CHICAGO WORLD FAIR
PROJECT PROGRESSES

Widespread Interest Shown by Big Enrollment; Response
Generally Gratifying

Unanimous endorsement by the Congress of the United States and by former President Coolidge; endorsement and warm co-operation from the National Research Council; more than 125,000 Chicagoans enrolled in the World's Fair Legion; response from the four corners of the earth that "Chicago can do it," and that the world is coming to Chicago in 1933,—these are the outstanding results of one year's campaign for the Chicago World's Fair Centennial Celebration.

Formally launched April 19, 1928, at a Town Meeting at the Auditorium Theatre, the results are epitomized in the words of Rufus C. Dawes, president of the board of trustees:

"The Federal Government and the constructive intelligence of this nation holds Chicago in the highest esteem; respects and approves Chicago's purpose in celebrating her Centennial by presenting a vivid picture of man's accomplishments. Chicagoans may feel a just sense of pride in this recognition."

Large Enrollment

Further, the response to the enrollment campaign proves that the people of Metropolitan Chicago have faith in themselves and are supporting the enterprise in true Mid-Western fashion.

Fifty-one representative Chicagoans are now embraced by the board of trustees, the most recent additions to the board being Herman Black, publisher of the Chicago Evening American; Herman H. Hettler, prominent lumberman; Birger Osland, investment banker; Dr. Wm. Allen Pusey, former president of the American Medical society, and Edward F. Swift, vice president of Swift & Co.

Having agreed upon the ground plan for the World's Fair, the Architectural Commission is now working upon the details of construction that exemplify the spirit of a century of progress.

Fine Musical Recital
Fort Sheridan Tonight

Attention is again called to the delightful musical recital which is to be given at the post gymnasium, Fort Sheridan, by Mme. Gray-Llevinne this evening. This promises to be one of the most pleasing musical features offered in this vicinity during the present season, and music lovers are looking forward to a real treat. A large attendance is assured.

Bargain to the Flower Lover

Now is the time to plant pansies and English daisies. We have them in full bloom—also Rockie plants and a full line of perennials—also new varieties of gladioli bulbs. These are priced at bargain prices to move them and give us more room. We have rose plants at 25c each, which we guarantee to be as good as money can buy. Come and see for yourself.

Shillinglaw Speaks to Winnetka Legion

The get-together dinner sponsored by Winnetka Post No. 10, American Legion and held last week at the Community House, was attended by a large number of Legionnaires. State Commander D. L. Shillinglaw was one of the prominent Legionnaires at the meeting. Mr. Shillinglaw gave a talk covering the Americanization program of the Legion and its plans, both state and national, for this year. Frederick W. Copeland, who recently made a trip to Russia, told his impressions of that country under Soviet rule, and M. J. Timberlake, 87-year-old Civil war veteran, related some of his war experiences.

The dinner was a success and speeches and entertainment followed. The Legionnaires sang old-time songs, with "Bud" Fairclough at the piano, and watched a magician from Chicago do some clever tricks.

Schurz H. S. Out-Door
Club Visits N. Shore

Picturesque lake front trails from Ravinia to Fort Sheridan were explored Sunday by one hundred members of the Out-door club, of Schurz high school, Chicago, on one of a series of hikes to scenic spots in the Chicago metropolitan area.

The hikers started from the Wilson avenue "L" station at 9:25 a. m. in special cars over the North Shore Line to Ravinia, where they went to the lake front. The party spent the afternoon rambling along the beach to Fort Sheridan and left there aboard a North Shore Line train at 6:26 p. m. for the return trip to Chicago.

The average man wants his son to be a better man than he is but not a better man than his wife thinks he is.

Women's Organizations
Backing Play Day Plan

The Illinois May Day chairman has secured the co-operation of state organizations, especially the General Federation of Women's clubs in a state-wide observance of National Child Health Day which this year will also be National Play Day, according to a report from New York. This announcement was made today by Mrs. Aida de Acosta Breckenridge, national chairman of May Day, Child Health Day, celebrated May 1.

In making her announcement Mrs. Breckenridge said: "We want to stress recreation as the special health note this year. One of the most important forms of recreation is athletics and we are all, including our president, Mr. Hoover, I think I am free to say, intensely interested in the spread of the right kind of athletic among all the people and especially among the boys and girls in school."
