Interesting Happenings About This Part of North Shore and Vicinity; County Seat Doings

George H. Triggs, 61 years old, one of the older residents of Libertyville, passed away last week at his home, in that village, after an illness of seven years duration.

Constantine Brazis, aged 62 years a resident of Waukegan and North Chicago for 35 years, died in the Lake County hospital last week after an extended illness.

Location of the proposed new postoffice and federal office building at Waukegan on the Higley tract on Madison street between Utica and West streets having frontage on all three streets, is regarded as a possibility.

Eleven thousand nine hundred and twenty Waukeganites over ten years of age are employed in gainful occupations, as compared with a city population of 26,916, judging from 1928 employment and population statistics for Illinois cities just compiled for the Waukegan-North Chicago Chamber of Commerce by the Newspaper Feature Bureau.

While his dog barked frantically in the basement and Constable Peter Johnson slept peacefully upstairs, a barefoot thief last week ransacked the Johnson home at 91 Nineteenth street North Chicago, and escaped with something over $50 in cash and the family silverware.

Two Scottsburg, Ind., men were killed, one instantly, last week, when the Ford truck in which they were riding to work was struck by south-bound North Western passenger flyer at Camp Logan crossing. Both men are married and one was father of three children. The dead are: Jefferson Hancock, 50 years old, Claude Langdon, 25 years old.

George O. Portny, 34, hardware dealer at Fox River Grove, a village on the Fox river a short distance from Cary and Wauconda, took his life last week by leaping into the river.

An armed masked bandit early Monday morning invaded the home of Ernest Gowdy on the Spinney Run farms north of Libertyville, but his plans to rob the home were thwarted when Marian Gowdy, daughter of Ernest, who was alone in the house, ran out the rear door and went to a nearby home to summon her father.

KEEPS WIFE IN SHED; GARBAGE IS HER FOOD
Woman Found in Hovel Tells of Mistreated Attributed to Husband

With her health shattered from exposure to cold and other extreme hardships, emaciated from constant hunger and bearing the hopeless, and furtive demeanor of a caged animal, and elderly woman, Mrs. John Gragietas, was rescued last week from a shed in the rear of her home on Washington street, Waukegan, near Green Bay road where she has been imprisoned for five months by her husband, according to the Sun.

Placed in the makeshift prison by her husband in December when her spouse suffered a fit of temper, she spent the cold winter months in the hovel, sleeping on an abandoned couch and preparing whatever food that came within reach on an open fire made on the earth floor of a chicken house, nearby.

With food denied her by her husband she was forced to subsist through collecting garbage that was thrown from the back door of the home in which the husband lived comfortably and content.

Arrest of Gragietas was ordered and he was taken into custody.

LATE PROCEEDINGS IN PROBATE COURT

Recent proceedings in Probate Court, of interest in this locality, are reported as follows:

William Mahen, spendthrift, Highland Park. Claim of Rose Orlandi allowed for $220.

John E. Tulley, Deerfield. Inventory and waiver of widow award approved.

George Evert, Lake Bluff. Hearing on claim of Martin Neal continued to May 31.

Anna May Mahen, et al., minors, Highwood. Guardian authorized to expend money for care of wards.

Lucien G. Yoe, Highland Park. Inventory and appraisal bill approved.

Calling a fellow an "oil can" in days gone by was only a mild insult at most. Now it would be the basis for a big libel suit.

COUNTERFEIT HUNDRED DOLLAR BILLS ABROAD

Watch your $100 bills. There's a new and dangerous counterfeit in circulation.

Officials stated Thursday they have been informed by authorities at Washington that an unusually clever copy has been circulated of a $100 note on the Federal Reserve bank of New York, series of 1914, check letter D, face plate No. 8, back plate No. 5, signatures of John Burke and W. G. McAdoo, and portrait of Franklin.

There are a number of small defects hard to detect, the most noticeable being that the face plate is one-eighth of an inch shorter than the genuine.

The June bride will find interest in these facts. Schwartz's are featuring a three-room outfit, consisting of bed room, living room, and dining room for $408.00. Kindly do not confuse this merchandise with outfits that are featured at a lower price. We solicit your investigation. Schwartz Furniture Company, 11-13 So.
