

Horseless Farm Is Near Realization

That the "horseless" farm has at last come to stay is indicated by an agricultural survey made by Farm and Fireside, which shows 1500 important farms in 34 states, all operated without animal power.

Nearly every type of farming is represented in the list, which marks the completion of a decade during which the tractor has been in general use throughout the United States.

The tireless power of the machine to plow deep and long has been adapted to so many other uses that implement manufacturers predict that within a few years "horseless and horsefly-less farms" will be too commonplace to mention.

Sir Oliver Lodge says that everyone will soon live to be a hundred years old. Maybe so, but it will take the children born this year at least a century to do it.

BRIEF NEWS ITEMS FROM LAKE COUNTY

Interesting Happenings About This Part of North Shore; County Seat

A bolt of lightning, scoting wantonly down the chimney at the home of Edwin Johnson, 565 Washington Park avenue, Waukegan, left its strange mark all over the second floor bedroom during Thursday night's storm.

Albert J. Jewell, former owner of a drug store at 225 South Genesee street, died at his home at 1017 North avenue, Waukegan, last week, after an extended illness. He was 53 years old.

Mrs. Nettie Howard, a resident of Zion for nearly 20 years, died at her home in that city last week. She is survived by two sons, John, of Waukegan, and Graydon, of Chicago, and one daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Gnorske of Zion, and two brothers, George Voysey of Alberta, Canada, and William Voysey of Waupaca, Wis.

Word was received last week of the death of A. L. Stafford, a former Libertyville resident, at his home, 520 Enterprise street, Elgin, where he had made his home since moving there nine years ago.

Believed to have been driven insane after a period of despondency and depression over his physical condition, Alex Benson, 41 years old, went to the basement of his home at 318 Belvidere street, Waukegan, and slashed his throat with a razor. He was dead when found two hours later by his wife.

With the temporary drive against prohibition violators in Lake county having temporarily closed the bars and blind pigs at the lake resorts in the western part of the county, Sheriff L. A. Doglittle stated last week that hip liquor sales are keeping palates from being parched by the hot sun at the summer resorts of the county.

That the United States government, or at least a concern engaged in the manufacturing of clothing for the army and navy, is considering the location of a large plant in Waukegan has become known following the visits of representatives to Waukegan during the past several weeks.

Burglars, operating in the dead of night, entered two Lake Bluff homes last night, frightened the sleeping occupants of the home and carried off six gallons of wine from one place, according to Chief of Police Eugene Spaid.

The First National bank of Lake Forest has purchased the Quigley property on Deerpath at Bank lane, and plans in the near future to erect a handsome and commodious building thereon for bank purposes.

Of course we don't know anything about the new premier of England, but it's our guess that a man with a Scotch name like MacDonald would be in favor of an economy program.
