of every roof we cover with tin or sheet metal is a testimonial to the superiority of our workmanship. When it comes to the matter of lasting qualities and general satisfaction, the strongest testimonial we can offer is that furnished by the people we have worked for.

Souls for Sale

both soul and body an almost fatal shock. She was a drudge in a poor family in a scorched settlement abandoned by all that could get away.

The only inferiors she could see were a young widow named Dack and her five-year-old boy, Terry. Mrs. Dack took in washing.

The boy Terry was of the Ariel breed. His fancy girdled the earth in forty minutes. He mimicked birds and animals and often covered his mother with terror and amused chagrin by imitating her clients with uncanny skill.

Once the child caught cold—in all that heat!—and Mem sat by his bedside through several smothering nights, while the back-broken mother slept. Mem exercised her skill in making up little dramas to while away the tedium of the long nights and to keep the wakeful child's mind from his cough.

During his illness Mem received a letter from Leva Lemaire, saying that she had just seen in an old paper a paragraph describing "Mrs. Woodville's" fall from the mountain and her miraculous escape from death. Leva expressed the utmost sympathy and prayed that her beauty had not been marred. She added:

"But if it has, you can still find something to do in the movies. I've given up trying to be an actress and taken a position in the laboratory projection room, correcting the films. It's cool and dark and interesting. I think I can get you a place, if you'll come up. There's no excuse for a woman of your education and charm wasting your sweetness on the desert air. Do come! I've sent my three children out to their uncle's ranch. You could live here with me and my friends."

The thought of working in the dark and the cool was a hint of Paradise to Mem.

Waukegan Club Members Play Golf in Pajamas

Members of the Lions, Rotary, Kiwanis and A. B. C. clubs gathered at Our Country club at Antioch, Thursday of last week, attired in the newest and most flaming pajamas obtainable and proceeded to play for the pajama golf championship of the world.

A first aid tent was erected on the golf course and a man with a sewing machine was housed therein to render first aid to those unfortunate golfers who happened to tear holes in their pajamas by swinging their golf clubs too hard.

News-reel camera men were present to take pictures of the golfers. Before the playing started, the assembled golfers posed for the photographers.

People lined the road nearby to watch the tourney while a number of guests of the various clubs followed the players.

The Federal Reserve Board has tried to put a curb on speculation in the stock market but it could do more good if it could find a way to put a curb on political speculation at Washington.
