

Elmer Green May Be Candidate for Sheriff

Warden Elmer Green, of Joliet and Stateville prisons, has decided to become a candidate for sheriff, it was reliably learned last week, according to the Waukegan Sun, which reports that Green, contrary to earlier reports, is liable to be released from the state position. His efficiency in office and the fact that the large number of aspirants for his post embarrassed Gov. Louis L. Emmerson gave credence to the report that he would stay.

In conversation with Waukegan friends recently he stated for a certainty that he would be a candidate for sheriff, however.

It has been reported that the wardenship will go downstate rather than to Cook county, and that Lake county will lose much of its patronage because the only opposition is among Republicans at the primary, leaving the election a cut and dried matter of counting the overwhelming Republican vote.

Lester Tiffany, chief of police in Lake Forest, is the only other avowed candidate, although a number have had the itch to run and are only waiting until they can get a better view of the field of candidates.

The primary will be a year from April.

The young man's thought lightly turns to thoughts of love in spring, the poet says, but the girls of this city may say that it takes a good many telephone calls to keep it turning.

N. S. Sanitary Dist. to Build New Plant; Legal Tangle Seen

Probable location of the proposed $500,000 disposal plant to be erected in Waukegan by the North Shore Sanitary district board was discussed in a conference between members of that board and Mayor L. J. Yager of that city last week.

The location of the plant was not determined in the meeting, the question of whether the plant should be located on the south side on the North Flats still being debated.

The city is planning the installation of an auxiliary sewer on McKinley avenue to take care of the great flow of sewage from the south side, while a large sewer system to cost nearly $500,000 is planned for the extreme north end of the city. It will be necessary for the proposed of those lines.

The establishment of this plant within the next year or two will result in elimination of disposal of all sewage into the lake at Waukegan and will serve to lighten the load of the city waterworks in years to come in its work of removing pollution from the water.

Need Legislation

The construction of the building depends somewhat, however, on whether the legislature passes a bill which will legalize the erection of the plant and likewise legalize the system of sewage disposal as has been followed by the board during its existence. The board, it seems, was organized for the purpose of erecting one large plant instead of the series that are now in service in Zion, Waukegan, North Chicago, Lake Bluff, Lake Forest and Highland Park.

It is not expected that the sanitary board will have completed its plans for the plant and will have decided on the proposed location within 60 days. If everything is favorable the erection of the plant will be started within the present year, however.

Local Man to Attend Celebration of Birth of Incandescence Lamp

Chicago and the north shore will be well represented in the galaxy of prominent men who will be in Atlantic City beginning May 31 for celebrations of the birth of the incandescent lamp, the city's diamond festival and for the convention of the National Electric Light association.

Marshall E. Sampson, of Highland Park, president of the Central Illinois Public Service company, Chicago; Britton I. Budd, president of the Public Service company of Northern Illinois, Chicago; and W. J. Haggenah, vice-president and special counsel, Byllesby Engineering and Management Corporation, Chicago, are on the program of the National Electric Light association.

An international celebration of the golden jubilee of light, marking the fiftieth anniversary of the invention of the incandescent light bulb by Thomas A. Edison, will be ushered in on May 31 when Atlantic City begins its diamond festival as a corporate community. At the same time the city will open its new $15,000,000 auditorium, the largest convention hall in the world.

