

RAVINIA PROGRAM FOR COMMING WEEK

Is Fifth of Season and List of Attractions Especially Interesting

With the advent of the fifth week of Ravinia Opera which begins Sunday, July 21, Mr. Eckstein again draws heavily upon the seemingly limitless repertoire at his disposal and provides not only an array of operas which have not been heard thus far during the summer, but likewise provide dimensions for those world artists whose names adorn the roster. It will be an auspicious week in every way, and in addition to the operatic performances which will occupy the seven nights of the week, there will be an elaborate concert of German music as the second of the Ravinia series of Sunday afternoon national concerts, and likewise the annual carnival which for many years has been the high spot of the children's Thursday afternoon events.

"An afternoon of German music and German composers" has been scheduled for Sunday afternoon, July 21, the program to be given by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Mr. Delamarter, with Jacques Gordon, violinist, as soloist. There will be present on this occasion the German Consul of Chicago, Mr. W. Schueller and the Vice-consul, Dr. Herman Schmid-Krutine. Consul Schueller will speak. The orchestral program will include works by Beethoven, Mozart, Handel, Mendelssohn, Wagner, Goldmark and Weber-Weingartner and Mr. Gordon will offer as his solo group the Prize Song from Wagner's "Meistersinger," the Waltz in E minor of Brahms, arranged by Mr. Gordon and Contradances by Beethoven, arranged by Elman. There is no charge for reserved seats at these Sunday afternoon concerts, the general admission at the gate covering everything.

Sunday Night

Sunday night, Wagner's "Lohengrin" will be presented, thus continuing the German spirit of the afternoon. Mme. Elisabeth Rethberg will be heard as Elsa, a role in which she enjoys international reputation, while Edward Johnson will have the name part. Julia Claussen will sing the role of Ortrud, Desire Defrere will be Telramund, George Cehanovsky the King's Herald. Louis Hasselmanns will conduct.

As was only to be expected, the announcement that Puccini's "La Rondine" would be given its first Ravinia performance last Tuesday night, brought a rush of patrons to the box-office with the result that there was a speedy sell-out. But Mr. Eckstein has met the situation by arranging an immediate repetition of this new opera, which will be given as an extra performance on Monday night, July 22. Mme. Bori will have the

Gratified at Results of Advertisement in Highland Park Press

How large advertisers value the service of a good medium like the Highland Park Press and how they appreciate the splendid results obtained by advertising in the Press is well known to many, and it is seldom that the Press mentions the many letters received of the same tenor as the one reprinted below, which speaks for itself. It follows: Chicago, July 13, 1929

The Udell Printing Co., 526 Central Avenue, Highland Park, Illinois.

Gentlemen:

Enclosed please find check in the amount of Twenty-three dollars and Fifty-two cents to cover the cost of our display advertisement of Fireworks at the White Store in Deerfield.

The results obtained through the medium of your advertising was certainly gratifying and really above my expectations. I had a stock of Fireworks valued at $1,000 and could have sold probably $250 more as I completely sold out my stock. Considering that only four days were allowed me by local ordinance to sell that amount of goods, I feel that you should receive your share of the credit due you.

Looking forward to an ever greater year in 1930 and the use of more space in more of your papers at that time, I remain,

Yours very truly,

Deerfield Man Sees Fool-Proof Airplane As Early Production

An airplane that any man can operate—a foolproof air flivver—is just around the corner!

This was the prediction made here today by Erwin Greer, president of Greer college and head of the Illinois Aviation society, in a speech before a group of officers of the society. Mr. Greer is a resident of Deerfield.

This new plane, according to Mr. Greer, will rise fast, land slowly, keep right side up in the air, refuse to "spin" or "stunt" and will be as easily controlled as an automobile.

"One of the major airplane manufacturing companies has spent two years and half a million dollars perfecting such a plane," Mr. Greer declared, "and it is almost ready to be announced."

"The new craft is a monoplane. In general it follows the line of present day design, but in appearance it is birdlike and in its important features it is decidedly different from the average monoplane.

"The first model designed was a training plane designed for maximum safety, which, I believe, was accomplished.

"This new plane lands at seventeen miles an hour; has a stalling speed of twenty-five miles an hour; will not spin nor can it be forced over on its back. It is impossible to dive or stunt such a ship, which keeps the amateur pilot out of trouble. It will maintain level flight without help from the pilot and will almost land itself when the controls are released.

"The solution of the problem of building a safe plane was simple. Two factors, each generally known to the aircraft industry, were combined to obtain stability in flight and slow speed in landing. These are large wing surfaced and controls and "dihedral wings"—that is, a wing that rises about six inches from the body at each tip.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Peterson of Vine avenue have motored to Rochester, Minn., to see their son Jack.
