SAYS 5-DAY WEEK WILL BOOST COSTS

The five-day week is now making rapid progress in the building industry throughout the United States and it seems a matter of a comparatively short time before substantially the entire industry will be operating on this basis, according to a survey completed yesterday by S. W. Straus & company.

"From an economic standpoint the most important current development in the building industry in this country is the rapid drift toward the five-day week," says the report. "Following in its recent adoption by the 12,000 bricklayers in New York City, evidence is at hand indicating the possibility of the entire industry in the Metropolis quickly adopting the short week schedule. According to C. G. Norman, chairman of the board of directors of the New York Building Trades Employers association, the 150,000 building craftsmen in New York and immediate suburbs will be on the five-day schedule by January 1 next. This, he estimates will add approximately $40,000,000 or 4 per cent to New York's annual building bill.

Increase in Cost

"St. Louis comes nearer being completely on the five-day week plan than any other American city. The following building trades are now operating on it there: carpenters, masons, electric workers, lathers, sheet metal finishers, elevator construction metal workers, plumbers, team fitters, asbestos workers and all craftsmen connected with the painters trade.

"The five-day week is gaining considerable headway on the Pacific Coast particularly in San Francisco, Portland and Seattle but has made no appreciable progress in Los Angeles because of the open shop basis.

"Considerable progress is reported in various other important building centers in all parts of the country.

"The adoption nationally of the 40-hour week schedule would add close to a quarter of a billion dollars to the annual building program unless greater labor efficiency through mechanical innovations can be developed. It seems to be the feeling among contractors and builders that this can be accomplished only in part. Fred T. Ley, President of Fred T. Ley & Co. Inc., is of the opinion that some economies may be effected but does not believe that a safe estimate of such economies can now be made. He believes the five-day week schedule will be general throughout the New York Metropolitan Zone within 18 months.

"Oscar W. Rosenthal, official spokesman for contracting interests in Chicago, voices the belief that the 40-hour week schedule will prove a serious handicap to the industry as it will prolong the period of construction on large operations. Builders will then be faced with the alternative of meeting heavy over-time charges or of not being able to get their jobs completed for the May 1, or October 1 rental periods.