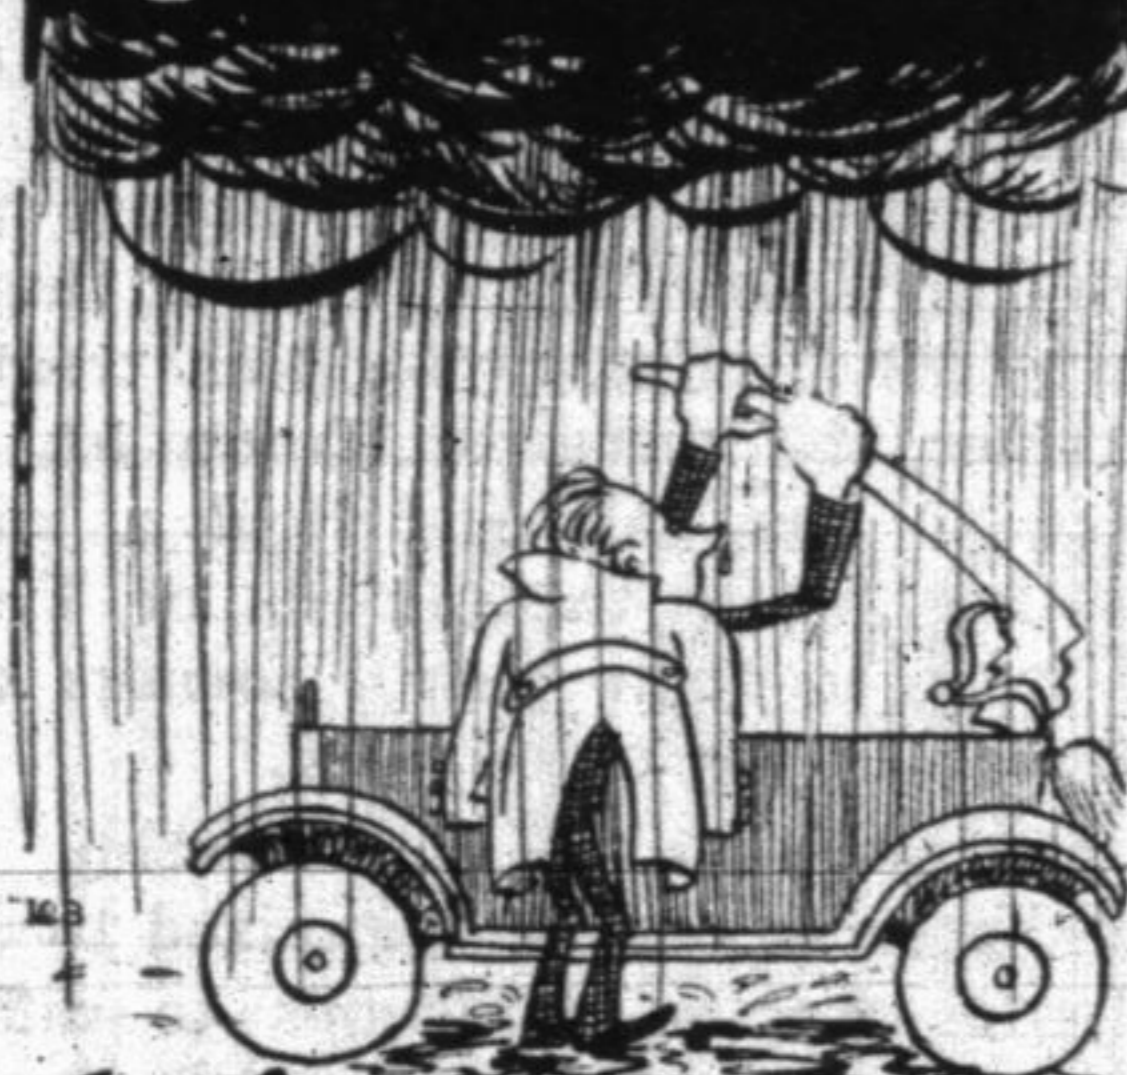

President Herbert Hoover and members of his cabinet and other high federal officials will be invited to attend the three-day celebration incident to the dedication of the auditorium, and Mr. Edison is personally to appear at the convention of the National Electric Light association June 3-7 in the new building. Henry Ford also may appear there.

Des Plaines May Get Experimental Station

The bill to provide the necessary funds for an agricultural experimental station near Des Plaines, has passed the house at Springfield and is now before the state senate for action. State Representative Anna Wilmarth Ickes announces. The station is sponsored by the University of Illinois and the bill appropriates $30,000 for constructing buildings and for maintaining the station.
