

MERCHANT MARINE FOR U. S. ESSENTIAL

TO CARRY OUR OWN TRADE

Must Not Leave Huge Output of Farm and Factory to Mercy of Other Nations' Transport Facilities

Some of the propagandists who oppose the building up of our merchant marine cleverly disguise their real motives by declaring that they oppose the spending of money by the government either directly or indirectly for a merchant marine, because this is, after all, a "war measure," and that the proposed strengthening of the merchant marine is designed by the "militarists" merely as a move to strengthen the navy.

Quotes Ziegmeier

Along this line it is well to quote Admiral Ziegmeier, who stated in a recent address at Cincinnati:

"We must not only have an adequate navy, but it is imperative that we have a merchant marine to carry the trade of our manufacturers and farmers. One-sixth of the products of our country are exported. We must have American delivery which will insure their getting to market in good condition and with prompt service. We have seen how the decadence of our merchant marine brought financial disaster in times of stress. Great Britain and other countries went on. We do not want to be placed in a similar position of helplessness again. During the Boer war, England mobilized all of her ships to carry supplies to the army in South Africa, and American exports were piled up in our ports and piers because we had no ships to deliver our own goods and had to depend upon ships of foreigners. The same thing occurred in 1914-17 before we went into the European war. Then we were forced to spend $4,000,000,000 in building them as a war measure.

Need Merchant Marine

"Now we must have a merchant marine second to none, even if the government has to own and control the ships. We must not be placed in a position whereby our billions of export trade are left at the mercy of the ship supply of foreign nations." Here is a point that is frequently overlooked by those who discuss the merchant marine problem. Our government controlled merchant marine has been of inestimable service to the farmers during the past few years in moving across the ocean grain, in time of European ships shortage, which might otherwise have been left rotting in our wharves. A privately controlled merchant marine, when placed on a firm foundation would do exactly the same thing and perhaps do it more efficiently.

And there is still another point. Without a competing American merchant marine we might easily be placed at the mercy of European ship-owners, so far as shipping rates are concerned. We have seen the tendency on the part of European interests to combine their resources for economic reasons since the World war. Now it would be just as easy for the shipping interests to combine as it would be for the steel interests to get together. The object, of course, could only be to force the United States and other non-European countries to pay toll to the European shipping combination. Such a thing would be impossible so long as Uncle Sam had an up-to-date, efficient merchant marine. There would always be competition enough to present a rate gouge. But if our merchant marine is again permitted to fall into decay the danger immediately becomes apparent. And it is one which would not be overcome in a day. It takes time to build up a merchant marine.

SOUTHERN REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES NUMEROUS

Nomination of Smith by Democrats Revives Hopes of G. O. P. Backers

Anticipation of the nomination of Alfred E. Smith by the Democratic national convention brought out 34 Republican aspirants for congressional nominations in Kentucky. Three Republicans and eight Democrats represent Kentucky's 11 congressional districts at present. The general feeling is that with Governor Smith as the nominee, the Democrats will lose four, possibly five, of the seats they now hold, as Kentucky is definitely dry in sentiment. The primary races are to be decided August 4.

In the second district, now represented by David H. Kincheloe (D.), Madisonville, there are three Democratic and three Republican candidates. Heretofore the Republicans have not usually offered opposition. The Third, Fourth, Eighth and Ninth districts, represented now respectively by John W. Moore, Morgantown; Henry De Haven Moorman, Hardinsburg; Ralph Gilbert, Shelbyville, and Fred M. Vinson, Louisa, all Democrats, have often seen close contests. Four Republican aspirants in the District, for the sake of party unity, have agreed upon one of their number as the nominee, but in the Third District there are five Republican candidates; in the Ninth District, six, and in the Eighth, seven.

Four years ago when President Coolidge and F. M. Sackett (R.) Senator, carried Kentucky the Eighth District went Republican, but that party had failed to nominate a candidate for Congress.

The Republicans frequently failed to have a candidate in other districts, historically Democratic, in the past, but this year there will be a Republican running in each district. Maurice H. Thatcher, Louisville, and John M. Robison, Barbourville, dry Republicans, have no opposition in the primary, but Mrs. Katherine Langley Pikeville, has four opponents.

"TOMBOY" MARBLES PLAYER KNOWS TAWS

Girl Ties for First Place in Word Championship Meet at Atlantic City

A dark-haired girl who knows her taws, recently gave the boys a lesson in their own game by playing her way into a triple tie for top place in the first day of the world championship marble tournament at Atlantic City. She is Gladys Coleman of Harrisburg, Pa., and she finished the first round of the contest with an average of 1000. Tied with her for the leading position were John Cunningham of Mason, O., the smallest city to enter a representative in the contest, and John Melone of Hoboken, N. J.

"Tomboy" Gladys was the only girl in the tournament. There were 46 boys, each the champion of his respective state. Ten youngsters were tied for third place, with four games won and two lost. John Collier of Akron, O., was second in the first day's play.

Theodore Roosevelt's birthday, October 27, will be national Navy Day and on that day ceremonies will be held re-dedicating what has been called Municipal Pier in Chicago as Navy Pier. Army and navy will forget their traditional rivalries and join in the event. A fund is being raised by the Naval Memorial association, Inc., to build a permanent memorial on the pier for navy veterans who have died. Lawrence Whiting, Chicago banker, is chairman of the advisory committee.

Some politicians evidently fear that a wet plank would prove too slippery!

It didn't take a weather prophet to predict a hot time at Houston, Texas.
