Camp Fire Flames

May Day

A moss carpet green,
And the fire flies light,
Are being prepared for
The dance tonight.
The crickets will sing,
And the bells will peal,
For the Fairies to dance
The Virginia Reel.
Oh! here's to the fairies,
The ones that are gay;
Oh! here's to the wee folks,
On joyous May Day.

The Origin of Camp Fires Ideals and Honors

Back in 1911, several persons interested in girls saw the need of an organization that would do for girls what the Boy Scout movement was doing for boys. When we think of the beginnings of the Campfire movement we must think of this corp of educators, busy men and women, who are the founders of this program for girls. They were: Miss Lena Beard, Dr. Anne L. Brown, Mrs. Chas. H. Farnsworth, Mrs. Charlotte V. Gulick, Dr. Luther Halsey Gulick, Mr. W. C. Langdon, Mr. and Mrs. E. Thompson Seton, Mrs. Justus Traut, Mr. James E. West, and Dr. Mary S. Woolman.

The system of honors was started by a thoughtful man and woman, who took their girls and a boy each summer to the woods of Maine. There the children learned to swim, to dive, to paddle a canoe, to cook on the open fire, and to love the four-footed and winged friends of the woods and know their habits; but best of all to be happy out of doors.

Of course even at camp certain things had to be done to keep the children advancing. Dr. and Mrs. Gulick devised this scheme to keep the children interested in the things they should be doing. They awarded small honors for each task that was completed, thus making delightful and pleasureable the duties accomplished. From these small beginnings grew the Campfire ideals and program to what it is today.

Girls Have Fun With Sandpaper
and Brush

Anyone who might have come up to the Camp Fire Girls room at 167 Laurel last Tuesday, would have wondered what all the singing and noise was about. It was just this, six of the girls were spending their after school hours at sandpapering the chairs and tables getting them ready for a good coat of paint. The bunch were singing while they worked thus trying to learn some of the Camp Fire though they all went home covered with sandpaper dust, they were all happy to think that they could come back next meeting ready to use the paint brush. Mary Morris came back on Thursday and did a lot of extra work. She sure has the real Campfire spirit.

Jean Barnet Camp Fire Group Paint Their Furniture

Last Saturday the Campfire Girls of the Lewa Ana Han group gathered for a special meeting to clean and paint the furniture in their room. Mrs. Carl McManus was in charge.

With the strong arms and willing hearts the Camp Fire sisters gave the furniture a bath and dried it in the sun. Afterwards they started painting the tables and chairs. After chancing paint in and out corners, around and around runs, up and down the front and back, and spreading a smooth coat on the base, we finally completed the first coat on all the furniture.

Everyone enjoyed herself, especially Jessie Barnet, who tried to mix the paint with her hair, and Marjorie Kendal, who tried to paint her brown lumber-jack orange. All left in good spirits with hopes that no cat or other animal would wander in and symbolize the unfinished furniture.

Durability Passes

Style is a quality that must be considered in buying clothes now and style does not call for the old-time durability that appealed so strongly to our ancestors. — Woman's Home Companion.
