

Some folks' idea of ambition is to entertain prejudice against working with their hands.

A lucky man is one who, when he has one foot on a banana peel, has his other foot on a wad of gum.—Watertown Times.

Many of those who object to work most fiercely are still willing to work their friends.

The greatest difficulty about the back to the soil movement is that many persons fear it means back to the toil.

THE FEAR OF DEATH.
A BRAVE COW.

This nation, with its annual income of Ninety Thousand Millions of dollars, treats education generously. But the value of education depends not on money, but on the brains on which the education money is spent. A crop depends not entirely on the seed, but more on the soil.

Nearly nine hundred years ago, when Abelard, taught logic and theology to young men in the University of Paris, they gathered in Wintertime in a stone lined room, not heated, taking notes by candlelight.

And, many, too poor to pay for candles, climbed the church steeple on bright moonlight nights, to continue their studies there by moonlight.

A few such students might be worth more to the world than a thousand million dollars of endowment. Edison gave to the world more money than wealth has ever given to education. So did Pasteur. Neither ever went to college.

Ramsay MacDonald, flying from Scotland to London in a British bombing plane, a parachute strapped over his leather flying coat, read Hazlitt on the way.

Hazlitt, who worked himself into a fury over the French Revolution, quarrelling with everybody that did not approve it, little thought that within 100 years of his death, a Socialist Laborite would be Prime Minister of England, without any revolution.

Still less did Hazlitt imagine that a British Labor Prime Minister would fly to his work.

Max D. Steuer, brilliant New York lawyer, says the best cure for any man that fears death is Hazlitt's essay on death.

Briefly Hazlitt says that, since we don't worry because we were not alive 100 years ago, we should not worry because we won't be alive or conscious a hundred years hence.

In rural England, a huge lion, knocked out of his cage in an automobile collision, jumped into a cow pasture. A cow with a young calf dashed at him, and gored him, attacking him again and again, until he killed her. Others, later, killed him.

The cow, not the lion, is the interesting animal, in that story, for she represents mother love, with its boundless courage. How many men would have attacked the lion with no better weapon than a cow's horns.

Consider also the marvellous inheritance of memory. The cow's ancestors, probably, had not seen a dangerous wild beast, in more than 1,000 years. But, at sight, the cow knew that the lion meant danger to her calf, and rushed to the attack. Man is not the only animal "fearfully and wonderfully made."

According to statistics one and a third billion dollars are expended each year in America for cakes. Yet the World war proved that we are not a nation of cake eaters.

An eastern educator says that big classes are tending to flivverize the schools. Well, that ought to enable the youngsters to get a rattling good education.
