Camp Fire Flames

Council fire important to Camp Fire Girls Program. The Council Fire is the formal or serious meeting in the Camp Fire Girl's program. Girls themselves talk at a Council Fire or read a favorite poem or tell a short story which carries some message. Many times the girls plan the program for the Council Fire and often times committees take charge of the preparation. The setting of a Council Fire is picked for its beauty either outdoors or indoors. Usually the Council Fire begins with the Wohelo call. The girls salute their guardian, who stands in the center of the circle with the hand sign (the hand sign of the fire used as a salutation is made by holding the left hand in front and about two inches from body at about the waist line, keeping elbow at right angle and flattening the fingers of the right hand against those of the left. This indicates the crossed logs.) Often the sparks for the fire is made by rubbing sticks. When the spark is made, a candle or taper is lighted from it and then with ceremony the fire is kindled. The Camp Fire Girls are very fortunate in having several beautiful songs written specially for use at their Council Fires.
