Bond Issue Given Approval By Dist. 107; New Building

Erection of a new kindergarten and grade school building for District 107 on the school site on Green Bay road is assured as well as such other improvements as may be necessary in the district's school properties as a result of the bond issue election last Saturday.

The propositions submitted to the voters of the district in this special election were approved with trifling opposition. The vote was a light one. but it was overwhelmingly in favor of the plans submitted, as is indicated by the unofficial figures. The vote on the proposition to erect a building on the Green Bay site was 132 in favor of the erection and three against it. The vote on the proposition to issue bonds in the sum of $265,000 for the improvements contemplated was 133 for and three against.

The proposal to build a new school building results from the fact that the Elm Place school is beginning to show lack of sufficient class room as the attendance yearly increases, and it does not seem expedient to erect further additions on that site. Hence it was the opinion of the board of education that a new building to accommodate the kindergarten and two or three of the grades should be erected on the site on Green Bay road, north, purchased by the district some

It is planned to erect there a modern school building suitable for all possible requirements for years to come. This will afford relief to the Elm Place school and at the same time provide a convenient school building for the younger children of the west side. Some other necessary improvements to school sites and buildings are to be made.

That the plans of the board were generally favored by the people of the district is indicated by the fact that there was wide expression of approval and no organized opposition to these propositions at the election. The bonds have been sold, and the board is now enabled to go forward with its plans to provide adequate accommodations for the children of the district for a long time to come, it is believed.
