TRAPSHOOTING IS UNIQUE PASTIME

OF AMERICAN ORIGIN, TOO

Something About This Sport In the United States; Annual Shoots Are Classic Events

Trapshooting is perhaps the most unique of sports and, all things considered, the most characteristically American of them all. One of the most striking features of clay target shooting is that the number of participants is usually greater than the number spectators, a fact which distinguishes the trap game from other sports where the "gallery" is made up of hundreds and even thousands of people watching individual players or teams in action. On the other hand, a trapshooting meet, with several hundred shooters toting the mark, may draw a gallery of less than one quarter the number of shooters. Another thing about trapshooting is that more take part in sectional tournaments than participate in a meet of any other sport of the entire list. Besides, clay target shooting is essentially an amateur sport and not a single one of the sanctioned tournaments is for professionals.

The classic event in trapdom is the Grand American championship and handicap tournament, an annual affair which has been staged for twenty-eight years. This year the August events were scheduled to occur at Vandalia, Ohio, near Dayton. The site is the permanent home grounds of The Amateur Trapshooting association of America. Last year's record of 873 entrants were exceeded.

Besides the Grand American handicap and major sectional handicaps, more than one thousand "registered" shoots have been arranged for the present year.

Slow election returns can be expected after November 6, which in some cases is caused by the fact that the counters want to wait until they know how much of a majority will be required.

INTERNATIONAL PARK PLAN IS SUGGESTED

INITIATED BY THE U. S.

Senator Shipstead Tells Plan While on Visit to Winnipeg Recently; Would Preserve Quetico Forest

A move toward the establishment of a large international park in the heart of the American continent has been initiated by the United States Government, Senator H. Shipstead of Minnesota said on a visit to Winnipeg.

The co-operation of the Canadian Government will be essential in this project, Senator Shipstead said. In fact, most of the land required for the purpose lies in Canada.

U. S. Started It

The United States has started a move to reclaim the Quetico forest for the park, in accordance with the old Webster-Ashburton treaty. Senator Shipstead is chairman of the committee named by Congress to survey the territory lying within the United States. The Canadian government will be asked to keep the tracts of forest running from Rainy river and Lake Nipigon north out of private hands, so that it may be made part of the proposed international playground.

"We have already withdrawn all publicly owned land from sale and are now buying back tracts which have gone into private hands," Senator Shipstead said, referring to the steps already taken on the United States side. "There will be many matters to discuss, such as protection of the fish and wild life of the territory, control of the traffic through the park and similar matters.

Mostly In Canada

"As the greater part of the land mentioned in the old Webster-Ashburton treaty lies in Canada we do not press the matter too hard. We are hoping, however, that your Government will see the value of keeping a natural beauty spot in the heart of the continent for play purposes, as this country is bound to fill with people very soon."

Finds Newspaper Advertising Pays

Business of Frigidaire Corporation has approximately doubled over the same period of last year following a widespread newspaper advertising campaign based upon its new line of household refrigerating equipment, according to E. G. Biechler, president and general manager, who attributes much of the increase to use of newspaper space.

"The newspaper of today, when used to promote a quality product is one of the greatest aids that business or industry can enlist," he said. "It obtains and retains public confidence for any product that merits it."

Every purchaser of a new Ford is entitled to Free Inspection Service for the first 1500 miles

THE modern automobile is a finely built piece of machinery and it will stand a lot of abuse. Considering the work it does, it gives surprisingly little trouble. But there isn't a car made that will not run better and longer if given proper care.

The first few hundred miles are especially important because that is when the mechanism of your car is being broken in.

Proper attention during this period will lengthen its life and prevent unnecessary trouble later on.

We are particularly interested in this matter because we believe it is our duty not only to make a good automobile, but to help the owner get the greatest possible use over the longest period of time at a minimum of trouble and expense.

With this in view, the entire Ford dealer organization has been specially trained and equipped to service the new Model A car.
