Lotus Beds at Grass Lake Start Blooming

Nature lovers who have been wont to travel to Grass Lake in years past to view the beautiful lotus blossoms that bloom on that lake will have a more splendid sight this year than ever before, according to Jack O'Connor, owner of Blarney Island, which is located in the middle of the lake.

Blooming of the lotus beds, which are famous all over the world, started early this week. By the end of the week there will be thousands of the flowers spreading all over the surface of the lake.

According to O'Connor, there will be eight to ten times as many blossoms this year as there were last year. Although visitors are allowed to pick some of them, the authorities at the lake try to keep the culling within reasonable limits, so that future visitors may have something to look at. The blooms will be on the lake until September.
