

REPORT SHOWS IOWA FARM VALUE BETTER

READJUSTMENT EFFECTED

Period of Slump Caused by Inflation Seems Past; Prospects for Future Much Improved

Iowa farmers have made a remarkable recovery from the post-war depression. A survey made by a life insurance company with headquarters in Des Moines, Ia., shows that 52 per cent of the state's farms are free from mortgages and that practically all adjustments made necessary by the inflated land values prevalent in 1919 have been accomplished. "Not more than 10 per cent of Iowa farms were involved in these changes," an official of the life insurance company announces. "Foreclosures will be much smaller in number this year." This official also notes an increase in the number of Iowans framing their own land and predicts that in 10 years owners will be living on nearly every farm in the state.

Whenever farming problems are mentioned Iowa is one of the first states thought of. This is because its farmers, disgruntled because they were caught in an economic vise not entirely through the machinations of others, sought relief in politics. Smith W. Brookhart, one of the state's most vociferous calamity howlers, was sent by Iowa farmers to represent the state in the United States Senate. "Iowa is broke," was the message that was broadcast by those who put their own selfish interests above the state's welfare. But the state's more sensible citizens, including the publishers of the more important Iowa newspapers, began telling the nation that Iowa was far from broke and they proved it.

Now Iowa's position is greatly improved because its citizens made good use of the assets which nature had provided. Hard work and willingness to face the cruel facts have put Iowa in a favorable position. Senator Brookhart, the political messiah who was chosen to deliver Iowa farmers from the grasp of Wall Street, is strangely silent in Washington these days. The folks back home are apparently too busy to permit themselves to be saved.—South Bend Tribune.

ESKIMOS IN CHICAGO FIND WINTER WARM

SELLING REINDEER MEAT

Three of Them Visit City and Show That Demand for the Flesh of This Animal Is Growing

Santa Claus' famous reindeers aren't the only ones making regular trips down from the frozen north. Only now they come in state—thousands of them, by rail, for American consumption as venison. Car-loads of reindeer are shipped regularly to American restaurants and centralized markets, according to three Eskimo dealers, Lee Iutuk, Theodore Kingeak, and Harry Elugoak, who left today for Nome, Alaska, over the Chicago and North Western railway, after a 7000 mile trip to "the states."

The three reindeer dealers have obtained orders for several car-loads of reindeer on their last trip. They would have stayed long enough to corner the market—but they couldn't stand the heat of the early spring, they said. Winter weather in Chicago may seem bad to the natives—but it's pie to an Eskimo!

"The American people like venison. In many cases they prefer it to beef," said Mr. Kingeak, spokesman, at the North Western station.

Demand Increases
"The demand for reindeer meat increases each season. This comparatively new 'reindeer' industry has grown enormously, because of the increasingly high cost of beef in the United States," he continued.

Huge herds of reindeer are raised in Alaska expressly for the American market. The cost of raising them is quite low—compared to the cost of raising beef. Quantity shipment of the deer greatly cuts down the cost, too.

These three Eskimo dealers make regular trips to the United States whenever they think the winter heat will be least oppressive—and report greater demands for venison this season than ever.

MAD DOG BITES WOMAN AT HIGHWOOD, KILLED

Mr. Bartlett took the head to a Chicago laboratory for examination, and it was reported that the dog had been suffering from a bad case of rabies. The woman was taken to the hospital and given serum treatment, the police stated.

PINK POODLE DAMAGED BY BAD FIRE RECENTLY

Sparks Causes Blaze Which Estimate Indicates Causes $10,000 Loss

Fire believed to have been caused by sparks from a fireplace a few days ago gutted the second story of the Pink Poodle roadhouse located one-half mile east of Half Day on the banks of the DesPlaines river, and caused damage estimated at from $8,000 to $10,000. Costly furnishings in the place were ruined.

Fire fighters from the Wheeling fire department battled the flames for over two hours with water which they pumped from the river before the flames were finally brought under control. Hundreds of Saturday motorists were attracted to the scene of the blaze, slowing up traffic to the lake district.

Newspaper men complain of the unwillingness of people to be interviewed, but those who are looking for free publicity do not offer any objections.

Before running into trees and telephone poles along the road, the reckless drivers should reflect that those objects are needed for various useful purposes.

REWARD NOW OFFERED FOR SLAYER'S CAPTURE

Reward of $1,000 was posted Wednesday by State's Attorney Smith for the apprehension of the remaining three slayers of Will Beck, 34, farmer who resided between Millburn and Lake Villa, who lost his life defending his savings of $3,700 in U. S. treasury bonds May 16.

At the same time Col. Smith mailed a check for $100 to Capt. Daniel Lynch of the Maxwell street station, Chicago, whose men arrested two of the murderers.

Spike No. 15205, the high cow, produced 1770 lbs of milk containing 88.5 lbs of butter fat, a daily average of 59 lbs. of milk, testing 5 per cent on two times milking.

STATEWIDE QUARANTINE FOR RABIES POSSIBLE

Report From Springfield Says Authorities Considering This Measure

A quarantine lid may be clamped on all Illinois unless the rabies situation improves rapidly, says a report from Springfield.

This was the view taken by health department and agricultural officials following a conference between Dr. I. D. Rawlings and S. J. Standard, chiefs of the two departments.

In view of the spread of rabies the two officials believe that present protective measures are not effective. As a result the two department chiefs are urging that all citizens take it upon themselves to help eradicate the menace before drastic steps become necessary.

Their statement follows:
"We sincerely urge all owners of dogs in Illinois to have them muzzled or treated with anti-rabies vaccine. If treated dogs should wear a tag that indicates their comparative immunity from rabies. If it is deemed necessary to place the entire state under rabies control regulations, as now seems almost certain, enforcement of the foregoing prevention measures will be the duty of all peace officers in Illinois."

PLANNING EXTENSION OF TELEGRAPH ROAD

Cutting through and improving Telegraph road from a point west of Waukegan street to the state line concerned county and Warren township officials who held a conference with R. M. Lobdell, county superintendent of highways a few days ago.

During the course of discussion it was shown that county officials had suggested that the route be continued through to a point 500 feet east of the Guerne subway on Grand avenue and thence northwest to Milwaukee road.

The state has suggested that it continue on a reverse curve to a point near Dilly's Corners, west of Guerne, and thence through Newport township.

Officials from Warren township stated that $50,000 would be needed from the county and township to build such a road. They doubted the advisability of spending the sum at present it was said.

Also we can not expect to run our railroad trains on time, while the automobile drivers persist in trying to run them off the track at the crossings.

Some of our citizens are willing to back up the community entertainments by attending them, provided they can have free tickets.

The students who couldn't pass the examinations, are convinced that the value of education is overrated.
