Pageant Sunday at the Bungalow Church School

Next Sunday, May 12, a pageant, "The Spirit of Motherhood," by Pearl Holloway, will be the closing feature of the church school service in the Bungalow church, Deerfield.

This Mother's Day pageant will be presented by a group of young ladies, including their teacher, Miss Edna Fritsch and several other characters.

The pageant clearly brings out the teaching that unless, along with your other attainments in life, you develop and mellow those finer spiritual qualities of beauty, understanding, love and devotion which makes Motherhood so beautiful and sacred, your contacts with life will be cold, your contribution to mankind lacking in the warmth and tender touch that satisfies the need of humanity. The production is under the direction of Alice E. Rehm.

The cast includes:

Prologue	Mrs. Howard Churchhill
Motherhood	Mrs. Ted Johnson
Pleasure	Beatrice Huyx
Political Ambition	Kenneth Vetter
Social Position	Pearl Stanley
Wealth	Dorothy Savage
Music	Dorothy Foxworthy
Art	Bertha Rezik
Scientific Research	Edna Fritsch
Alice and Bobby	Betty Cox and Wills Johnson
Betty & Bill	June Guinckel and Paul Johnson
Mary and John	Margaret Foxworthy and David Stryker
Ruth and Roy	Irene Deen and Russel Foxworthy
Myrtle and Leonard	Helen Cox and Vernon Giss

Lencioni Sells Candy and Cigar Business

Tony Lencioni, who for many years has successfully conducted his Highland Sweets cigar and candy store at Central and Second streets, has sold the business to John Unti of McHenry and Cesare Giannoni of Kenosha, and the new proprietors took charge of the store last Saturday. They will continue the business, handling candy, cigars and ice cream, etc. Miss Mafalda Lencioni will continue in the store as clerk. Later the new owners plan some remodeling and improvements. Both are experienced men in their line and come highly recommended and are welcomed to the business life of Highland Park. Mr. Lencioni will devote his attention to his property interests and the bowling alley in his building.
