CORN PROSPECTS IN ILLINOIS FAVORABLE

GOOD CROP IS EXPECTED

Other Crops Also Turning Out Excellently, Expect Spring Wheat, According to Report

Illinois corn prospects are especially favorable in the northern and central sections of the state, according to the survey of the Department of Agriculture. In the southern third of the state the indications are not so prom-ising. Excepting spring wheat, the gen-eral crop prospects were improved. Prospects for oats, spring wheat, bar-ley, potatoes and soy beans are up to the survey of the department. App-les and peaches are above the aver-age; winter wheat, rye, hay, broom-corn and cotton are below the aver-age but better than early expectations. General Conditions Good The report continues: "With some exceptions, largely con-fined to spring wheat in the upper central and east central areas, small grains are threshing out above straw indications and are fair to favorable quality. On August 1, grain harvest was nearing completion in the north. Threshing ranged from just starting in the north to about one-half com-pleted in the southern half of the state. Farm work was retarded by rain interruptions earlier in the south, but made good progress later. Farm labor situation satisfactory. Pastures improved during July and livestock are reported in good condition.

Corn Most Favorable "Generally speaking, the condition of corn is very favorable over most of the central and northern counties, representing about 75 per cent of the state acreage where stands are mostly tall and heavy. The percentage of a full stand is also above average. Con-dition tapers off rather rapidly to widely varying and below average conditions in the southern third of the state. Unfavorable wet June con-ditions in the lower part of the state, with resultant scalding or flooding low spots and lack of cultivation, also subsequent packed soil conditions and difficulty in cleaning up fields has been a severe setback to this area. While there are some complaints of weedy fields in the central and north-ern counties, the general prospect is the best in recent years. The state condition of corn on August 1, is rated 83 per cent of normal against 57 per cent a year ago and the 10-year average of 77 per cent for this date. State production outlook 360,-614,000 against 254,000,000 bushels a year ago, and the last five-year aver-age of 320,656,000. United States corn production outlook 3,030,000,000 com-pared with 2,774,000,000 bushels last year. Wheat Yield Increased "Illinois winter wheat yield reported at 15 bushels per acre compared with 13.5 bushels a year ago and the ten-year average of 17.4 bushels. State production, 17,190,000 bushels com-pared with 30,956,000 bushels last year. State spring wheat condition 79 per cent with production outlook placed at 5,724,000 bushels. United States all wheat production prospect, 891,292,000 bushels against 873,000,-000 bushels a year ago." The funniest thing we know of is the ire of a wet who is angry because he thinks prohibition doesn't prohibit.
