Presbyterian Assembly Favors Church Union; Five Denominations

By practically unanimous rising vote, the 141st general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America, in session last week in St. Paul, Minn., adopted a far-reaching recommendation looking towards organic union of five large protestant church bodies.

The proposal, made on the floor of the assembly, provided for appointment of commissions to confer with similar commissions from the Protestant Episcopal church, the Methodist Episcopal church and the States, generally known as the Presbyterian church south.

The action was taken in answer to an invitation for a commission to consider union, extended by the Protestant Episcopal church at its general convention in Washington in October, 1928. Similarly the other church bodies have had under consideration the proposal for union for some time, but last week's action marks the most active participation in the movement.

Deerfield Students Visit Stock Yards

The wonders of the Union Stock Yards, the world's greatest meat packing center, were viewed by 150 pupils of Deerfield-Shields High school, Highland Park, Friday, May 24, when they went to Chicago over the North Shore line for an educational tour of the metropolis. The party left Central avenue, Highland Park, aboard a three-car special train at 7:35 a. m. (standard time), arriving at Roosevelt road "L" station at 8:45 a. m., whence they proceeded to the stock yards over the Rapid Transit lines. They returned in the afternoon.

Rural Schools Start Closing This Week

The first of the Lake county rural and village schools start closing this week, while some will remain open as late as June 15, it was learned today from T. A. Simpson, county superintendent of schools.

He also reported that Cashmore brothers of Wadsworth, had been awarded the contract to build the addition of Spaulding school. Their bid was slightly under $15,000. The estimated cost of construction had been as high as $21,000.

Woman's 8-Hour Bill Fails in Legislature

Labor lost its biggest fight in the lower branch of the Illinois general assembly last week when the women's eight-hour bill went down to defeat.

The vote was 61 ayes and 61 nays. The affirmative vote was 16 short of the required constitutional majority of 77, however.

Realizing the bill was lost, Representative O'Neill, introducer of the measure, moved to postpone further consideration.

Representative T. J. Sullivan, Springfield, who lead the fight against the bill, moved to table that motion, but withdrew it when he was assured the bill would not be called up again this session.

Offers Bill to Pay for Election Contest

Representative Roger F. Little, majority floor leader in the lower house of the state, introduced a bill last week appropriating about $7,000 to pay attorney fees for election contests this session.

Among the fees to be paid are the following:

Benjamin H. Miller, attorney for Richard J. Lyons, $250; Richard J. Lyons, carfare and hotel paid for his attorney, $154.92; James G. Welsh, attorney for Lee McDonough, $250; Lee McDonough, carfare and hotel bills paid for his attorney, $97; total $751.92 attorney bill of Thomas Bolger, McHenry, who contested the seat from the Eighth district. It is a rule of the legislature that the losing contestant pay his own attorney fees and expenses. The bill has been approved by the appropriations committee.

Big Housing Exhibit At World's Fair, Plan

Tentative plans for staging, during the Chicago World's Fair, the most elaborate and comprehensive housing exhibit ever held in this country are under discussion by N. Max Dunning, Eugene Henry Klaber, Chicago architects, and Dr. Allen D. Albert, assistant to Rufus C. Dawes, president of the centennial celebration.

Both Mr. Dunning, who was director of the requirement division of the United States Housing Corporation during the world war, and Mr. Klaber, who is associated with the Rosenwald development at forty-eighth street and Michigan avenue, have studied modern housing projects in Germany and England.

According to the plan, sufficient space will be set aside in the exposition grounds for laying out a modern village or town built to full "life-size" scale which would be known as the World's Fair Garden Village. The village would include about twenty modern homes, schools, churches, a town hall, fire and police departments, playgrounds and other amusement features, a community center and up-to-date stores. The exhibit would show what the modern home of 1933 would be like, and depict the modern home of the future.

The modern homes shown would express a new type of house designs, not distinctly American, but a composite derived from world experience.

Rental Value of One Parrot Zero, Decision

A Lake county court jury decided the rental value of a talking parrot was zero last week and awarded J. M. Belec a verdict of $385 in a labor suit against Sam Gold, Waukegan apartment owner.

Gold disputed the amount asked by Belec for work on his buildings, citing that he was entitled to some $300 rental on a sanding machine and $50 rental on a talking parrot, which he loaned Belec.

Belec disputed the rental fee asked on the sanding machine and offered Gold $7.50 for the parrot. Gold said he would rather have the parrot back. Judge Persons eliminated the parrot issue by ordering Belec to return the parrot to Gold within 24 hours.
