"Very Latest"

by Cecile

When it was whispered about that Roman stripes would have their day this spring we looked for them in the form of scarves and belts and hat bands—not daring to hope for the gypsy touch in more lavish proportions.

It remained for one a bit more adventurous to show us how to make Roman stripes—a substantial part of the costume. Here we see them forming the blouse for a very striking afternoon costume whose tiered skirt of navy chiffon has the approved irregular line. Softly shaded colors of gold, purple, fuschia and red with a tiny streak of green are woven into the striped pattern which is gay without being in the least gaudy.

This costume is one of the favorites in the wardrobe of Gladys Baxter whose burnette beauty adds much to the cast of "Music in May."

Tri-Colors Important Millinery Theme

In Parisian shops the tricolor combination is featured in countless interesting ways in hats for spring and summer. Three tones of one color may achieve this effect in straw or ribbon, and shades such as imperial blue, chartreuse and black, or brown, chartreuse and ivory are put together.

With the plain coat, suit or frock of flat crepe these shaded effects are indeed striking.

Macgregor: "Ay; but it nivir gies itself awa'."
