SENIORS TAKE TRACK MEET FROM WAUKEGAN

Deerfield's fast nine took a tight battle from New Trier at the local field last week. The final score was 3-2.

Bleimehl was on the mound for Deerfield when the game began, and hurled a fine ball. Tommy Rogan took up the burden in the fourth inning with the score tied at 2-2.

Rogan showed great skill when he retired the opponents in the sixth without a run after they had filled the bases with one out.

TO VOTE ON BOND ISSUE ON MAY 15

doubt would be many lives lost.

In 1926 the institution was inspected by the State Fire Marshal and condemned by him as being unsafe and he pronounced it a fire trap. He at that time ordered the farm committee to construct additional means of safety by erecting an outside stairway and cutting in additional exits to reduce the hazard. This, however, was permitted only as a temporary additional safety until such time as new buildings could be erected.

Buildings 75 Years Old

The original home buildings were erected about seventy-five years ago with additions having been made at various times since. They are only a makeshift and totally inadequate to meet the requirements of the county at the present time.

Under Discussion Five Years

For five years the Farm Committee has been working on the proposition of erecting new home buildings. The committee first made a report to the Board of Supervisors calling to their attention the unsafe conditions of the buildings and the recommendation that the Board take some action in the matter to safeguard the lives of those who were dependent on the county for their support and protection.

At the September (1925) session of the County Board of Supervisors a resolution was presented to submit the proposition to the voters of the county for a bond issue to raise money to erect new buildings, it being necessary to have a two-thirds vote in the affirmative in order to bring the matter before the voters. At this time the real estate boom was on and there were some members of the Board who thought that it might be advisable to offer the farm for sale and purchase a new location. This, no doubt, influenced some of the members to vote against the proposition and the resolution was lost by a small majority.

Condemned by Fire Marshal

In 1926 the State Fire Marshal on his annual inspection of public buildings, made an inspection of the county home buildings with the result that the buildings were condemned and temporary measures of safety ordered. In the meantime the bottom had dropped out of the real estate boom and the prospects of the sale of the county farm had vanished. The matter of new county home buildings had, however, been kept alive by the committee and at the December (1927) session of the County Board the same resolution was again presented and carried unanimously, the entire thirty-three members voting in favor of it. This proposition will now come before the voters at a special election to be held May 15, and in view of the situation, the buildings already having been condemned by the State Fire Marshal, we believe that there is only one thing to do, and that is to vote for the proposition.

STATE UNIVERSITY HAS GOOD RADIO STATION

WRM Excellent Programs Are Often Unheard Because of Interference

One of the most efficient radio stations in the country of similar power is that belonging to our own state university—WRM. And yet, because of crowded conditions in certain wave channels, the university finds itself competing with eight or nine other stations on exactly the same wavelength—272.6 meters, or 1100 kilocycles. One of these stations has five times the daytime power of WRM and ten times as much at night.

Because of these two facts—so many stations on the same wave band and insufficient power, the hundreds of good programs being broadcast daily and nightly from WRM are never heard in many sections of the state. Some people have never heard this station, others hear it at times but not at others, and still others are not able to tune in the station satisfactorily because of interference of one kind or another.

The university officials would like to hear from every radio fan who has experienced trouble in hearing this station. Right now, while you think about it, why don't you send a letter to WRM telling them the following:

That you have never heard the station although you know it is on the air approximately two hours every day;

That sometimes you are able to hear it but not at others, or

That because of interference from this or that station you cannot hear the university in a satisfactory manner.

Your letters will help in an appeal to the Radio commission for a change in wavelength. Address your letters to either Urbana or Champaign.

CYCLONIC STORMS IN U. S. GROW AS THEY GO

It is a well-known fact that many cyclonic storms increase greatly in size and intensity as they move northward across the United States, east of the Mississippi river and over eastern Canada, or along the Atlantic coast. This development of the cyclone is less marked in most other parts of the world, and in many places does not exist.

The Weather Bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture explains the phenomenon partly by the structure of the extra-tropical cyclone and partly by the topography of North America. This type of storm is essentially a swirling passage by each other of a broad and relatively cold polar wind to the west and north, and an equally broad, warm equatorial wind to the south and east. The storm varies with the contrast in temperature between the two currents and availability of air supplies. As the storm moves to higher latitudes the polar winds have come shorter distances and warmed less, while the temperature of the equatorial winds is largely maintained by condensation. Hence with increase of latitude the temperature contrast of the winds tends to become greater, and the winds stronger, if the supply of each current is ample.

In the eastern United States and Canada and over the western Atlantic cyclonic storms often move rapidly northeastward, thus increasing the temperature contrasts; and in this region there is free access, without mountain barriers, to cold air, especially in winter and spring, all the way to the Arctic ocean. Substantially the whole of this vast reservoir is on land and ice; hence its air is very cold. Similarly the access here to the warm air from the Gulf of Mexico and the Atlantic ocean is also very easy and the air quite humid. Hence the poleward moving cyclone grows faster and to a greater extent in eastern North America and over the western Atlantic than in almost any other portion of the world.
