HINTS FOR THE HOME

"What pieces of silver will she need first," is a question that comes to all who make the bride a gift of sterling. And the most practical way to answer it is to lay out a dinner menu for at least four, and see just what is required to serve the meal correctly.

For the soup course. Select 4 dessert spoons; they are quite proper, and can be used for serving spoons at other times. Instead of bread and butter spreaders, 4 tea knives. (These can also be used for breakfast and luncheon service.) For the meat course, 4 dinner knives and forks; for salad, 4 dessert forks (instead of salad forks, which serve only the one purpose); for dessert, 4 more dessert forks will be needed, and 4 after dinner coffee spoons. And to this collection it is wise to add a dozen tea spoons.

"Sixes and eights" of each are of course the ideal numbers in the gift of sterling flat ware. But as a minimum, the selections given will do the greatest service.

For Friday Night
Salmon Chowder

Fish Cakes Spaghetti
Tomato Sauce
Egg Salad
Lemon Meringue Pie
Iced Tea

Italian Hash

Place ¼ lb. boiled and drained macaroni in a buttered baking dish; add a little butter and grated cheese; make a nest in the macaroni and fill center with chopped cooked meat seasoned highly. Place in the oven until very hot. Tomato sauce may be used for moistening, if desired.

Apples and Cheese Balls

Pare crisp, sweet apples and shape with a vegetable cutter into small balls, then dress with French dressing and let stand until chilled. To mashed cream cheese add a little Worcestershire sauce, salt and chopped canned pimiento. Shape into balls the same size as apple balls; garnish with pimiento; serve with French dressing.

The folks who receive threatening letters need not necessarily be alarmed. Most of the people who make the real trouble don't give out any advance notices.
