Statistics show that more candy is eaten in Nevada each year than in any other state. Wonder how much of this Reno is responsible for? When they see all those one-piece bathing suits, wonder what the jelly-fish would think, if they could think?

AUTHOR DELIGHTS AUDIENCE FRIDAY

Mrs. Lucy Fitch Perkins Explains Choice of Subjects Chosen

The October meeting of the Deerfield Parent-Teacher association was held in the auditorium of the Bungalow church on October 12.

Mrs. Lucy Fitch Perkins, author of twin books of many countries, delighted her audience with a story of how many of her books were written. As an illustrator of stories, Mrs. Perkins was encouraged by her publisher to write a story of her own and illustrate it.

Amusing her small son by sketching Dutch children, the same evening, the inspiration came to her to write a story of the Netherlands children. Because Mrs. Perkins, as a child, wished for and dreamed of a twin brother, her brain children, the Dutch twins, developed for these two circumstances.

Since then one book a year has come from Mrs. Perkins' pen to the delight of thousands of children and their parents and relatives who make gifts of the books. Although Mrs. Perkins' ancestors came to America three hundred years ago from England, seeing children of many nationalities in the "Melting Pot" of Chicago schools, made her eager to have children whose parents were born in this country be tolerant of the foreign born children, and prevent them from calling these newcomers names of derision.

Beginning with the pleasant, affectionate comfortable home life of the children in Holland, Irish tales with the Irish humor "which is the best thing that this nationality brings to America," the suffering of the Belgian children during the world war (in which the locket incident is a true one, such strange things have happened in real life) Mrs. Perkins has told stories of all of the foreign children, and of those of Massachusetts and Virginia pioneers, and the Indian, and desert children of America. The children of today are reaping the benefit of the pioneer life.

So popular are these books among the children of every land that the Society for the Prevention of Blindness is preparing special editions with large type and big pictures for children with defective vision, that those with impaired eyesight may not be deprived of the privilege of the more fortunate.

In the business meeting that preceded Mrs. Perkins' charming talk Mrs. J. A. Reichelt, Jr., gave a report of the first conference of District twenty-one of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers held in Evanston on October 3. The custom of giving a prize of two dollars to the room that brings out the largest attendance at each P. T. A. meeting was resumed, and was won by the eighth grade. Refreshments were served by the social committee in the dining room of the church following the meeting, where the children and parents were given an opportunity to converse with Mrs. Perkins and ask her questions. The privilege of talking with a real author gave the pupils a real thrill.

DEERFIELD-SHIELDS LOSES TO WAUKEGAN

Fumble Results in Touchdown, Hard-Fought Game; Score, 5 to 0

In a fast, hard-fought game at Waukegan Saturday, Deerfield was defeated 6-0. Deerfield made seven or eight first downs against Waukegan's four, but a break in the last quarter decided the game against Deerfield. Rogan intercepted a Waukegan pass, fumbled on the west play, and Mannebach recovered the ball and ran forty yards for a touchdown. The toss went to Deerfield and they chose to defend the north goal which gave them a strong wind at their backs.

PROMINENT DEERFIELD GIRL WED SUNDAY

Laurel Elva Stryker and Mr. J. Kynett Hachlen Married

A simple, but most beautiful home wedding occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Stryker at one o'clock on Sunday, Oct. 14, when their daughter Laurel Elva and Mr. J. Kynett Hachlen of Cedar Falls, Iowa were joined in marriage. The bride and groom were unattended as they took their places in the prettily decorated parlor of the bride's parental home on Deerfield avenue. After the singing of "At Dawning" by Miss Harriet Stryker, sister of the bride, with Miss Hazel Rapp at the piano, the marriage ritual service of the Evangelical church was read by Rev. J. A. Hachlen father of the groom and superintendent of the Cedar Falls District of the Iowa Conference of that denomination. Upon the conclusion of this most impressive service the wedding party, composed only of the families of the contracting parties, were invited to the spacious dining room, which, together with the adjoining rooms had been decorated by Mrs. Arthur Merner in an autumnal color scheme of yellow and green in which oak leaves and chrysanthemums predominated, a sumptuous three course wedding dinner was then served after which the happy couple departed for their new home in Iowa City, Iowa.

The bride is a young lady of culture and most popular in this community, having resided here from childhood.

She is a graduate of the Deerfield-Shields high school in the class of 1922. Thereupon she matriculated in Western Union college of Le Mars, Iowa, graduating with the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1926, as an assistant instructor in the college and as teacher of English in the high school at Paton, Iowa she met with marked success. In local high school and Evangelical church circles she has figured prominently throughout the years and has brought to the many activities, to which she has addressed herself, a measure of talent and enthusiasm, which together with her winsome manner made her easily a leader of young people.

The groom is a graduate of East High school of Des Moines, Iowa and of the liberal arts course of Western Union college and is now completing his work on his masters degree in the University of Iowa.

Out of town guests were: Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Hachlen and their daughter Viola of Cedar Falls, Iowa.

FUNDAMENTALS FOR SUCCESS OF P. T. A.

A Parent-Teacher association will fulfill its highest purpose when it keeps constantly in mind that co-operations its watchword and touchstone. When it promotes co-operation between the home and the school, and also between itself and other existing organizations functioning in some special line of child welfare or community betterment.

When its meetings are thoughtfully planned and painstakingly carried out with the welfare of the child as the central thought.

When it acts as an open forum for presenting to parents new movements in education, changes and progress in educational methods, the need of the same ethical standard in home and school in order that the purpose of education may be accomplished, and the importance of adequately supporting free public education as the bulwark of civil, religious and intellectual freedom in this country. When its members forget possible personal differences or divers points of view and work shoulder to shoulder with the idea of giving all children in the community equal opportunity for the mental, moral, social and physical training which is the birthright of American children.

When each member recognizes his individual responsibility to the unique purpose of the P. T. A., and carries it as his highest patriotic duty thereby making a better country through better training of its children citizens.

NORTHBROOK MAY JOIN U.S. DISTRICT

To discuss the union of Northbrook district with Deerfield-Shields high school district, the Board of Education of the latter district have been asked to meet with a committee of Northbrook citizens.

Northbrook district hopes that the union will be possible. This meeting will take place sometime next month.

One of Al's friendly newspapers refers to the old poem about "the Smitha mighty man is he." Which is all right, but we doubt whether Tammany will relish being referred to as a chestnut tree.
