of those women who years ago visioned this moment and were willing to work zealously and continually to this end. The club is to be congratulated on the success of this project from the outset, and the entire community looks forward confidently to the time when the final unit will be completed and the Woman's club building in Highland Park will take its place among the splendid monuments throughout the country to the faith and zeal of organizations of women who are building not only structures of brick and steel but are setting up landmarks, milestones of progress that mean so much in the histories of their communities.

Officers and Dept. Heads

The president of the club, Mrs. Raymond W. Stevens, holds over another year, and the officers elected Tuesday are: Mrs. Carleton A. Harkness, First Vice-President; Mrs. Ernest Nolting, Recording Secretary; Mrs. George B. Chapman, Treasurer; Mrs. Cary Wood Thomas, Director Fine Arts department; Mrs. Watson G. Harmon, Director Home and Education department; Mrs. Raymond W. Flinn, Director Social Service department; Mrs. Franklin Rieke, Finance chairman.

Committees Report

The year's record of work, as unrolled in the several reports of committee chairmen showed much of benefit and value accomplished for which the committee chairmen and members have reason to be proud. A marked increase in membership during the year evidenced the splendid co-operation of this committee, perhaps one of the most important in the organization.

Philanthropies which received gifts during the year were both local and Chicago institutions. The ex-service men at Great Lakes Naval station were individually remembered at Christmas, and just now a party is under way for their entertainment.

During the past year the Art committee of the club has had hung on the walls of the club house about one hundred paintings, many of them the work of local artists, including Mr. Peyraud, Mr. Ingerle, Lenore Smith Jerrens, Mrs. Peyraud and others.

In her annual report, which followed the reports of committee chairmen, the president, Mrs. R. W. Stevens, expressed the wish that for the club the coming year might be as happy, as progressive and as harmonious as the year just concluded. She pointed out that the club programs of the past year had been of exceptionally high standard, membership had increased far above the expected average and meetings had been better attended than ever before, with associate members in the schools and those engaged in public welfare work having accepted the club's hospitality in large numbers. The success of the club's lecture courses was noted and the work of the art committee, as above noted, was commended.

Reference was made to the work done through the club's various philanthropies, and the splendid work of the various officers and committees was praised. Gratification was expressed at the wiping out of the indebtedness on the club house and also the feeling of responsibility concerning upkeep and maintenance and the problem of completing the club building.

The new method of arranging the work of the club under departments was outlined and the hearty support and co-operation of members with the department heads.

In conclusion the president expressed deep gratitude for the unflinching kindness and hearty appreciation of the splendid service of her colleagues during the past year.
