature stories and advertising. It was a great undertaking well carried out, and the Sun merits the widespread congratulation it is receiving.

The Sun, which covers its field thoroughly, besides offering its readers complete telegraphic reports of national and world news, is controlled by William J. Smith and Frank G. Smith, the former editor and the latter business manager of the publication. They are experienced newspaper men and have built up the Sun, which is the successor of the oldest Waukegan publication, from small size to its present notable position of strength and prestige in the city and county.

The big edition of Monday was printed on the Sun's mammoth new Scott press, capable of printing and folding 36,000 32-page papers per hour, which is installed in the new building, although the offices and other department will not be moved to the new location for two or three weeks.

The new home of the Sun is one of which its owners and their associates may justly feel proud.

It is located on Madison street, just across from the city fire and police department, and stands at the alley, facing south. The alley runs along to the west of the building.

The building is on a lot 30x142 feet and every inch of available space was utilized in the construction of the plant.

The front of the edifice is artistically designed and of white granite. That nothing was spared to make the building an attractive one and complete in every respect is shown by the fact that even the outside of the structure running clear through along the alley is built of red pressed brick.

The foundations are of reinforced concrete as are also the floors, and walls all of the latter being faced with brick. The building throughout is constructed in a most substantial manner.

It has a full basement and two stories above in the rear, with three stories in front. In the front portion are to be found the offices, the main office being on the first floor, with dimensions of 30x60 feet. Entering the front office through a revolving floor was constructed to take care of rather unique arrangement for a newspaper office in that a mezzanine floor was constructed to take care of the private offices of the editor and manager, advertising and other departments. The mezzanine floor extends around the front of the office, around on the east side of the building and also at the north side of the office proper. All the other departments are equally well provided for.

DEERFIELD BUILDING & LOAN ASSOCIATION

The Deerfield Building and Loan association last week held its sixth monthly meeting, and although organized only last October the association has already made two real estate first mortgage loans. Both loans were made on property worth more than twice the amount of the loans, which is indicative of the safety with which the association's funds are invested.

As the association continues to grow and the receipts increase, loans will be made with greater frequency, and the profits to the members will increase proportionately. The declining interest rates on good bonds and other conservative investments makes an investment in Building and Loan association shares more attractive today than ever before, as these shares yield better than 6 per cent and are protected by the investment of all funds in first mortgages on selected real estate exclusively.

The members of the Deerfield Building and Loan association are largely Deerfield, Highland Park and Northbrook people, and from the interest displayed in the association now that it is a going and prosperous concern, it is expected that the shares in the new series to be opened at the April 9th meeting will be oversubscribed.

DEERFIELD FRESHMEN WIN FROM ELM PLACE

H. S. SENIOR PLAY IS

"To the Ladies," the play to be given by the high school seniors, March 30, will be in the charge of M. W. Comer, the director, the most highly polished, the most finished production ever given at Deerfield.

The play was a great success when it was given in New York several years ago, and again later in Chicago. Both times Helen Hayes played the leading lady—Mrs. Beebes, the young bride of six months.

Elise Weisenberg has that part in the senior play. Her husband, a young man who has high aspirations for the future, is Brainard Chapman.

"Bo" Umbach, who made such a great hit as Diogenes in an assembly program last semester, is "the boss," and Lois Brigham, the boss's wife, orders her husband around in a grand manner.

The cast has been doing some strenuous rehearsing the past few weeks. Miss Comer spends five nights a week training the ambitious actors, and Saturday afternoons are also devoted to play rehearsals.

SEVEN FOLD PLAN OF EDUCATION DISCUSSED

At Wilmot P. T. A. Meeting Friday; Mrs. J. E. Edmonds is Speaker

The Seven Fold plan of education of the Parent Teacher Association as outlined by Mrs. A. A. Reeve was discussed by the Regional Director, Mrs. J. E. Edmonds at the March meeting of the Wilmot Parent Teachers Association held in the school Friday evening.

Mrs. Edmonds in connection with her talk said the Parent Teacher Association is the largest organized group in the United States and has over a million members and is growing by leaps and bounds. It was organized by Mrs. Theo. Burnham thirty-one years ago, Feb. 17, in Washington, D. C. The seven fold plan of education includes health, worthy home membership, vocational training, tools and technique; wise use of leisure hours; Citizenship, and ethical character. Health of the child is very important and every child should be examined before entering school especially high school. Hearing may be bad, eye sight poor, may be undernourished which would result in retarding mental development.

Parents should set good examples which will make their children wish to follow in their footsteps.

Vocational training is also of great importance today, keep the child busy and keep him out of mischief, boys should be taught to do things with their hands. Parents should help to develop characters in their children which they will be proud of in later years. Character is born and developed in play.

Movies play a large part in leisure hours and should be selected with care. Having night schools for parents young boys and girls who were forced to give up early in life will help to make better citizens. In closing Mrs. Edmonds urged parents to set good examples, don't give a command with out a reason for it and struggle for the future of our children.

Two songs, "I love a little cottage," "Mother my dear" sung by Mrs. Ginter who has a charming soprano voice concluded the program. Miss Elizabeth Schillstra accompanied at the piano.

At the business meeting which followed, Mr. Ginter chairman of the finance outlined the proposed work of the committee including work on play grounds. He also announced the musical entertainment to be given in the Masonic temple on the evening of Friday April 27. The nominating committee appointed to secure candidates for officers to be voted upon at the annual meeting included Mmes. McArthur, Brackett and Clavey. The association voted to send the Newly elected president as delegate to the annual state convention each year and the program chairman as alternate and to hold the next meeting on Thursday evening, April 19 instead of regular meeting night, Friday, April 20.

Refreshments served by hostesses Ginter, Carter and Clavey and social hour followed the meeting.
