Tulips

There are so many hundreds of varieties of tulips, ranging in every color, including greens, yellows, pinks, reds, violets, bronze, purples, and blacks, and there is so much difference in height and appearance that they are put in groups of several classifications.

There are the Zizarres, Bybloems, Parrots, Botannicals, Cottage, Breeders, Darwins, and the Double and Single Early besides the new hybrids that are now being brought into the market.

In order to give the people of the North Shore and surrounding territory the advantage of being able to learn and know the difference in the type and character of all the above types and varieties of tulips, Frankен Bros. at Deerfield, have maintained an exhibition or trial grounds for several years past. While there are hundreds of people who take advantage of these grounds each season, in calling and making up a list for their next season's needs the purpose of this article is to impress upon those who have not yet visited their grounds to be sure and call at this time. Garden clubs in a body receive special consideration and their proper executives should get in touch with Frankен Bros. and learn their special offer. In passing through our show grounds this season, we have noted several interesting features, as is always the case when you come to view a trial with more than three hundred and fifty varieties of tulips.

Height of stems is one of the most important things in selecting tulips for your grounds. For an illustration, Faust is the largest and tallest black tulip, Valentine being a lovely shade of lavender, goes beautifully with this tulip. Toning down from the lavender shade to a salmon pink, with Clara Butt, and using Moonlight, a very light yellow for the border give one of the most beautiful and gorgeous combinations the writer has ever seen. While hundreds of combinations can be worked out, that would be similar and in keeping with your own grounds, it is only possible to foresee the beautiful combinations, by actually selecting and making your comparisons while the tulips are in bloom.

Before coming to Frankен Bros. to make your selection for next year's bulbs, it is well to take in mind the various beds in which you wish to plant, and decide about how many tulips you wish in each bed, as you will find that this will simplify matters a great deal when you come to make your selections and decide on quantity immediately.

Frankен Bros. have made a practice of planting their tulips from six to eight inches deep, and it is interesting to note how few tulips come blind or fail to grow at all. Last year in over ten thousand tulips we suffered a loss of less than one hundred.

While this year, there is scarcely a missing bulb in our last Fall's planting. In some beds we spaded in Vigoro before planting the beds and believe we can note good results from this method of fertilization.

Plan a Day at Frankен's and Learn to Know Tulips

FRANKEN BROS. maintain a trial grounds for the benefit of their customers who wish to know and learn Tulips. Plan a day at Frankен's during the blooming period this spring—you can then make selections and reservations for Direct Importation this coming fall. We have for years been closely associated with two of the best houses in Holland who pack your orders individually, especially for you, shipping to us in solid carload consignments, thus keeping the cost of importation to the minimum; in this way giving you the advantage of lower importation costs and enabling us to supply FRANKEN'S SUPERIOR QUALITY BULBS at truly reasonable prices.

More than a thousand people took advantage of this service last year and these people know exactly the color combinations, height, how and where to plant these fine tulips at the time of ordering.

We want everyone receiving this folder to take advantage of this service this season.
